PITT HUMBLED BY TROJANS ON COAST, 35 TO 0

PANTHERS CRUSHED BY SUPERIOR FOES

By BRIAN BELL.

Rose Bowl, Pasadena, Calif., Jan. 2 (A.P.).—It is still true that a good, big man will beat a good, little one in the ring or on the football field, so Southern California defeated Pittsburgh in the annual Tournament of Roses game today, 35 to 0.

A near-capacity crowd of 83,000 looked on, first with enthusiasm and then in amazement, as the Trojans moved briskly to their twentieth consecutive victory.

The Easterners held the Stalwarts from the West to a single touchdown advantage for the first half, had to concede another in the third period and then crumbled in the final quarter before three counters. A fumble paved the way for one of the last-minute scores, and a blocked kick made another possible.

Trojans Carry Too Many Guns.

The boys from the Alleghenies put up a brave defense early in the game, but the Trojans carried too many guns for them. At that, although routed, the Pittsburghers fought back savagely to the last, forcing the winners to shoot three plays at Pitt from the 2-yard line before they could get the ball over for the last touchdown.

The visitors had only two good chances to score, and they could not find the combination either time. Once after Henry Weisenbaugh had placed his side deep in Southern California territory with a 38-yard run, the ball was lost when a forward pass fell behind the end zone. Next time a fumble removed the temporary menace to the home hopes.

The margin of 35 points was the largest compiled in the 18 years of Rose tournament play. Pitt had the unenviable record of having the previous record of 33 points difference charged against it, the score between the same two teams three years ago being 47 to 14.

Fourth Bowl Triumph for Trojans.

The victory represented Troy's fourth triumph in as many Rose Bowl appearances, a feat unparalleled by any other team.

While the game had no official championship rating, many football fans regarded it as a national titular contest.

After the game Coach Jock Sutherland, of Pittsburgh, said Southern

Ahmet Muhtar Denies Asking to Be Retired

(Associated Press.)

Ahmet Muhtar Bey, Turkish Ambassador to Washington, was the most surprised man in Washngton when he read press dispatches yesterday morning from Istanbul stating that he has asked to be retired. "I have not asked for retirement, and there must be some mistake about the announcement," the ambassador said. "There has been no intimation to me that any successor is to be sent here."

Fethi Bey, former Turkish ambassador to Paris, was mentioned in the Istanbul dispatches as the man who would probably be sent to Washington.

Austrian Farmers' Rioting Is Averted

No Serious Fights Reported, but Officials Fear That Trouble May Spread.

Graz, Austria, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Farmers who engaged in a demonstration against the authorities' attempt to compel payment of sickness insurance and other social benefit premiums by employers of farm labor were dispersed peacefully tonight. Assurance was given them that four peasants arrested in connection with recent disorders would be released.

Precautionary measures had been taken to prevent any possible violence growing out of the farmers' threatened march on the city hall at Hartberg. Highways had been barricaded and machine guns posted at several points.

No serious clashes were reported, but officials feared the trouble might spread to all Styria. Police used bayonets to disperse a mob which stormed the city hall at Borau, near Hartberg, Friday, and a few days before two officials who tried to sell a hog for taxes at Rechberg were manhandled by a crowd.

Smith's Loss

Mrs. Moskowitz, "Power Behind Throne" 14 Years, Expires.

MRS. BELLE MOSKOWITZ.

New York, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Mrs. Belle Moskowitz, who was called "the power behind Al Smith's throne," died today.

A heart attack, following a fall on December 8, removed from the political scene the 55-year-old grandmother who came to be widely known as No. 1 strategist for the former New York governor.

APPOMATTOX YIELDS 2 CANOEISTS' BODIES

Long Hunt Ends as Receding River Gives Up Victims Near Petersburg.

Petersburg, Va., Jan. 2 (A.P.).—A long search for George Harrison, jr., 18, and Holmes Boisseau, jr., 19, came to an end today when their bodies were found in the upper waters of the Appomattox River.

The youthful victims fought a losing battle with the river, where they went last Wednesday on a holday canoe trp. The bodies were found lying about 60 feet apart on ground that is dry when the river is within its banks. Recession of turbulent waters exposed them to searchers this afternoon.

Separate funeral services for them will be held tomorrow. Boisseau will be buried first. His funeral service will be held at 1:30 p. m. at the grave in Blandford Cemetery, with the Rev. John B. Winn, pastor of Washington Street M. E. Church, officiating, assisted by the Rev. J. W. Morris, rector of Grace Episcopal Church. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Holmes Boisseau, sr., one brother, James Daniel Boisseau, and one sister, Annie Goodwyn.

At 3:30 o'clock funeral services for young Harrison will be held at Christ Episcopal Church, with the Rev. Edwin R. Carter officiating. Harrison is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George West Harrison, sr., and three sisters, Mary S. C. Harrison, Della Bryan Harrison and Dorothy Nicholas Harrison. His burial also will be in Blandford Cemetery.

Discovery of the bodies this afternoon ended an ordeal for the youth's parents and friends. Citizens of Petersburg gave their services unstintingly in the search, which started last Thursday night. Carroll McCann and Edward Lucas, two companions, fought their way to safety after their own canoe had overturned. The bodies were brought to Petersburg tonight.

Bolivians Say Attack By Paraguay Stopped

La Paz, Bolivia, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—The general staff tonight issued a bulletin saying that attacks by Paraguayan forces in the Gran Chaco had been repulsed by the Bolivians after a series of brilliant charges.

The bulletin added that the enemy fled southeastward from the Duarte sector south of Aguarica and near Coriales, where the conflicts occurred.

Gov. Bryan Worse; Oxygen Gas Given

Members of His Family at Bedside; Respirator Is Installed.

Lincoln, Nebr., Jan. 2 (A.P.).—The condition of Gov. Charles W. Bryan, ill of heart disease, took a serious turn today. An artificial respirator was installed at his bedside and oxygen gas was administered in an effort to build up the executive's vitality and stimulate heart action.

The 65-year-old governor, a brother of William Jennings Bryan, has been ill since the recent election in which he was returned to office for a third term.

LELLI'S FRIENDS FAIL TO CLARIFY SLAYING PUZZLE

MAN WAS SEEN HERE DAY BEFORE MURDER

Heel Prints Are Found Near Spot Where Riddled Body Was Discovered.

Information received last night from friends of the murdered Guilio Lelli, 28, of Tarrytown, N. Y., served only to deepen the mystery surrounding his death.

Not one fact which would point toward the motive or the murderers of the young Italian, whose bullet-riddled body was found on Jones Mill road in North Chevy Chase Sunday afternoon was learned from the questioning of persons with whom he had been living.

Police of Montgomery County and the District are still at odds as to which should handle the case, as it is apparent that the man was taken in an automobile and his body dragged to the lonely spot where it was found.

Seen Here Saturday.

Lelli was last seen about 2 p. m. Saturday by a man who had befriended and permitted him to share him room in a downtown hotel. Then he told his friend he was going out "for a good time" on New Year's eve.

It was learned from this man that Lelli had come to Washington about three months ago and had lived with Alfred Mori, a friend of his native town of Spezia in Italy, at Capitol Heights, Md.

For the last ten days the young Italian had been living at the hotel. His acquaintance there said he was looking for a job. Lelli had no friends or companions and never mentioned a thing which would indicate that he was engaged in any "racket" or that he feared for his life.

Name on Slip of Paper.

To Detective Sergts. Dennis Murphy and George Darnell, of the Washington homicide squad, there remains but a single clew to follow, the name of a man which was found on a piece of paper in the dead man's pocket. Late last night they had not located this person.

Mori and the second friend of Lelli went to Rockville last night and viewed the body which was at the undertaking parlors of Warner E. Pumphrey. They talked with State's Attorney Stedman A. Prescott, who referred them to Washngton authorities.

Believed Slain Here.

With the further proof that Lelli was seen in Washington only 24 hours before his body was found and about half that time before he was killed—he had been dead about ten hours when his body was found—authorities have drawn a logical conclusion that he was slain in the city.

Concerning clews about the actual crime or its motive they are less conclusive. Sergts. Darnell and Murphy have not accepted the theory that he was a gangster and that his death was due to some gambling or liquor row.

Montgomery County authorities are positive the man was not shot where he was found. Detective Theodore Vollten discovered the tracks of the automobile in which his body was taken to the lonely "Lovers' Lane."

From the condition and posture in which the body was lying Vollten

Destroyer Wins Race To Save Stricken Man

Colon, Panama Canal Zone, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—The U. S. destroyer Overton today won a fast race against time when it brought Private C. D. Bramdon, of Limona, Fla., who had been stricken with appendicitis, to a hospital here.

An operation was successfully performed at the Navy Base Hospital ten minutes after the arrival of the ship. The destroyer came from Bluefields bringing 45 Marines, under the command of Lieut. John Grevel, from Nicaragua. Its average speed for the voyage was 21 knots.

Chile Offers U. S. Post To Augustin Edwards

Santiago, Chile, Jan. 2 (U.P.).—The Chilean government today offered the American ambassadorship to Augustin Edwards, who was first president of the League of Nations. Edwards had neither accepted nor rejected the offer tonight.

He was Chilean Minister to London during the World War and was Chile's representative on the Tacna-Arica Plebiscitory Commission.

Dail Is Out

Ireland to Vote on Jan. 24; Action Result of Civil Pay Cuts Dispute.

Dublin, Irish Free State (Tuesday), Jan. 3 (A.P.).—The government sprang a surprise early this morning with the sensational announcement it had decided to dissolve the Dail Eireann and to hold the general elections January 24.

The decision was taken at a prolonged cabinet meeting after which President De Valera, whose government recently was assailed because of its stand on civil service pay reductions, informed newspaper men that the Dail had been dissolved and that the new congress would meet February 8.

The president declared that the country's attitude toward the government's program left no doubt that the government enjoys the confidence of the electorate.

It has been a systematic policy of the government's political opponents, President De Valera added, to create doubt in this matter. He added that this policy had operated in a most damaging manner to national interests, both as regards external and internal affairs.

With the exception that reductions involving 50 per cent of the basic remuneration would be suspended, pending the report of a committee studying labor costs, President De Valera's plan for bonus cuts went into effect yesterday.

Wadsworth Denies He Seeks Position of Militant Upstarter.

By J. BERNARD McDONNELL.

Representative Bertrand H. Snell, of New York, who has won increasing recognition and respect in his party during his tenure as Republican leader in the House, apparently is going to be reelected to that post without any serious opposition in the next Congress.

Political gossip has been active in connection with theories on the prospective reconstruction of the Republican party since the devastating —to Republicans—recent elections and a shifting of power from one hand to another has been a popular pastime.

Representative-elect James W. Wadsworth, of New York, former senator and popular and widely known figure has, however, set at rest published reports that he was ambitious to celebrate his advent in the House by attempting to assume the reins of leadership of his party.

Advices received from Mr. Wadsworth deny any ambition on his part

France Places Ban On New Employes

Paris, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Premier Joseph Paul-Boncour and Henry Cheron, minister of finance, began the new year today with a sweeping economy measure suspending, until December 31, 1933, the hiring of civil servants, agents, workmen and other employes of state administrations. President Lebrun affixed his signature to the decree.

Any exceptions to this nation-wide rule must be justified by a decree signed by the minister of finance and the minister of the particular department interested.

The measure also applies to voluntary recruiting for the army and navy, the 1933 budget for which will make substantial reductions from 1932 figures.

SENATE GROUPS ACTING RAPIDLY ON WET BILLS

Judiciary Body Will Hear Arguments on Beer Saturday.

REPEAL RESOLUTION PARLEY TOMORROW

Proposals to Redraft Collier Plan Discussed Despite Quorum Absence.

(Associated Press.)

Signs of swift action on beer and prohibition repeal legislation made themselves evident yesterday as the Senate's holiday recess expired.

The Senate judiciary committee granted hearings on the House 3.2 per cent beer bill, but limited them to six hours, while a subcommittee meeting was called for tomorrow to complete the draft of a resolution to repeal the eighteenth amendment.

Senator Blaine, Wisconsin Republican who heads the subcommittee in charge of both pieces of legislation, predicted it would dispose of the repeal question tomorrow and said it might be able to report on beer by next week.

3 Hours on Each Side.

The Collier beer bill, which passed the House by a vote of 230 to 165, was sent to Blaine's subcommittee with instructions to confine the hearings to arguments on the constitutionality of the measure and to limit them to three hours on each side.

The hearing will be held Saturday at 9:30, with the aim to complete it that same day and report back to the full committee at its meeting next Monday if possible.

The subcommitteZe will consider several proposals for redrafting the Collier bill to remove questions of its constitutionality, but Blaine and other members said they did not expect this to delay consideration.

These proposals for redrafting the bill were discussed informally by the judiciary committee yesterday despite the absence of a quorum.

Fear Adverse Decision.

One of them, which received favorable comment, was to drop the attempt to define an intoxicating percentage of alcohol in beer and merely declare that the penalties of the Volstead law shall apply only to those beverages above a certain alcoholic percentage.

Under this plan no effort would be made to say, for instance, that 3.2 per cent beer is not intoxicating, which some senators feel might draw an adverse decision from the Supreme Court. Instead, the law would read that beverages containing more than 3.2 per cent alcohol would be subject to the penalties of the Volstead law, while those containing that amount or less would be subject only to taxation.

Senator Dill (Democrat), Washington, a member of the Blaine subcommittee, said he thought that sug-

Patek Leaves Warsaw For Capital Embassy

Warsaw, Poland, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Poland's new Ambassador to the United States, Stanislaus Patek, left Warsaw this evening for America by way of Cherbourg, whence he sails January 4 on the Aquitania.

To a representative of the Associated Press, Mr. Patek said he was extremely pleased about his new post because he had been anxious to visit America all his life. "Now my life's dream will be accomplished," he said.

WALLED CITY IN CHINA IS TAKEN BY JAPANESE IN AIR AND LAND DRIVE

This map's dotted area in Jehol and inner Mongolia depicts that area next China proper where Japanese authority merges gradually with Chinese. There have been frequent reports that China fears a complete conquest of Jehol. Shanhaikwan, the city for control of which a bitter battle was waged yesterday and today, is situated almost due east of Peiping, at the point where the Great Wall touches the sea.

Gen. Kotaro Gives Stern Warning To Chang.

SHANHAIKWAN FIGHT SCENE

Tokyo (Tuesday), Jan. 3 (A.P.).—Japanese and Manchukuo flags floated today over Shanhaikwan, within the Great Wall of China.

According to Japanese military reports, occupation of the ancient city was completed by the Japanese last night after brisk fighting which began early in the afternoon with the arrival of a portion of a Japanese regiment stationed at Suichung.

The Chinese garrison which had been stationed at Shanhaikwan was said to have been withdrawn to Chinwangtao, where reinforcements were arriving.

Japanese Destroyer Ready.

A Japanese destroyer arrived off Shanhaikwan last night and was ready for action. Another Japanese destroyer departed from Port Arthur in the direction of Shanhaikwan last night.

Both sides were awaiting the next portentous developments which are expected to determine whether the trouble will be localized in the Shanhaikwan area or spread to the province of Jehol and involve Peiping and Tientsin.

Lieut. Gen. Kotaro Nakamura, the Japanese commander in Tientsin, issued a stern communication to Gen. Chang Hsiao-Liang, former Governor of Manchuria and a Chinese military leader, in which it was charged that Gen. Chang's subordinates were entirely to blame for the fighting at Shanhaikwan, "which the Japanese army was unable to overlook."

Warns Against Further Move.

"If your forces attempt further action against us, a grave situation will result in all of northern China for which you will be entirely responsible," Gen. Kotaro declared.

A Rengo (Japanese) News Agency dispatch from Changchun reported that headquarters were awaiting fuller accounts of the Shanhaikwan fighting, but were disposed toward a "very strong attitude."

Peiping, China, Jan. 2 (U.P.).—Combining hand-to-hand street fighting with an aerial bombardment, Japanese troops tonight had pushed past the Great Wall into China proper to occupy the important Chinese garrison city of Shanhaikwan.

Prolonged Fighting.

Complete occupation of the walled city, most important strategic point on the Chinese-Manchurian border, was effected after prolonged fighting which began yesterday at 9:30 p. m.

Details of Japan's latest bold stroke, thought by some to be the initial movement toward seizure of the Province of Jehol, were little more than fragmentary, due to interruption of communications. It was known, however, that at least a dozen Chinese and at least three Japanese were killed early in the fighting. Several Japanese buildings in the city and the railway were bombed.

HOUSE TODAY VIEWS DISTRICT BEER BILL

Merger Changes and Other Local Business Slated in Busy Week.

The District's busiest week on Capitol Hill since the opening of the short session, with pending local issues running the gamut of beer and rents to local relief and traction consolidation, will get under way today with the return of members from New Year recess.

Representative Loring M. Black, jr. (Democrat), New York, will start the ball rolling by introduction of his District beer bill, framed in collaboration with Rufus S. Lusk, of The Crusaders, Lusk, who informally contacted District officials, will confer with Black this morning on the final draft of the measure.

Representative Mary T. Norton (Democrat), New Jersey, chairman of the House District committee, will call a meeting of that body tomorrow, to dispose of the local street railway merger. The bill has passed House and Senate, but awaits House approval of Senate changes.

Representative Clarence Cannon (Democrat), Missouri, chairman of the House District appropriations subcommittee, will serve notice on the District Commissioners and other

Man Is Found Dead In Unrented House

Name Written on Piece of Paper Only Clew to Identification.

Lying face downward, a well dressed man, about 60 years old, was found dead on the kitchen floor of an untenanted house at 820 Underwood street northwest yesterday afternoon. The burners of the gas range were flowing and it is believed the man had been dead two or three days.

He was fully clad in a light gray suit, dark overcoat, light hat and dark shoes. A slip of paper with the name "H. F. Smith" written on it, was the only thing found on the body which might lead to his identification. The dead man was described as being about 5 feet 7 inches tall, and weighing about 150 pounds.

Stanley J. Brand, of 2706 Brentwood road northeast, discovered the body when he went to look at the house with a view to renting it. He called the Rescue Squad, who in turn called the Emergency Hospital ambulance.

Receivership Is Sought For Baltimore Car Lines

Baltimore, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—The General Electric Co. today filed in United States District Court a petition for receivership of the United Railways & Electric Co., operator of trolley and bus service in Baltimore.

The traction company's board of directors, in a statement issued by Lucien S. Storrs, president of the concern, admitted its inability to continue operations and authorized the filing of answers admitting the necessity for receivership.

CHILE EDICT ORDERS COSACH LIQUIDATION

Committee of Three to Be Named; Nitrate Action May Take 2 Years or More.

Santiago, Chile, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—President Arturo Allesandri today signed a decree ordering the liquidation of the Cosach nitrate combine, which controlled the world's largest nitrate plant.

The decree said that the liquidating committee would be composed of one representative of Cosach, one from the government, and one from the supreme court.

President Allesandri sent a message to congress asking for special arrangements concerning the modus operandi.

Interested circles believe that the liquidation will require a long period, probably more than two years; thus, the present situation is maintained with the only difference that full powers governing operations are centered in the liquidating committee.

President Alessandri, who took office nine days ago, has been a foe of Cosach since its organization and for some weeks has been at work with a view to bringing about greater governmental control of the nitrate industry.

His decree followed by a few hours a manifesto in which the president demanded reconstruction of the country "politically, economically, socially and morally."

Sweeping internal economies have been made in Cosach, the government-producer cooperative combine,

America's Entire Fleet Begins Maneuvers Today

San Pedro, Calif., Jan 2 (A.P.).—The entire combatant force of the United States Fleet will put to sea from the San Pedro-San Diego area tomorrow on a three day tactical program.

The exercises will be a prelude to the greater show of the spring war games between California and Hawaii in which, like this week's maneuvers, more than 100 surface craft, 300 aircraft and a personnel of 40,000 will participate.

President Sacasa's Cabinet Announced

Moncada and Aguado Are Mentioned as Envoy to Washington.

Leonardo Arguello, foreign minister.
Clodomiro Urcuyo, education.
Heliodoro Robleto, public health.
Gonzalo Ocon, government.
Jose Maria Zelaya, public works.
Onofre Sandoval, agriculture.

The minister to the United States was not announced, but it was reported that the post would go either to former vice president, Enoc Aguado, or to former President Jose Maria Moncada.

Love Rift Bared as Woman Ends Life on Bed of Roses

Former Wife of Douglas Williams, Member of New York Brokerage Firm, Found Dead in Paris; Was Well Known in Washington.

London, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—A romance of love and brilliant social life, then hardship and tragedy, was bared here tonight with identification of a woman who shot herself on a rose-strewn bed in Paris a week ago as Mrs. Nina Williams, former wife of Douglas Williams, a member of a New York stock brokers firm.

Ten days ago the woman, who was Russian by birth, put her 5-year-old daughter in school at Seven Oaks, Kent, and left for Paris, presumably on business.

Two days later the woman, who had registered at a hotel as "Marie Hall," was found shot on a bed strewn with roses. The photograph was just as she had left it, with the needle at the end of a record called "Evening Bells," sung by a choir.

The body lay unidentified for days, but her brother here learned of the tragedy by telegram this morning and immediately departed for Paris to take charge.

Her marriage to Mr. Williams was dissolved several years ago. She was well known in New York and Washington.

Reuters News Agency said the body had been identified by a Russian man friend in Paris Saturday night. Her brother and a sister of Mr. Williams were informed of the identification by telegraph today.

SPEAKER GIVES UP HIS SEAT IN HOUSE

Garner Ends Speculation by Resigning in Letter to Texas Governor.

(Associated Press.)

Speaker John N. Garner has settled the question of resigning an office he does not hold.

The Texan was elected to the Vice Presidency and to the next Congress simultaneously in November. There has been some question of whether he can resign as representative because he has not taken the oath.

"I've put it up to the authorities in Texas," Mr. Garner said yesterday, as he made public a letter of resignation to Gov. Ross Sterling. He said he hoped that it would be accepted, so a successor could be elected before March 4. His letter of resignation, dated December 31, 1932, follows:

"My dear Gov. Sterling: I hereby tender to you my resignation as member-elect to the national House of Representatives for the Seventy-third Congress, the term of which commences on March 4, 1933. My election as Vice President of the United States makes it impossible for me to qualify as a member of the Seventy-third Congress.

"I submit my resignation at this time so you may take such action as you deem proper to select my successor that he may qualify by March 4 next.

"With kindest personal regards, I am

"Sincerely and cordially yours,

(Signed) "JOHN N. GARNER."

Austin, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Gov. R. S. Sterling is expected to call a special election soon for the Fifteenth Congressional District to name a successor to John N. Garner, who has forwarded his resignation to the chief executive.

Maury Hughes, of Dallas, chairman of the Texas Democratic executive committee, has been advocating an elimination primary for Democratic candidates to succeed Garner. Approximately fifteen Democrats have been mentioned as possible candidates for the place, about ten already having announced.

SNELL SEEN STAYING G. O. P. HOUSE CHIEF

to assume such a role, despite the rather widespread publication of political gossip stories in which he has been pictured as a potential and capable leader for his party in the House.

These advices, coming directly from Mr. Wadsworth, say that he intends to come to Washington, whenever the next House meets and play the role of a newly elected member who is content to be a buck private with no thought of presumption on the fact that he has been a member of the Senate and the candidate—even if an unsuccessful one—of his party for the New York governor's chair.

Representative Snell has been a militant and effective leader in the House and is thought by political observers to have brought about a closer organization of his party in the House than had been expected as likely in view of the conflicting elements which were expected by some to go their own way after the crumbling of the old "triumvirate" through which the late Speaker Nicholas Longworth worked.

Member of Powerful Trio.

Mr. Snell, as chairman of the powerful rules committee, was one of that triumvirate which included Speaker Longworth and Representative John Q. Tilson, of Connecticut, who was Republican floor leader, but who did not run for reelection to the next Congress.

Supporters of Mr. Snell point, as evidence of his leadership, to the evaporation of one or more proposed "blocs" in the present House. A so-called liberal bloc which threatened to become a factor in the closely balanced House last session failed to materialize into anything effective, probably due in part, to the willingness of the Republican leader to permit members of his party to "Hyde Park" to their contentment, as well as his blunt frankness and persuasiveness.

Among newspaper reporters having to do with reporting congressional affairs Representative Snell long has been a favorite because of his frankness as well as his ability to forecast the course of legislation in the House and his close knowledge of the sentiment of House members.

Popular in Up-State.

Even if Mr. Wadsworth had not voluntarily disclaimed the role in which some of his admirers publicly cast him, it is doubtful that he could have unseated the veteran Mr. Snell, of Potsdam, who has been elected and reelected from up-State New York—whence Mr. Wadsworth, too—since the Sixty-fourth Congress and has been reelected to the Seventy-third Congress despite the overwhelming Democratic landslide and the fact that President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt carried New York State by an overwhelming majority, which saw Republican after Republican, who thought their jobs safe indefinitely swept to defeat.

Mr. Snell was born in Colton, St. Lawrence County, N. Y., on December 9, 1870. After attending public schools he went to Amherst College from which he was graduated in 1894. Wealthy, having the appearance and assurance of the successful man, he is proud of the fact that what he has won through years of hard work, in lumber camp, at a clerk's desk, and by shrewd investment.

"I'm no softie," he once exclaimed to a friend. "I can go out today without a penny and do a day's work which would make most men my age quit before I got started. I've worked hard in my life and I can work hard again."

Three Arrested in Bombings.

Oviedo, Spain, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Police arrested three radicals today and accused them of throwing bombs at police and at moving picture theaters in the nearby town of La Felguera Sunday. Authorities said more than 50 bombs had exploded in La Felguera Sunday night.

Hotel Plunge Kills Man.

San Antonio, Tex., Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Plunging from an upper floor of the Plaza Hotel to the pavement, a man tentatively identified as Arthur L. Frederick, of Monterey, Mexico, was killed here today. The man's body narrowly missed a motor car.

Cigarette Sales Licensed.

Lamoni, Iowa, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Breaking an old precedent, the town council has begun the issuance of licenses for the sale of cigarettes. In the November election a small majority favored the issuance of licenses.

Lovette Will Testify Today Against Reece

(Associated Press.)

Representative Oscar B. Lovette (Republican), Tennessee, is to tell the special House committee investigating campaign expenditures tonight why he thinks J. Carroll Reece, Republican, who apparently defeated him, should not be seated, Representative Ragon (Democrat), Arkansas, chairman of the committee, said yesterday that Lovette's testimony would probably end hearings by his group on primaries and the November election.

Lovette claimed frauds in voting excessive expenditures and various irregularities. Campaigning as an independent Republican, he defeated Reece in the First Tennessee District in 1930, only to trail in the last election.

BINGHAM ECONOMY GROUP MEETS TODAY

Final Touches on Rider to Treasury-Postoffice Bill Due This Morning.

Final touches on the Senate economy committee's retrenchment rider to the Treasury-Postoffice appropriations bill will be applied at 10:30 o'clock this morning, preparatory to a report to the full appropriations committee later this week.

At sessions today and tomorrow, Chairman Hiram Bingham's bipartisan economy group will act conclusively on pay provisions affecting Federal employes for another fiscal year. Members are reported tentatively agreed on a small additional pay cut over and above the 8 1-3 per cent furlough reduction agreed to by the House.

Other matters awaiting action of the economy committee are Senator James F. Byrnes' amendment giving the incoming President authority to reorganize the Government and abolish bureaus subject to concurrent congressional approval, and the Civil Service Commission's proposal to extend its jurisdiction over the personnel records of all the departments.

Hotel-Plunge Victim's Condition Is Serious

Winchester, Va., Jan. 2 (A.P.).—No improvement was noticed today in the condition of Mrs. Elizabeth Faulkner Kline, wife of Victor C. Kline, Pennsylvania Railroad official, of Harrisburg, Pa., who was injured in a fall from a hotel window here early Saturday.

Doctors said she was suffering from a fractured hip, several broken ribs and abdominal injuries. Police quoted Mrs. Kline as saying she fell accidentally from the fourth-floor window after she and her husband had returned from a New Year's party Friday night. No further investigation is being made.

Funerals for Four Fort Victims Held

Arizona Army Post Scene of Rites for Quartet Soldier Killed.

Fort Huachuca, Ariz., Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Military funeral services were held here today for two Army officers and their wives who were killed last Thursday by an apparently crazed Negro private. Approximately 200 civilians and 300 members of the Twenty-fifth Infantry attended the services, held about the flagpole on the parade grounds. Three clergymen, including the post chaplain, officiated.

The bodies of Capt. and Mrs. David A. Palmer, accompanied by their children, David 12, and Peggy, 10, and Maj. John White as military guard, were sent to Dedham, Mass., for burial. Those of Capt. and Mrs. Joseph R. Wessely, accompanied by Lieut. F. E. Baldwin, were sent to San Antonio, Tex.

James A. Abernathy, the Negro who killed the two officers and their wives was himself shot and killed by a Negro provost guard. He was buried here Friday.

HOUSE TODAY VIEWS DISTRICT BEER BILL

officials to appear at hearings of his group tomorrow morning, to give testimony on 1934 District needs.

Representative Black will confer with Representative Norton on advisability of calling Commissioners before the House District committee in connection with his promise to go to the root of the bonus army's evacuation of Washington.

Chairman Arthur Capper, of the Senate District committee, will look over the published hearings of his rent investigating subcommittee preparatory to calling members in executive session to decide what to do with Investigator Oscar H. Brinkman's report on local rental conditions. A report must be made to the Senate by next Tuesday.

Mapes Tax Program.

The House today will take up the first deficiency bill, containing the local relief item of $625,000, designed to tide District unemployed needs over the first six months of this year.

The local beer bill, which probably will be introduced this afternoon, like the national bill will provide for 3.2 per cent beer for the District, with license and revenue features expected to yield as high as $600,000 annually. Representative Black will ask early hearings before the House District committee.

Black, who is chairman of the House District utilities subcommittee, yesterday predicted that the House will agree to Senate changes in the local traction merger bill, ending the 25-year effort toward local street railway consolidation.

A local issue of importance that is still hanging fire at the Capitol is the Mapes $4,000,000 District tax program approved last year by the House, but still pending before the Senate District committee. Chairman Capper said yesterday he will seek committee action as soon as the last of the Mapes measures, for repealing the 60-40 basis of Federal-District fiscal relations, is passed on by the United States Bureau of Efficiency.

Gov. Laffoon for Sales Tax.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Gov. Ruby Laffoon, speaking at the Louisville Board of Trade's annual New Year's reception today, said he will ask the 1934 General Assembly to enact a general sales tax law and remove the State tax on real estate and tangible personal property.

EFFORT TO CENSURE GOV. WHITE HALTED

Ohio Lawmaker Ruled Out of Order; Legislature Gets Repeal Resolution.

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Two resolutions, one proposing ratification of the "lame duck" amendment to the Federal Constitution and the other proposing repeal of constitutional prohibition in Ohio, were introduced at the opening session of the Ninetieth Ohio General Assembly today.

Both resolutions were presented in the House of Representatives, where Gus Kasch (Democrat), of Summit County, created a brief furor when he made an unsuccessful attempt to introduce a resolution condemning certain activities of Gov. George White, also a Democrat. The House also received a bill by initiative petition to legalize 2.75 per cent beer.

Kasch's criticism of Gov. White was based on the activities of the governor and Democratic State Chairman Henry G. Brunner in attempting to organize the Legislature. He asked the House to adopt a resolution summoning the governor before it to explain his actions.

Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown, who was presiding prior to organization, told Kasch he was "out of order." When Kasch persisted in efforts to speak, Brown told the sergeant at arms to "seat him or remove him from the floor." Kasch took his seat.

The repeal resolution, introduced by Representative John F. McCrystal (Democrat), of Sandusky, proposed to put the question to a vote of the people. The "lame duck" resolution was offered by Representative Horace Keifer (Republican), of Springfield. It would place Ohio in the list of States approving a proposed constitutional amendment, making the terms of Federal elective officers start in January after election instead of March as at present.

The General Assembly spent most of the rest of its initial eight-hour session in choosing officers and effecting a permanent organization. Gov. White's choices for leadership in the House were elected, but in the Senate three Democrats joined Republicans to elect a Republican clerk.

New Philippine Cabinet Sworn In Functions of Secretaries Altered; Most Posts Have Same Heads.

Manila, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—A new Philippine cabinet, named in accordance with the reorganization act of the recent legislative session, was sworn in today by Governor General Theodore Roosevelt. Functions of all of the secretaries were altered, but most of the faces were the same with all undersecretaries but one being given interim reappointments.

This move follows the previous cabinet's policy of gradually replacing contract officials, all of whom are Americans. Four Americans still head bureaus.

Electric Railway Inventor Is Dead

Albert N. Connett, Street Car Pioneer, Built First Line Here.

New York, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—The death of Albert N. Connett, retired engineer, who designed and built at Washington in 1895 the first successful electrical conduit street railway, became known today. He died of arterio-sclerosis Sunday at his Fifth avenue home at the age of 73. Connett was associated with President Hoover in relief work in France and Belgium in the early days of the World War. He had lived here since 1922.

He was born in Bethel, Conn., and graduated from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute as a civil engineer in 1880. A year after he designed the conduit trolley line in Washington. He went to Paris and constructed many electric surface lines.

Surviving are a widow, four sons, Albert, jr., of Paris; Harold, of Philadelphia, and Francis S. and Thomas O., of New York, and three brothers, Eugene V., Ernest R. and Lyndon R. Connett, of New York.

SENATE GROUPS MAP QUICK BEER ACTION

gestion was "the way out," adding: "It will free some of those who have qualms about violating the Constitution by voting for 3.2 per cent beer."

Prepared by Blaine.

Another plan for redrafting the Collier bill has been prepared by Blaine himself and will be submitted to the subcommittee in drafted form. It would repeal those sections of the Volstead law limiting the alcholic content of beverages to one-half of one per cent and then enact substituting clauses.

Blaine contends that this would remove the constitutional objections, and even if the Supreme Court held 3.2 per cent beer unconstitutional, the one-half of 1 per cent limitation would be dead.

In announcing that he had called a meeting of the subcommittee to consider repeal for tomorrow, Blaine said he expected to "dispose of it" then.

Manner of Submission.

The subcommittee already has agreed upon a tentative draft repealing the eighteenth amendment, protecting dry States and giving Congress authority to legislate against the saloon.

Only the question of determining the manner of submission remains to be settled. The subcommittee is divided on the issue of submitting it to State conventions or State Legislatures.

Members of the subcommittee in addition to Blaine and Dill are Senators Borah (Republican), Idaho; Herbert (Republican), Rhode Island, and Walsh (Democrat), Montana.

PRESIDENT LEAVES FLORIDA FOR HOME

Band Plays 'Happy Days' as Bronzed Fisherman Starts for White House.

On Board Presidential Train En Route to Washington, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Appearing fit and rested from nine days of cruising and fishing, President Hoover moved back toward the White House to wind up the affairs of his fast-waning administration.

With Mrs. Hoover and five guests, the President left Palm Beach, Fla., at 9:50 a. m. this morning. A four-piece Negro jazz band on the station platform played "Happy Days Are Here Again" as the train moved out, apparently unmindful of the song's conversion into a Democratic campaign tune.

His complexion ruddy from days under the Florida and Georgia sun, Mr. Hoover leaned over the rear platform to shake hands with Capt. Herman Gray, expert angler of Palm Beach, under whose guidance he caught five battling sailfish.

"Grand Trip" President Says.

"It's been a grand trip," the President said to Gray, smiling, as the train started.

The Chief Executive spent part of his afternoon at work on various of the governmental problems that will concern him during the next two months. His aids said, however, that no late reports from Washington were available to him and that a copy of the Philippine independence bill now waiting his signature or veto had not been sent to him.

There have been indications that Mr. Hoover would exercise his veto power against the bill, but neither he nor his aids aboard the train would comment on the measure.

Crowd Sees Party Off.

The presidential party left the U. S. S. Sequoia, living quarters of the group for nine days, shortly before 9:30 a. m., and motored directly from the pier of the Palm Beach Sail Fish Club to the waiting train. A crowd had gathered to see them off.

A check-up of the angling accomplishments of the Hoovers and their guests today showed that a total of 23 sailfish had been landed, in addition to several dolphins and amberjacks and a large wahoo, the biggest caught during the present season off Palm Beach.

Although Mr. Hoover banned fishing yesterday for himself, Lawrence Richey, a White House secretary, took an expedition of his own and landed six sailfish, a Palm Beach record for one man in a single day. One measured only a half-inch less than the so-called diamond button size, being 95½ inches long.

Charleston, S. C., Jan. 2 (A.P.).—The special train bearing President Hoover back to Washington from his Florida fishing trip passed through here at 9:15 o'clock tonight, exactly on schedule and averaging a mile every 50 seconds through this section.

TELEGRAPHIC DISPATCHES

Baltimore, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Philmore Edwards, 19-year-old chauffeur, was found electrocuted today in a basement room at the home of his employer here. An insulated electric wire, leading from a wall socket to a floor lamp, lay across his body in a bathtub. He apparently had grasped the cord in a worn place. Edwards came here from Kathwood, S. C.

Baltimore, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Lashed to the side of a Norfolk tugboat, the schooner Edna Hoyt, a five-master, was towed into Baltimore today after a hazardous voyage from Venezuela. She was towed into Norfolk last week after being reported out of drinking water and leaking badly off Cape Hatteras.

Kansas City, Kans., Jan. 2 (A.P.).—A youth who said he was Joe Gonzales, 18, was glad officers found him today in a grocery store where he and two others attempted robbery. The youth under arrest acted as lookout while two companions started to plunder the place. The proprietor, armed with a jackhandle, broke up the robber, and the lookout jumped into a large ice box while the other two fled. The box locked automatically, imprisoning him in the cold.

Yakima, Wash., Jan. 2 (A.P.).—A. S. Hillyer, of the Sunnyside Sun, celebrated the new year in near-zero weather by walking barefoot from his home to his office in the center of the business section, while early morning spectators cheered loudly. Hillyer was paying off an election bet made with John Heffron, Democrat, elected State senator. Hillyer bet President Hoover would be reelected.

Santa Fe, N. Mex., Jan. 2 (A.P.).—An unidentified Santa Fean's unconscious marksmanship while greeting the new year with a shotgun blast has caused telephone subscribers and a lineman to say unquotable things. A cable was severed by the slugs. Twelve residents couldn't even get a wrong number until the irate lineman shinnied up a pole and spliced the little leads back together again.

West Plains, Mo., Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Judge Will H. D. Green, presiding judge of the Twentieth Judicial Circuit, believes in being on time. He fined himself $5 and costs for being tardy at a session of the court at Alton.

Cincinnati, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—The Cincinnati Times-Star published its first edition from its new $4,000,000 building today, picking up in full operation in a new plant barely 36 hours after closing down in the old. The new plant is in effect three structures in one, standing at the corner of Eighth street and Broadway. In front is a 16-story tower, behind is a 6-story building devoted to newspaper production.

Bakersfield, Calif., Jan. 2 (A.P.).—The warehouse and other property at the Hoover ranch, named after President Hoover, who at one time was a part owner of it, was damaged by a $20,000 fire today. The ranch is located near Wasco.

Miami, Fla., Jan. 2 (A.P.).—H. M. S. Danae, British war cruiser which has been in port here for ten days, left this afternoon for her home waters at Nassau and Bermuda.

400 Shopmen Reemployed.

Knoxville, Tenn., Jan. 2 (A.P.).—About 400 Southern Railway shopmen, laid off two weeks ago, were returned to their jobs at Coster Shops today, F. C. Simpson, master mechanic, announced.

Hawes Will Give Senate Seat to Clark on Feb. 6

(Associated Press.)

Senator-elect Bennett Champ Clark, of Missouri, yesterday said he would assume the post of Senator Harry B. Hawes in February to serve out the remainder of the term at this session and to prepare for his next term, beginning March 4.

Hawes has announced he would resign on February 6 in order to give Clark, son of the late Champ Clark, Speaker of the House, preference in committee assignments in the new Congress. Hawes plans to send in his resignation after Gov.-elect Parks is inaugurated on January 9.

20 ECONOMISTS ASK RECIPROCAL TARIFFS

Open Letter to Roosevelt Urges Settlement of All Interallied Debts.

Baltimore, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—In an open letter to President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt, made public here today, twenty of the Nation's outstanding economists advocated reciprocal lowering of tariffs, prompt settlement of interallied debts and maintenance of the gold standard as a "minimum program for economic recovery."

The letter was made public by Dr. Broadus Mitchell, of Johns Hopkins University. The text follows:

"The following statement is, in the judgment of the undersigned economists, a minimum program for economic recovery.

"The urgent immediate program is the foreign trade situation. Lacking an adequate export market, agricultural products and raw materials bring ruinously low prices, and there is an immense unbalance between them and manufactured goods. As a result even the relatively scant output of the factories is marketed with difficulty."

Imports of Finished Goods.

"There should be prompt reciprocal lowering of tariffs and prompt settlement of interallied debts. Our own tariffs should be lowered to such an extent as will admit enough additional imports of diversified finished manufactures to take out our own agricultural and raw material exports without the necessity of foreign loans.

"We are convinced that such lowering of tariffs on finished manufactured goods will not decrease employment in manufacturing. On the contrary, by stimulating price improvement in agricultural commodities and purchasing power in agricultural communities, and by stimulating recovery in Europe as well, it will produce a very great increase in manufactured activity and employment in the United States.

"The settlement of interallied debts should be on a negotiated basis which will probably not be satisfactory to public opinion in any country, but which, promptly accomplished, will be immensely beneficial to all countries.

Currency Experiments.

"The gold standard of present weight and fineness should be unflinchingly maintained. We should also encourage and facilitate the prompt restoration of the gold standard abroad—which settlement of interallied debts and tariff reduction will do. With adequate movement of goods across international borders, the gold of the United States and of the world is more than adequate for all credit needs.

"If, however, trade restrictions throw an undue burden on gold in making international payments, then debtor countries have difficulties in maintaining the gold standard and confidence is so low in creditor countries that they can not make effective use of their own gold in expanding credit. Credit rests on the movement of goods as well as on the gold supply. Agitation for currency experiments would impair confidence and retard recovery."

Leading University Men.

particularly since a recent announcement that production in the last months of 1932 had fallen sharply.

Previously, Senor Alessandri had in mind helping the producers reorganize on a new basis that will be closer to demands made by public opinion and some British quarters.

On November 3 the Pedro de Valdivia, the world's largest nitrate plant, suspended production, but retained all Chilean workmen for jobs in other plants. American supervisors thereupon planned to return home. The plant is owned by the Guggenheim interests and controlled by Cosach. It had a capacity of 700,000 tons yearly. Medley G. D. Whelpley, president of the combine, said that closing the plant was a "constructive move to divide production evenly among the other plants and at the same time to cut operating costs."

When the subject of the Cosach reorganization came up in the middle of November it was said that President Alessandri was for dissolution of the combine. He later was quoted as being in favor of reorganization as being more timely in order to prevent complete unemployment in the industry. He said then that the matter of probable reorganization would come up shortly after he assumed office.

The Cosach signified its fullest cooperation with Allessandri and a peaceful settlement, with justice to both sides, was predicted. A temporary loan was approved in November to the Cosach for operating expenses until Alessandri would be able to consider the problem. The loan was made by the Central Bank and made unnecessary the bringing in of more foreign capital.

9 STATES INSTALL CHIEF EXECUTIVES

Inauguration of Lehman Is Attended by Roosevelt and Smith.

(Associated Press.)

New governors held the reigns of State administrations today as half a dozen executive chairs changed occupants yesterday and reelected officials were inaugurated in three other Commonwealths.

All were Democrats, as were the greater number of the gubernatorial selections at last November's voting, most of whom will go into office within the next few days.

Nation-wide interest was attracted to the change in governorships in New York State, where, in the presence of two distinguished predecessors—Alfred E. Smith and the retiring executive, President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt—Herbert H. Lehman stepped up from lieutenant governor to governor.

Gov. C. Ben Ross, of Idaho, began his second term, Gov. John E. Erickson, of Montana, his third, and Gov. Arthur Seligman, of New Mexico, his second.

First Democrat in Years.

William A. Comstock took the oath of office succeeding a Republican, Wilber M. Brucker, as Michigan's governor. Wisconsin had its first Democratic governor in years, A. G. Schmedeman succeeding Philip F. La Follette, Republican Progressive.

Leslie A. Miller took the place just vacated by Acting Gov. Alonzo M. Clark of Wyoming, and will finish the term of the late Frank C. Emerson, expiring in January, 1935. Dr. Ben B. Moeur, Tempe physician, succeeded the veteran George W. P. Hunt as Governor of Arizona.

It was disclosed today, also, that Charles W. Bryan, Nebraska's Democratic executive, took the oath of office last week for his third term, beginning next Thursday.

Closer Contacts Promised.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Col. Herbert H. Lehman was formally inaugurated today as Governor of the Empire State, and with the good wishes of President-elect Roosevelt and former Gov. Smith ringing in his ears dedicated himself first of all to the task of caring for the State's unemployed.

President-elect Roosevelt, handing over the reins of the State government to the former New York banker, promised closer contacts between the President and all the State capitals after his inauguration as the Nation's Chief Executive on March 4.

"It is time," Mr. Roosevelt said, "to define more clearly where the Federal machinery of Government ends and where the State machinery of government begins."

Relief for Unemployed.

Gov. Lehman announced his intention of appealing to the Federal Government for aid in caring for the State's unemployed, whose number he estimated at more than a million and a quarter. He said he hoped the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act would be liberalized to enable New York more readily to borrow from the R. F. C. fund.

The inauguration ceremony, which brought "Al" and "Frank" and "Herb," as they call each other, once again to the same platform, marked Mr. Roosevelt's final official appearance at Albany.

Mr. Roosevelt recalled the famous "Al" and "Frank" inauguration four years ago, when Smith turned over the State's management to him.

Friendly Demonstration.

Former Gov. Smith, in a new public demonstration of friendship for the President-elect, congratulated him upon his opportunity to enter "a larger and greater field" of public service, and said he believed Mr. Roosevelt's four years' experience as Governor of New York had equipped him "admirably" for his new tasks.

The inaugural ceremony, conducted before an audience that packed the huge, flag-decked Assembly chamber, was shorn of some of its old-time glamour for economy's sake, but was none the less impressive.

Gov. Lehman came to Albany last night after attending the funeral of his sister, Mrs. Richard M. Limburg, whose death in New York last Friday brought about curtailment of all preinaugural plans.

Two Near Death in Air Crash.

Wichita, Kans., Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Forest Mangon, a filling station operator, was killed and Wayne Dalrymple, engineer for the Stearman Aircraft Co. here, was injured dangerously late today by the crash of Magnon's small airplane. Witnesses said it went into a spin at an altitude of 200 feet. Physicians expressed belief Dalrymple, the pilot, could not survive.

HOUSE TO CONSIDER 4-CROP PRICE FIXING

Committee to Vote Today on Farm-Aid Plan Based on Set Quotas.

(Associated Press.)

Establishment of a minimum price on four great agricultural commodities was the farm-aid plan virtually completed yesterday for consideration in the House during the week.

It would guarantee the farmer this price by levying, if necessary, and distributing to him processing fees that would mount in the aggregate to hundreds of millions of dollars.

But if the processors should voluntarily establish the minimum price levels, they would have no fee to pay.

As agreed upon by the agriculture committee yesterday, the bill is based on the domestic allotment principle and would include wheat, cotton, tobacco and hogs. Efforts to include dairy products and rice failed, and a motion to eliminate hogs was rejected, 12 to 10.

Committee Votes Today.

Chairman Jones announced the committee will vote finally on the bill today with the intention of reporting it to the House the same afternoon and making its consideration in order tomorrow.

Packers, who have led the opposition to the plan, meanwhile planned to carry their fight to the House floor. If they do not succeed in having hogs eliminated they will ask that a corresponding fee be levied on competing meat and poultry products. The bill already provides that when cotton processing is taxed, the same rate shall be levied against silk and rayon.

"The measure as presented undertakes to establish for wheat, cotton, hogs and tobacco a minimum price, that bears the same relation to the general commodity price level that existed during the prewar period," Jones explained.

"If this parity existed today wheat would be 90 cents a bushel, cotton 12 cents per pound, and hogs and tobacco would be materially higher in price.

Would Restore Levels.

"The measure undertakes to restore these price levels on that part of those commodities which goes into domestic consumption. The present farm commodity prices are far below this ratio.

"It would be accomplished in this way: A processing fee would be levied upon the manufacturer of these commodities equal to the difference between the prevailing price and the parity price as determined by Government statistics.

"The proceeds of these collections would be paid to the farmer on that part of his production which is consumed in our own country, provided the farmer could show that he had voluntarily reduced his acreage or production as much as 20 per cent.

"By thus raising the price level of the chief farm commodities, it is hoped that incidentally the price level of all farm commodities will be increased and business generally throughout the country stimulated.

"Any time these commodities reach the minimum ratio price levels, the fee would be eliminated. In other words, if the processors will establish the minimum price levels they will have no fee to pay."

Mrs. J. A. Osborne, Wife Of Publisher, Succumbs

Williamsburg, Va., Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Mrs. J. A. Osborne, 68, who died at her home here today will be buried tomorrow. She was the wife of J. A. Osborne, publisher of the Virginia Gazette.

Mr. and Mrs. Osborne came here three years ago from Salem, Va. Mrs. Osborne is survived by her husband and seven children, two sisters and one brother.

Tennessee Starts Attack on Deficit

Nashville House Cuts Pay of Members; Senate Is Sympathetic.

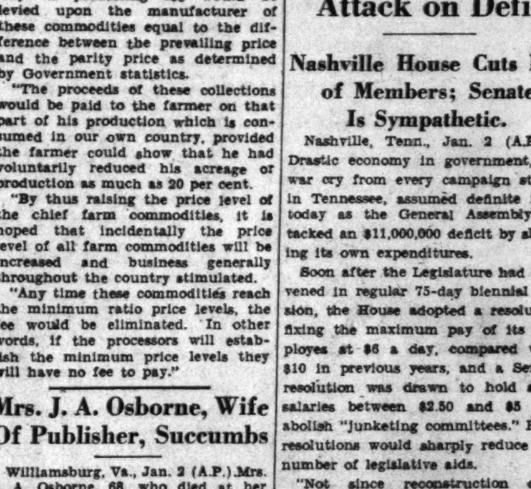
Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Drastic economy in government, the war cry from every campaign stump in Tennessee, assumed definite form today as the General Assembly attacked an $11,000,000 deficit by slashing its own expenditures.

Soon after the Legislature had convened in regular 75-day biennial session, the House adopted a resolution fixing the maximum pay of its employes at $6 a day, compared with $10 in previous years, and a Senate resolution was drawn to hold such salaries between $2.50 and $5 and abolish "junketing committees." Both resolutions would sharply reduce the number of legislative aids.

"Not since reconstruction days have we met in a more important session of the General Assembly," said 33-year-old A. F. Officer, of Overton County, in accepting the Senate speakership to which he was elected unanimously. "The eyes of Tennessee are on this General Assembly today. The confidence of the people in their government must be restored."

Edith Roark Seeks to Change Name

$800 In Cash Will Be Paid Everyone Who Sends Actress Most Suitable Suggestion.



Can you name the girl in this picture? Her unusual beauty and winning smile won her a place in Eddie Cantor's new picture, "The Kid from Spain." She is Miss Edith Roark, a newcomer to Hollywood and has been given a contract providing she will consider changing her name.

Her publicity director wants to aid her in securing an appropriate name, and in releasing this announcement is making an offer of $800 in cash to every reader of this paper who sends in the name selected. It is said most any name may win, even if submitted on a post card. It may be your own name or a name of a girl friend. You may even make up a name which will suit this coming young star. Just make your suggestion easy to pronounce and easy to remember, but send it right away.

Readers of this announcement are urged to send in their suggestions at once, because $200 extra will be given the winner if name is mailed and postmarked before January 8th, 1933; otherwise every person submitting the winning name after this date will receive only $600.00.

All names suggested must be sent to the Publicity Director's Office, George Blake, Studio D-345, 1023 North Sycamore Avenue, Hollywood, Calif. Only one suggestion for a name should be submitted by each contestant, and in case of ties, duplicate awards will be given. If you can use $800.00 in cash, here is your opportunity to get it. Send your suggestion today.—Adv.

NINE DIE AS TRAWLER IS WRECKED IN GALE

Coasts of Britain and Erin Swept by 60-Mile Wind; Two Lost in Spain.

London, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—At least nine lives were lost and probably others perished in a 60-mile gale which swept the coasts of England and Ireland today.

Scotland and Northern Ireland were deluged by a fierce downpour which flooded fields and ran creeks and rivers out of their banks.

The nine victims drowned when the Aberdeen trawler Venitia was wrecked on the rocky coast off Kincardineshire.

Lifebuoys washed ashore revealed the name of the stricken vessel, which could not be approached by lifeboats because of the high waves. There were no survivors of the wreck.

Lifeboats from both Howth and Clogher Head returned to their home ports on the Irish Coast tonight after failing to find any trace of the vessel which was last seen about 7 miles from the Skerries sending up distress signals.

High winds in London and other cities felled trees and caused many window panes to be broken. Automobiles were blown over and there were other mishaps because of the high wind.

Coruna, Spain, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Two brothers surnamed Murias were lost overboard and were believed to have drowned when a tugboat overturned while towing a steamer between Ribadeo and Degadeo ports today.

Hurt Boy Can Not Explain Injuries

Couple Delivers Him at Hospital; Thought to Be Auto Victim.

Believed to have been run over by an automobile, John Curry, 12, 510 Second street, was taken to Sibley Hospital early today by an unidentified couple, suffering from fractures of both legs and severe cuts and bruises.

The man and woman left before hospital authorities could obtain their names. It is believed the man was a taxi driver.

The boy was unable to explain how he was hurt, but it is believed he was run over at First and G streets northwest. Police received a report that some one had been knocked down at that intersection by a car, believed to have been a taxicab.

Passive Resistance Blocks Delinquent Land Tax Sales

Iowa Crowds Attend Auctions, But No Bids Are Offered; 2,000 Pieces of Property Ready to Go Under Hammer in One County.

Des Moines, Iowa, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Passive resistance today blocked efforts of three county treasurers in Iowa to sell property on which taxes are overdue.

Crowds attended the tax sales, but there were no bids.

With debt-burdened landowners unable to obtain funds to pay taxes, there was an unorganized but well-developed movement to prevent county officials from raising revenue by selling land, both rural and city, on which payments are delinquent.

"There aren't going to be any bidders," said one of the overall-clad men who gathered in the Harrison County treasurer's office at Logan. More than 2,000 pieces of property were to be offered for sale there, but there was not a bid from the 400 to 500 persons at the courthouse.

After waiting 20 minutes for a bid, Treasurer J. C. Hammond postponed the tax sale until February 27. Hammond said there was no demonstration, but that those attending the sale apparently had agreed beforehand to prevent bids.

Only a handful of persons was present at Red Oak, where Treasurer Harry Mayhew of Montgomery County attempted to hold a sale. With no bidders in prospect, he postponed action until February 6.

There was an orderly demonstration at the Linn County courthouse in Cedar Rapids. Representatives of the county farm bureau tax committee, the Federation of Labor and the city council urged postponement of the sale. Officials finally deferred it until February 20.

Iowa's delinquent tax sales originally were scheduled during December, but in many cases there were postponements by county treasurers to give farmers and others another chance to raise funds.

IMPORTANT CITY IN CHINA IS OCCUPIED BY JAPANESE

were considered slim, since the young war lord, Marshal Chang Hseuh-Liang, has effected a heavy concentration of troops to the south of Shanhaikwan.

Fighting broke out, according to dispatches received here, after Chinese had bombed a group of Japanese police. In an ensuing engagement, Lieut. Kodama, of the Japanese army, and two Japanese soldiers were killed.

Japanese troops promptly began moving in from the north. Heavy fighting occurred outside the city's walls until today when Japanese fighting planes from Mukden arrived and began bombing the city. Shortly thereafter, according to a dispatch from Mukden, the Japanese had completely occupied the city.

Chinese Violation Charged.

In Japanese sources it was charged that the Chinese had violated the neutral territory established after the Japanese occupation of Chinchow, to the north in Manchuria, or Manchukuo.

Col. Ibara, commandant of the Japanese legation guard here, delivered an ultimatum to Marshal Chang before the city was occupied, demanding that he withdraw Chinese troops from the scene of the battle. The youthful former war lord of Manchuria refused on the grounds the Chinese were defending their own territory.

The city of Shanhaikwan, which means "the gate between mountain and sea," also is the gateway to Manchuria and for many years has been one of the most important strategic points in China proper. It is on the Gulf of Liao-Tung, where the great wall of China meets the sea.

In Boxer Rebellion.

It has played an important part in previous military history, notably in the Boxer Rebellion and in the movement which reestablished the Manchu dynasty.

Japanese seizure of the city represents the first time Japan has made a stab at China proper since the famous Shanghai bombardment.

Marshal Chang, obviously fearing Japan is starting the new year with a daring movement to annex the Province of Jehol to the Japanese-controlled state of Manchoukuo, is reported to have concentrated six brigades on the Jehol border, not far from Shanhaikwan, to repel any possible movement in that direction.

Believed to Be Heavy.

Japanese troop concentration in the vicinity of Shanhaikwan is unknown, but in view of recent activity on the part of Marshal Chang, it is assumed to be heavy. Reports reaching here in recent days have told of much Japanese military activity between Shanhaikwan and Tahushan.

Renewal of diplomatic relations between China and Soviet Russia, and subsequent brisk Chinese military activity, apparently has made Japanese military leaders apprehensive, and may have indirectly been responsible for occupation of Shanhaikwan.

It was understood Chinese troops have taken over the railway line between Tientsin and Shanhaikwan.

24-Hour Service To Miami Ready

"Florida Special," Said to Be Fastest Train, Will Leave Tonight.

A 24-hour schedule from Washington to Miami will be maintained by "The Florida Special," which will begin its forty-sixth season leaving here at 7:45 o'clock tonight.

The new time schedule is said to be the fastest in the history of trains operating along the Southeast coast. The route has separate tracks for south and north bound traffic, and is protected by automatic safety signals all the way.

Court Writ Cites Marlene Dietrich

Star Is Restrained From Quitting Paramount Before Ending Film.

Los Angeles, Jan. 2 (U.P.).—Paramount Studios today won a Federal order restraining Marlene Dietrich, German screen notable, from working at any other studio until she completes a picture now in production.

A complaint also was filed demanding she complete her fast-expiring contract and to return $182,850 in salary allegedly paid to her but not earned. Federal Judge Harry Hollzer refused, however, to issue an order ne exeat republica, which would prevent Miss Dietrich from leaving the United States until the litigation is settled. Paramount officials expressed a belief that the actress was planning to sail for Germany.

Vice President Emanuel Cohen, Paramount production head, charged Miss Dietrich refuses to live up to "a perfectly good and sound contract" and that her delay has cost the studio almost $200,000. Miss Dietrich and her director, Josef von Sternberg, walked out of the studio several months ago in a quarrel over the picture "Blonde Venus."

Illinois Relief Needs Estimated.

Chicago, Jan 2 (A.P.).—Illinois will need about $92,000,000 for 1933 relief work, according to an estimate today by Wilfred S Reynolds, executive secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission. The estimate did not include funds usually obtained locally. Reynolds' estimate said about $12,000,000 would be needed for downstate and the rest for Cook county.

Battle Murder Trial Reopens.

Harlan, Ky., Jan 2 (A.P.).—Harlan County's "Battle of Evarts" murder trials were renewed today in Harlan Circuit Court with special Judge Sam Hurst of Beattyville ordering a venire of 50 men from Woodford County to try Garrison Mills, 35, charged with the slaying of three deputy sheriffs at Evarts May 5, 1931. The trial is set for Wednesday.

Italian Rulers Receive Corps of Ambassadors

Rome, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Elena smiled graciously this afternoon as they began the ordeal of standing for more than three hours in the Quirinal Palace for the New Year's visit of the diplomatic corps.

Ambassador John W. Garrett and Mrs. Garrett, of Baltimore, Md., headed the United States callers. With them were Alexander Kirk, of Chicago, counselor of embassy, the secretaries and military and naval attaches and their wives. The king and queen received their visitors in a rigidly controlled order of seniority of ambassadors. The dean of the diplomatic corps, Mgr. Borgongini-Duca, papal nuncio to Italy, was the first.

GEN. CHANG SEEKS TO LOCALIZE CLASH

Making Full Preparations to Resist Advance if Negotiations Fail.

(United Press.)

Gen. Chang Hsiao-Liang, in charge of the northern Chinese area, has undertaken negotiations with Japanese forces to localize the clash of their troops at Shanhaikwan to prevent further hostilities, the Chinese Legation here announced last night.

The information was based upon a telephonic report from Gen. Chang to the ministry of foreign affairs at Nanking, giving an account of developments to date. Full preparations are being made to resist Japanese advances in case the negotiations fail, the report said.

Gen. Chang reported that Japanese soldiers in civilian colthes fired several shots at the southern gate of Shanhaikwan at 9:30 p. m. Sunday. About the same time, he said, a Japanese sentry dropped a bomb at the railway station and police of the "puppet" Manchukuo government fired more than ten shots in the same district.

Japanese military police on duty assisted in firing for a short time, it was said.

Cite Holes as Proof.

Brig. Gen. Ho Chu-Kuo immediately dispatched a representative to inquire at Japanese headquarters where it was alleged the Chinese fired first, according to the report. The Japanese cited as proof of their allegation bomb holes in the headquarters building.

The Japanese then issued a warning for evacuation of residents for fear of possible danger and demanded an answer in 50 minutes, it was said.

The Chinese foreign ministry, on receipt of this report, ordered local authorities to negotiate with Japanese, hoping to localize the affair, although fully preparing for resisting any attack, it was stated. At the same time the Chinese protested to the Japanese.

The ministry of foreign affairs ordered Chang to investigate. It was said that any conditions Japan may impose must be subject to consent of the Nanking government.

Stimson Is Informed.

Secretary of State Stimson, who protested vigorously after the Japanese military machine moved into Chinchow a year ago, was entertaining diplomats at his estate, Woodley, when news of the fighting at Shanhaikwan reached here yesterday. He did not come to the State Department.

Some of his associates, however, forsook their New Year's holiday to pour over cables and maps. No official comment on the fighting was forthcoming, but Stimson's associates doubted he again would protest to Japan.

From a diplomatic viewpoint, the conquest of Jehol would be considered a phase of the larger question of whether Japan is violating the Kellogg and nine-power pacts by its entire Asiatic adventure. Japan is now on trial at Geneva for its Manchurian conquest. In recent months, the State Department, while holding to its policy of not recognizing the legality of Japanese gains in Manchuria, has remained silent.

PREDICTION OF RAINS ADDS TO FLOOD PERIL

Weather Man Warns Region Around Memphis New Rise Is Coming.

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 2 (A.P.).—The threat of further heavy rains late this week taunted dwellers alongside swollen Southern streams today, despite a general improvement in flood conditions and the prospect of continued fair weather tomorrow.

A warning came from Assistant Meteorologist A. R. Long, of the United States Weather Bureau here, that the possibility of heavy rains the latter part of the week may send many tributary streams in northern Mississippi, eastern Arkansas and western Tennessee over their banks again.

"I do not want to be an alarmist," Long said, "but we are directly in the path of a rainstorm, and it should reach us by the end of the week. If the rains are as heavy as those of last week, it will be just too bad for the rivers around here."

Mississippi Rising.

The Mississippi, rising rapidly, was given no cause for alarm as yet. Even though it reaches the anticipated flood stage of 35 feet within the next few days the unprotected lowlands outside of the levees will be inundated. The stream would have to rise far above 40 feet to cause apprehension. It reached a stage of 24.8 feet today, a rise of 2.2 feet in 24 hours.

Memphis, perched high on Chickasaw Bluff, does not fear the rising river. However, in west Tennessee about 50,000 acres of farm lands, not in cultivation, and three State highways have been flooded.

The Tallahatchie in Mississippi is rising rapidly. Thousands of acres of land are under water and hundreds of tenants have had to move from their homes in the lowlands. The rampaging Cassidy Bayou has backed over the Charleston-Webb highway from Nikona to Webb and creeks in the territory are overflowing.

Bridge Is Out of Order.

River men are daily "taking up slack" on the lines that moor floating property to anchorages ashore. As the water recedes they will "let out on the lines," to keep the units from being left stranded, just another routine of life on the river.

Word came from Selma, Ala., that Southern Railway officials hoped to complete repairs tonight on a bridge across the rain-filled Tombigbee near Jackson, to allow restoration of traffic between Mobile and Jackson. The turntable span of the bridge was damaged yesterday by a barge attempting to pass through the draw.

Streams in Alabama are receding. P. H. Smyth, meteorologist at Montgomery, figured the flood danger in that State has passed. The city engineer's office at Montgomery plans to return more than 30 Negro families to their homes along the banks of the Alabama tomorrow.

Some apprehension was felt at Leachville and in the eastern part of Craighead County, Arkansas, tonight because of a report that the Little River was endangering levees near Kennett, Mo.

Irl Jones, Kennett banker, said 200 men had been put to work bolstering the weak spots in the levee with 40,000 bags of earth. The danger zone extended over a 12-mile section of the levee near Kennett. The water, however, was about 2 feet below the top of the levee.

MAN FOUND MURDERED SEEN HERE DAY BEFORE SLAYING

said it had been dragged by the heels from the car. There were two marks on the ground, he said, where the man's heels struck when he was dropped.

The fact that the man's body was dragged might be construed as an indication, police said, that there were only one or two men in the impromptu cortege which took it to the lonely spot.

Although the criminal experts have deduced several facts and theories from the posture and condition of the body, the motive for the murder remains obscure except in theory.

Among the effects in the man's clothing were racing slips and a few cards from Washington speakeasies. Montgomery police drew the theory from these that the man's death was in connection with some underworld difficulty.

Mori said that one racing slip was in the dead man's handwriting.

But the character of the man belied this hypothesis. From Tarrytown, it was learned that he was a laborer, had no police record and was of good character.

The clothes he was wearing were purchased in a Washington store on November 2, soon after he arrived in the city. He paid $10 down for the suit and had made only two of the $2-a-week payments he was to make.

Employed as Laborer.

This, Detectives Darnell and Murphy pointed out as being out of character with a person who was engaged in either remunerative occupation of taking race bets or bootlegging.

The police communications from Tarrytown said Lelli was employed in the Fisher Body Plant as a laborer until last summer. That he was recently working with his hands was indicated by their horny and calloused appearance, police said.

One slight pointer toward the gangster theory was gleaned from Tarrytown authorities, who said in their telegram that the Italian was believed to have come here to visit a bootlegger. Homicide squad detectives have been trying to contact this man.

Lelli battled for his life. Investigators found bruises on his throat and his right wrist was pierced by the bullet which went on into his heart.

He carried seven wounds, but police said they were made by four bullets. The shot which pierced his heart was fired while he was standing, they said, and the others were fired into his body and limbs as he lay prone.

No relatives of Lelli could be located here, and authorities were trying to get in touch with the Italian Embassy in order to locate his family.

Lapel Button Explained.

It was explained to police by Mori that the small button on the lapel of Lelli's coat had been given to Lelli in Italy by Mori's brother, who was a member of the soccer team of the Conte Grande, Italian liner.

Slugs removed from the body at an autopsy performed last night were of .32 caliber and evidently were fired from the same gun. Lieut. John Fowler, Washington ballistic expert, said they were from an automatic pistol.

4 COLOMBIAN SHIPS REPORTED UP RIVER

Peru Said to Be Ready for Action in Leticia Area; Brazil Watching.

Para, Brazil, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Four Colombian naval vessels carrying munitions, supplies and 1,000 soldiers under Gen. Vasquez Coba were reported to have sailed up the Amazon today toward the region of Leticia on the Peruvian border.

The movement was regarded as the beginning of a drive to recover the Leticia country, over which Colombia has been in dispute with Peru for some weeks. The Peruvians were said to have a strong force, including airplanes, in the disputed area.

Brazilian naval officers were of the opinion that if there should be a military or naval engagement it probably would take place in the vicinity of Putumayo. This opinion was based on the belief that such an engagement would avoid violation of Brazilian territory in the vicinity of Leticia.

To safeguard its interests Brazil has 400 soldiers at the fortier, 1,100 more men are on the way up the Amazon and 500 are ready to sail soon.

Gen. Almerio de Moura, in command of Brazilian troops ordered to protect Brazilian neutrality, said his only orders were to keep peace on Brazilian soil.

The principal object of the Brazilian "detachment of observation," said the general in an interview as he left for the frontier, will be to prevent the "invasion and transit in Brazilian waters of foreign troops, arms and munitions."

Colombia and Peru are engaged in a dispute over Leticia, a city on the upper Amazon.

Gen. Dunwoody, 90, Funeral Is Today

Once Chief Signal Officer of Army Was Inventor of Radio Device.

Ithaca, N. Y., Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Brig. Gen. Henry Harrison Chase Dunwoody, 90, former chief signal officer of the United States Army, who died at Interlaken, near here, yesterday, is to be buried tomorrow.

Gen. Dunwoody was a West Point graduate of 1866. He was retired from active service in 1907. He had lived at Interlaken for the past ten years. For 26 years Gen. Dunwoody was in charge of the weather forecasting division of the Weather Bureau. He also was a radio research engineer and was the inventor of a crystal receiver. He served with Gen. Leonard Wood in the Spanish-American War as chief signal officer.

The general is survived by a son, Col. Halsey Dunwoody, assistant chief of the Air Service of the American Expeditionary Force during the World War, and two daughters, Mrs. Howard Nestor, Worcester, Mass., and Mrs. W. C. Jacobs, of Nutley, N. J.

Technocracy Value Doubted by Smith

Former Governor Criticizes Abstruse Language; Hits Intolerance.

New York, Jan. 2.—Alfred E. Smith comments on technocracy in the January issue of the magazine New Outlook, appearing tomorrow.

He criticizes the technologists for using abstruse language, and for intolerance of existing systems and leaders, and expresses doubt of the value of their findings. However, he sees the study of the problems with which they are concerned "a fine thing," and says that "undoubtedly much good will come from a discussion of their plans."

"Every now and then some one discovers a new system which is bound to revolutionize all government and the entire economic system," Mr. Smith writes. "When the initial excitement dies down, it is always found that changes in these fields are gradual and that we have mistaken new words for new principles."

Chilvers, Barytone, Buried at Detroit

Mrs. Fiske's Leading Man Was Creator of Parts in Many Operas.

Detroit, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Hugh Chilvers, 67, grand opera barytone, and at one time leading man for Mrs. Minnie Maddern Fiske, was buried here today. Mr. Chilvers, who died Saturday at the home of his brother, Thomas H. Chilvers, supervisor of musical education for the board of education, retired from the stage a few years ago after creating a score of barytone parts in opera and musical comedy.

He was born in Detroit and went to Italy to study at the age of 21. A year later he made his debut in London, and ten years of success in grand opera followed. He appeared with Mrs. Fiske in "Erstwhile Susan," Victor Herbert's "Her Regiment," and five years ago had the lead part in "Countess Maritza."

ROOSEVELT ASSISTS POWER COSTS QUIZ

Public Engineering Institute Enlists Aid of Pinchot and Lehman.

New York, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—The power authority of the State of New York announced tonight that President-elect Roosevelt, Gov. Herbert H. Lehman of New York and Gov. Clifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania have agreed to cooperate with the Institute of Public Engineering in its inquiry into the cost of distribution of electric power.

The institute, formed to provide a forum for the discussion and study of such costs by eminent engineers, will launch its inquiry at a meeting here January 20.

Its announced purpose is to attempt to establish a foundation upon which the distribution costs of electricity, with special reference to household and rural service, can be determined accurately and scientifically.

Those who will preside at the sessions are D. S. Steinman, president of the New York State Society of Professional Engineers and past president of the American Association of Engineers; Clyde L. King, chairman of the public service commission of Pennsylvania; Robert H. Fernald, dean of the University of Pennsylvania School of Engineering; Milo R. Maltbie, chairman of the public service commission of New York; Francis Lee Stuart, consulting engineer and past president of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

Among the representatives of Federal and State regulatory boards, engineering societies, municipalities, the public utility industry and other groups who will cooperate are:

Frank R. McNich, member of the Federal Power Commission; Henry C. Attwill, chairman of the department of public utilities of Massachusetts; Fred H. Brown, United States senator-elect and member of the New Hampshire public service commission; Theodore Kronshage, jr., chairman of the Wisconsin public service commission; David E. Lilienthal, member of the Wisconsin public service commission; Mayland H. Morse, chairman of the New Hampshire public service commission, and Paul Walker, chairman of the corporation commission of Oklahoma.

Income Tax Rate Goes Up March 15

New Scale to Be 4 Per Cent on First $4,000 and 8 on Remainder.

(Associated Press.)

The Internal Revenue Bureau yesterday reminded income tax payers that on March 15 they would have to pay taxes on 1932 incomes at greatly increased rates.

The new rates will be 4 per cent on the first $4,000 of net income and 8 per cent on the remainder after exemptions have been deducted. The surtax begin with 1 per cent upon net incomes between $6,000 and $10,000 and increased to 55 per cent for incomes in excess of $1,000,000. The old rates were 1½ per cent on the first $4,000, 3 per cent on the next $4,000 and 5 per cent on the next $4,000, with the surtax rates starting at $10,000 and increasing to a maximum of 20 per cent.

The new law reduces the exemption for single persons from $1,500 to $1,000, or in case of the head of a family or a married person living with husband or wife, reduces the exemption from $3,500 to $2,500. Credits for dependents remain at $400 each. The reduction of the exemption is expected to require approximately 2,500,000 additional persons to file returns this year who were not required to do so under the old law.

Liner Bremen Delayed By Gales in Atlantic

New York, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—The North German Lloyd Line announced today that the Bremen had encountered heavy gales in the Atlantic and would be more than a day late docking. The vessel was scheduled to arrive tomorrow morning. It is expected now late Wednesday or early Thursday.

A message today said the liner had encountered gales with a velocity of 60 to 80 miles an hour, beginning at noon Sunday. It was 1,475 miles east of Ambrose Light at the time. Among 465 passengers aboard are Fritz Kreisler, violinist; Count John McCormick, Irish tenor, and Edward Everett Horton, motion picture actor.

MRS. MOSKOWITZ DIES IN NEW YORK

advisers. He rarely wrote a speech, formulated an important policy or decided a grave question without consulting her. When he was governor, she was a member of his "kitchen cabinet." When he ran for President, she was publicity director for the Democratic national committee and one of his first-line aids.

She fought by his side through all his political battles—and while the crowds cheered him, she sat in the background mapping out new campaign plans.

He said of her:

"She had the greatest brain of anybody I ever knew."

There were tears in Smith's eyes tonight at Albany when he repeated that tribute on learning of her death, and then hastily boarded a train for New York.

Mrs. Moskowitz was leaving her home last month for her desk in the former governor's skyscraper office when she fell down the stone steps. Her right arm was fractured and her left wrist was broken, but her recovery was expected. Then last Thursday came the heart attack which caused her death late today.

At her bedside were her husband, Dr. Henry Moskowitz, an industrial consultant with European degrees, and her two sons, Carlos Israels, a lawyer, and Joseph Israels, who has been associated with her in publicity work. A daughter, Mrs. Cyril Franklin, lives in London. A brother, Max J. Lindner, is a Cleveland (Ohio) merchant.

Mrs. Moskowitz was the daughter of a poor watchmaker and a native of the same section of New York as Smith—the teeming East Side.

At 16 she left school to become a social service worker, and it was her interest in the problems of the East Siders which brought her to the attention of Smith.

The Federal Diary

By GEORGE D. RILEY

"For one thing, your L. C. Smith needs a new ribbon. And how you do pound those keys! You must take it out on the machine."

DR. SOUDER.

That was our formal introduction to Dr. William Souder, whose fame in tracing typewriting specimens to their point of origin is a matter of established record. Dr. Souder's work at the Bureau of Standards goes on day after day even if the world does not see and hear.

There can be no monkey business with a typewriter unless it leaves its earmarks, we learn. A typewriter is like fingerprints—its leaves its marks and its own peculiar individual marks, at that.

Dr. Souder consented to examine a specimen of typewriting for The Federal Diary. He knew at once the make of machine used. He knew the eccentricities of the machine in question and the typing inclinations of the operator.

"You do not let the machine catch up with you when you shift for capitals," said Dr. Souder. "That is why the lower case letters following capitals are out of alignment. Also your double letters do not imprint evenly."

We learned a few things about a signature we didn't know. Copying one's own signature is difficult, even when genuinely tried. In fact, the greater the effort, the more difficult is the "forgery." But when writing the name without effort at artificiality, it was no hard task to reveal the true characteristics.

"If you dot the 'r' in your signature, it will make a very good 'i,'" the doctor informed us. "You make 'o's' triangular and not round, and you taper the final letter into thinness." And yet, when we tried to imitate the hook on the capital 'G,' it was plainly stilted. (See cut No. 1.)

Replying to our letter through Dr. E. J. Briggs, acting director of the bureau, Dr. Souder supplied some interesting facts concerning the specimens of typing and chirography.

"Two of these sections of your letter show certain defects in the letters o and s," said Dr. Souder.

These letters are magnified to about ten times the normal linear dimensions and are suitable for use in showing how this work is done. Additional defects are visible in other letters. A sufficient number of these, properly displayed, gives evidence which will enable one to recognize, beyond all reasonable doubt, the typewriter on which the document was written.

Part of the signature on your letter has been enlarged about five times the normal linear dimensions. This photograph shows several deviations from the usual styles of letter formation, heights, spacings shadings &c. It is possible for persons to disguise many of their natural deviations from accepted standards or styles but to set up a complete disguise is extremely difficult; so much so that handwriting experts seldom have to admit inability to detect sufficient characteristics to justify an opinion.

In addition to the specimens from your letter, you will find one showing the word Paris. Defects in the transverse spacing of these letters are made evident by the superposing of a series of uniformly spaced rectangular frames. (See Cut No. 2.)

Another set of photographs show defects in the small "u." Discovery of this and other similar defects enabled the Government to detect an attempted fraud and to save $100,000. (See cut No. 3.)

The last photograph shows irregularity in transverse spacing of the letters "s" and "d." This and additional irregularities assisted the Government in convicting a party involved in a narcotic smuggling plot. (See cut No. 4.)

It would be impossible to describe all the details of this work in a single letter. Books have been written attempting to give one a grasp of the fundamentals. Years are spent in study by those who make this type of identification their occupation.

The work is extremely important. It often enables the investigating officer to eliminate all suspects except one, and to move speedily to the solution of the case. The money saved through the narrowed investigation alone usually amounts to many times the cost of the tests conducted in our identification laboratory.

Are you still writing it "1932?"

"But" was the last word in our immediately preceding installment on Swarmi Fedd and the Paris note. Now read for yourself:

But was that a way to treat a visitor. Swarmi was paying his way. He asked for no ifs, ands or alms, although he had just received an arm with a fist wrapped around the end.

To the prefect of police ran the Swarmi, tearing along the boulevard, and almost tearing his—his note. The wind resistance was terrific.

Few Washingtonians appreciate or know the wonders and beauties of their own city, in the opinion of H. W. Dorsey, chief clerk, Smithsonian.

"I wonder," said Mr. Dorsey, "how many Washington folks have been out the Mount Vernon highway at night and seen the Capitol from that angle, all lighted in its resplendent glory.

These four-month intervals between election and inauguration play hob with nerves and digestion. Who's who and what's what for appointees? Civil service nominally protects workers in that classification.

Pressure this time on the incoming administration for jobs, jobs, jobs is tremendous.

Can you doubt four months are a nervous strain on Government workers?

James K. Ramstettler, Federal Trade Commission messenger, who recived notice some months ago because he had never ridden a train, although he had traveled by bus and airplane, now has taken a train ride, all the way to Baltimore. Ramstettler, the "young man who came out of the West" from Colorado, is one of the quickest-thinking youngsters in the commission.

His friends say Ramstettler is a good press agent for the West.

MISS ELIZABETH DUHAMEL, 1302 Euclid street northwest, formerly with the Census Bureau and the Department of Agriculture, tells us this beautiful story:

More than 50 years ago a new scholar arrived one morning at the Visitation Convent, which was then situated at the corner of Tenth and O streets. A seat was given the child beside little Therese de Chambrun. Therese scribbled on her slate: "Will you please tell me your name?" The other one who was hardly 9 years old, scrawled in big letters, Marie Louise de Ronceray."

Therese was the daughter of an attache of the French legation; and at the sight of the familiar name visions arose of her beloved France and attractive Paris. The thought of numerous acquaintances came before her, and once more the old slate and pencil were employed for an inquiry. "Are you related to our friend, Count de Ronceray of Paris?" Marie's pencil scratched back: "I think so; and if you will sit beside me at lunch time I shall tell you all about it."

The little students tried hard to settle down to study, but there were impatient glances at the old clock that seemed unusually long in striking the hour of midday.

Finally they nestled closely in a corner and commenced exchanging the dainties of their lunch baskets; then Marie unfolded her story which seemed as romantic to the listener as it was to the narrator.

There had been a fearful uprising in Haiti, the beautiful island of the West Indies. Toussaint l'Ouverture, the leader of the enslaved people, had caused the massacre of the French settlers. Marie's great-grandparents were amongst the victims; however, an old nurse had managed to save their child. Securing some jewelry and a little money she found shelter on a vessel sailing for Baltimore. This was not the first time Baltimore had offered an asylum to French refugees. In that city there are at present families that descended from the Acadeans that were driven out of Nova Scotia.

Marie told Therese her mother was a widow with three children, her father, a physician, had been American consul at Porto Rico.

Then Therese took up the story and supplied an equally interesting chapter. She told of an acquaintance with the de Ronceray family in Paris and announced the intention of telling them their little cousin had escaped the massacre in Hayti.

A correspondence began between the Paris and Washington de Ronceray. There was an exchange of photographs, presents, coats of arms and elaborate details of family history. There was a cordial invitation from the French family for the Americans to visit them, and at the end of 30 years or more, after frequent solicitations, the hospitality was accepted. Returning from Paris, Miss de Ronceray described her handsome and attractive cousins, and she seemed unconscious of the fact that she was giving rather a vivid description of her own mental and personal characteristics. There must have been a strong resemblance, even judging from the photographs.

Miss de Ronceray was retired from the Postoffice Department within the last six months, after a service of nearly 40 years. She was just as gentle as she was gracious and intelligent.

The funeral of Miss de Ronceray took place at St. Patrick's Church about the first week of December.

Mr. President, I nominate——

AXEL H. OXHOLM and John Arthur Shaw, two men with ideas, lots of 'em are a pair who have and are still doing their oversized bit toward alleviating human misery and getting men employed. Both alert.

Oxholm, you know, is Wood Utilization director. He's always pointing out jobs for idle hands to do. Shaw, Veterans Employment Service director, keeps a weather eye for unemployed veterans. He is responsible for 2,000,000 men getting behind work benches in a year.

So, if the little flower girl will pass around the roses where they belong, she'll pin American beauties on these two lapels.

Which reminds us. A practical idea will put 40 men to work this morning at Norfolk. Some time ago the national committee for Wood Utilization, aiding through Joseph J. Skorup, Commerce Department's branch manager at Norfolk, approached the Association of Commerce there with the committee's suggestion for idle relief. The thought was accepted gladly and a special committee of Norfolk business men followed through.

H. H. Thomason placed his woodworking plant at the association's disposal. An empty shop became a display room. A dozen articles were selected from Wood Utilization's book, "You Can Make It for Profit." The items were made by unemployed. Salesmen were hired to canvass Norfolk and environs.

Not only temporary winter relief is in sight but permanent woodworking industries are the prospect there. Committees in other sections are displaying interest in Oxholm's suggestions.

We owe no apology for frequent mention of Wood Utilization's great work, judging by reaction to the recent series of three articles on furniture and homes, published in the Federal Diary. Many persons ask where they can obtain Mr. Oxholm's booklets.

These publications can be had at nominal cost at the Government Printing Office, information department. The price of the issues on furniture and homes is 10 cents a copy. The "You Can Make It" booklet is 5 cents, or 25 cents for the three. This will answer inquiry by Fred J. Woodward, architect, Treasury Department, and others.

George R. Taylor will bang for order tonight at 8 o'clock when War Department Lodge, No. 16, A. F. G. E., meets at national headquarters, 1726 Pennsylvania avenue.

Tomorrow, at 7:30 p. m., prior to the meeting of the District Federation of Federal Employes Union, the entertainment committee, Mrs. Rebekah Pedigo, chairman, will meet to plan details of the banquet to be given in honor of the executive council, N. F. F. E., at conclusion of their annual meeting, which begins January 9.

The executive council will outline policies of the organization for the next eight months. At the end of that period, the biennial convention, N. F. F. E., will convene at Kansas City, Labor Day. Council members are expected to announce some decisions at the banquet at the Willard Wednesday, January 11.

Almost two years ago, officers and members of the Bureau of Standards Local, No. 260, conceived the idea that portraits of N. F. F. E. presidents should be presented to the national organization. This led to an appeal for subscriptions, which were received from most of the Federation's 400 locals.

The portrait was not completed until spring. This has been the first opportunity available to present the portrait, it being the intention of the committee, headed by Dr. J. Franklin Meyer, president of the Bureau of Standards Local, to present Luther C. Steward's portrait to the council at the banquet January 11.

Difficulty was encountered by the committee in getting the subject and the painter together, either one or the other was unable to be present at times designated. Mr. Steward was kept so busy meeting the attacks on Federal employes during the last year and a half that he had few moments of leisure. Finally the portrait was finished.

J. Ernest Brault, chairman of the membership committee of Local No. 2, has secured permission of the committee handling the affair to present prizes in the slogan contest at the banquet. The contest closed December 31. The three judges, Louis A. Rosafy, of the adjutant general's office; Dr. J. Franklin Meyer, of the Bureau of Standards, and Edgar Graham, of the Treasury Department, will decide the winner soon.

Uncle Sam's newest service basket ball team will have its big chance tonight when play opens in the Government Basket Ball League. Crop Production, Agriculture, will be pitted against the champion Bureau of Investigation squad. Crop Production hastily assembled a team when it was announced a franchise was available. They will have some formidable opposition in the shifty sleuths.

There's due to be a dark horse bridge team in the Federal Bridge League tonight at the Carlton if President Harry Wensel's reports are true. A quartet of shufflers from St. Elizabeths Hospital is expected to take over the vacancy created when Bureau of Engraving and Printing dropped out recently. Thus the league will continue with sixteen members.

Special plans for observing its tenth anniversary have been made for the War Department Local, No. 261, N. F. F. E., by Miss Gertrude M. Coyle, president. The local will hear of them tonight at Federation offices, 710 Fourteenth street northwest. Ulrey J. Biller, seventh national vice president, N. F. F. E., and John D. Cloud, national organizer, will speak. William S. Kinney, secretary-treasurer, Local No. 261, is a charter member.

Little Thought, Little Effort Wins Awards

Today the Federal Diary starts its fifth week of offering $5 merchandise prizes to those who present interesting paragraphs for use in the Federal column.

SKELLY.

Now that the holidays are history we can reach into our memory books and get that bright little story. Or we can keep our peepers open for the newsy bits of human interest, the kind we like to read in our own column.

To Miss Frances Skelly, Prohibition, goes the honor this week. Miss Skelly expressed preference for her merchandise order to be drawn on Hecht's.

Heretofore it has been a see-saw affair. First week a man won the prize. It alternated. Who'll win next week's award?

FAIRFAX COUNTY PAY IS CUT 10 PER CENT

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST,
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Fairfax 166.

Taking the lead in an economical administration for Fairfax County, Va., the board of supervisors reduced their own per diem compensation 10 per cent at the annual meeting yesterday in the county courthouse at Fairfax. This makes the board members' pay $5.40 for each meeting they attend with a maximum of 24 meetings a year. It is also expected that after the preparation of the annual budget next month only one meeting each month will be held instead of the usual bimonthly meetings.

The salaries of all county employes or that portion of the annual salaries of county officials paid out of the county tax levy also were reduced 10 per cent. The new salary scale that will be paid by the county is listed as follows:

Sheriff, $1,080; jailer, $225; Commonwealth's attorney, $1,080; county Agricultural agent, $885.60; home demonstration agent, $900; janitor for courthouse, $972; superintendent of public welfare, $1,350; county purchasing agent, $1,512; captain of county police, per month, $133.65, and privates in county police force per month, $113.40.

Salaries Remaining Unchanged.

The compensation of the judge of the county trial justice court is fixed by the judge of the county circuit court and because of a tie vote on a motion to recommend to the circuit court that this salary be reduced 10 per cent this salary of $2,700 was unchanged. The salary of the divisional superintendent of schools, which is fixed by State law, escaped reduction in the portion paid by the county. The salary and allowances of the county clerk paid by the county also were unchanged because they have always been far below that allowed by the State law. This allows $800 for salary, $100 for clerk hire and $75 for stationery. The salaries are also subject to the 10 per cent cut made by State law.

The salaries of the majority of the county officials are supplemented either by State appropriations or fees of office.

A committee from the Fairfax County Volunteer Firemen's Association appeared before the board protesting against the renewing of the compensation insurance policy because of the high premium rate asked this year by the insurance companies. When the policy was first issued three years ago the premium rate was about $400, which increased to $800 last year and to approximately $1,500 for this year.

Causes of High Rate.

J. H. Beattie, chief of the McLean department, who acted as spokesman, said he believed the high rate was partially due to the law under which the insurance is taken on volunteer firemen makes it mandatory that the board carry the policy or become self insurers.

He declared that the association would endeavor to have the next session of the State Assembly amend the law eliminating the mandatory clause. The board voted to purchase the new compensation insurance because of the State law.

Sheriff Eppa P. Kirby submitted a summary of the jail record for 1932. This showed that 823 persons had been committed during the year. Of this number 604 were white and 177 colored; 34 white women and 8 colored. The fines and costs assessed against these persons amounted to $26,405. These figures do not include those persons arrested and taken before a magistrate, fined and released prior to being placed in jail.

Prohibition Law Fines.

It was also shown that during the year approximately $13,000 was collected in Fairfax County in fines for violation of the State prohibition law. This money is turned over to the State and is supposed to be placed in the State school fund, but the records show that only a small portion of this amount ever reaches the school fund as the majority is taken for the support of the State prohibition bureau.

Mrs. Eleanor W. Aud, superintendent of public welfare, reported that there are 65 families in the county that are being taken care of regularly by the county poor fund, and 25 additional families that are being given temporary aid. This is the largest number that the county has ever supplied during the winter, she reported. More than 150 families were aided during Christmas with food, clothing and toys supplied by outside charitable organizations, clubs, fraternities, school children and pupils of the Madeira School for Girls near Great Falls.

A total of $8,116.93 was expended by county warrants yesterday for expenses contracted during the past month. Practically all of this amount was for fixed charges in conducting county activities.

Few Arrests Made For Using Old Tags

Maryland and Virginia Are Picking Up Drivers From District.

Despite the fact that hundreds of car owners are still without 1933 license plates, few arrests have been made by police.

Four motorists were arrested in Virginia and Maryland yesterday for using cars bearing old tags and warning was served against attempting to use them in those States.

James H. Coleman, who gave his address as 921 Nineteenth street northwest, was arrested in Arlington County. He deposited $15.35 as collateral for his appearance at a hearing tomorrow morning before Judge B. M. Hedrick.

Buffalo Killed Charging Train.

Cambridge, Nebr., Jan. 2 (A.P.).—A Buffalo, either off its feed or making a rash thrust against the civilization which drove its kind from the Western plains, today tried to stop a railroad train. The buffalo lost.

Breaking through a fence, the animal, which belonged to a private herd, charged head-on into a Burlington Railroad locomotive and was killed.

ALEXANDRIA WATER CASE IS DUE TODAY

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

When the case of the City of Alexandria against the Alexandria Water Co. to enjoin the utility against raising its rates is called in the Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals today it is understood that Gardner L. Boothe, counsel for the company, will ask for a continuance on the ground that he has not had sufficient time to prepare a reply to a brief filed by Commonwealth's Attorney Albert V. Bryan and City Attorney Carl L. Budwesky.

Last February the State Corporation Commission granted the water company a 10 per cent increase in its rates instead of a 40 per cent boost which the company is now seeking.

The Alexandria Police Department in 1932 made a total of 3,623 arrests, according to the annual report returned by Capt. John S. Arnold. The report also shows the detective force, in charge of Sergt. Edgar Sims, recovered $19,338.89 in stolen goods, out of a total of $23,138.60 reported. Of the 53 automobiles stolen in the city, all but one was recovered, and the police also recovered 38 automobiles stolen in other cities.

Fire loss during the past year has been placed by Fire Chief James M. Duncan, jr., at $48,360. The Fire Department ambulance responded to 739 calls, including 363 emergency calls and 374 transfer cases.

Elliott F. Hoffman, clerk of Alexandria courts, reports total collections in fines for violations of the prohibition ordinance during the year amounted to $13,554.75, as compared to $23,350.25 in 1931, or a drop of $9,795.50. There were 1,337 deeds recorded as against 1,732 last year, a drop of 395. The number of marriage licenses issued showed an increase of 41 over 1931 in spite of the depression, the total for 1932 being 897.

The annual meeting of the George Washington Birthday Association will be held Thursday night at the chamber of commerce. Officers will be elected and arrangements made for the placing of a wreath on Washington's Tomb at Mount Vernon on the morning of February 22. It is expected that the association will hold a banquet this year instead of a parade.

James M. Eaton, president of the Ludington Airship Lines, will be the guest speaker at the Rotary Club luncheon today at 12:30 o'clock in the George Mason Hotel. His talk will be on "What's in the Air for 1933?"

President Francis H. Pannon has arranged for a special speaker for each meeting the coming year.

Mrs. C. W. Howell, president of the Daughters of the Confederacy Chapter of Alexandria, has announced that the annual meeting and election of officers to have been held tonight in Lee Camp Hall will be held next Tuesday owing to the sickness at present of so many of the members.

Miss Annie Lewis, of 116 North Columbus street, is a patient at the Alexandria Hospital suffering from a fractured hip, sustained in a fall at her home.

Florida Air Cruise Will Start Today

Five Washingtonians Are Expected to Join Flight Here.

All airways lead to the College Park Airport today. This flying field is the first stop of one of the greatest mass flights in the history of commercial aviation, the second annual winter cruise to Florida, which got under way this morning from Hicksville, Long Island, home of the Aviation Country Club.

Thirty-five planes are expected to land at College Park between 11 a. m. and noon, according to an announcement last night from the cruise headquarters in New York City. The aircade is made up of the latest type of ships, owned by wealthy amateur fliers of New York and Philadelphia. Probably no two of the planes will be exactly alike.

At least five Washingtonians are expected to join the cruise here. They are Mrs. John Remey, daughter of Beale R. Howard; J. C. Breckinridge, C. H. Henderson, Crosby N. Boyd and Chester H. Warrington, who will give a luncheon for the visitors tomorrow at the field, at which local aviation leaders will be guests.

Escape of 36 Royalists Reported.

Madrid, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—An unconfirmed report from Las Palmas, Canary Islands, today said that 36 monarchists exiled to Villa-Cisneros had escaped aboard a French sailing craft, the name of which was not learned. Officials here said they believed the report erroneous.

SECOND BALL TRIAL TO OPEN TOMORROW

Denny and Andrews Are Due in Arlington Today to Help in Case.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

E. Wade Ball, former treasurer of Arlington County, goes on trial tomorrow on an indictment returned at the October term of the Circuit Court charging him with misuse of $515,959 of county funds. It will be Ball's second trial.

With the arrival in the county today of Assistant Attorney General of the State Collins Denny, jr., who will assist Commonwealth's Attorney Lawrence W. Douglas in the prosecution, and State Auditor of Public Accounts T. Coleman Andrews, the State is ready to go to trial, Douglas says.

While the State is ready with its case, it is possible that some delay will be met in obtaining the jury, it being intimated that the list of 96 persons who will report for jury duty includes approximately 60 who were called for the first trial and who will be ineligible for the second trial.

It is further known the Commonwealth will make efforts to have the jury hearing the case locked up during deliberations.

The case is expected to last more than a week.

Tomorrow's meeting of the Arlington County Kiwanis Club will be featured as "President's Day." The program will be in charge of Edwin F. Hill, president of the Washington Kiwanis Club and governor-elect of the Capital district. The program will include installation of newly elected officers.

Those to be installed are John F. Webster, president; Samuel Gordon Green, vice president; Amos C. Crounse, immediate past president; Henry J. Klinge, secretary, and Joseph L. Crupper, treasurer.

A resume of the activities of the club during the past year will be given by the retiring president, Amos C. Crounse, who will preside. The meeting will be held at Windsor Arms, on Glebe road, at 12:30 p. m.

The Arlington County Democratic Woman's Club will hold its first meeting of the new year Thursday night, at Clarendon, according to announcement yesterday of Mrs. Catherine M. Rogers, president.

The Arlington County Health Department will hold its preschool dental clinic at Clarendon Health Center tomorrow between the hours of 9 and 12 a. m., and 1 and 4 p. m. The clinic will be conducted by Dr. C. R. Boyland, county school dentist.

A program of activities for the new year will be outlined by the executive committee of the Organized Women Voters of Arlington County Thursday night at the home of the president, Mrs. Marion Hagan, Waycroft.

Seizure of Shanhaikwan No Surprise to Chinese

Geneva, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Japanese occupation of Shanhaikwan, on the Chinese-Manchurian border, evoked little surprise in Chinese quarters here since for many weeks China has been warning the League of Nations that Japan has been seeking some pretext to advance on the Province of Jehol.

Though the league offices were closed today, it was considered certain the Shanhaikwan incident will only serve to increase the pessimism surrounding the league's endeavors to settle the Sino-Japanese dispute.

FOREIGN NEWS IN BRIEF

Paris, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Francisco J. New Mexico Treasurer Succumbs at Santa Fe

Santa Fe, N. Mex., Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Warren R. Graham, 70, New Mexico State treasurer, died unexpectedly at his home here tonight. He was a resident of Albuquerque many years. He moved to Albuquerque from Illinois, where he worked as a coal miner in his youth and gained fame as an amateur wrestler.

In November he was reelected to office by next to the largest majority of any candidate on the Democratic State ticket. He is survived by his widow and two sons.

McCoin Search Is at Standstill

Ohio Authorities Uncertain Where to Turn; Pythians Offer Reward.

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Search for R. S. McCoin, missing Henderson, N. C., attorney, reached the "cross roads" tonight and left police here uncertain where to turn.

Close study of numerous conflicting stories brought from Thomas Scully, assistant detective chief, the comment, "I haven't any theory." So far as Columbus authorities are concerned, Scully said, the investigation is at a standstill.

He scouted reports that a stranger seen in no less than a half dozen Ohio communities was McCoin, although several persons identified photographs of the Henderson attorney as resembling the man.

A reward of $500 for discovery of the body of Edward McCoin, missing attorney, was offered yesterday by the supreme lodge of the Knights of Pythias.

"Elevator Dinner" Planned.

New York, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—The Port of New York Authority, to celebrate the installation of the four largest truck elevators ever built, tonight sent out invitations to an "elevator dinner." When the limousines arrive next Friday, one of the elevators will bear guests and limousines to the sixth floor. The 50 guests will be served dinner on the 17-by-34-foot elevator platform of another elevator.

10 PER CENT PAY CUT LIKELY FOR SCHOOLS

Prince Georges Will Benefit With State in Probable Legislative Action.

Any cut in the salary of Maryland school teachers, which may be ordered by the Legislature after it convenes Wednesday, will save money not only for the State but Prince Georges County as well, a study of the county school budget disclosed yesterday.

Prince Georges County's annual expense for teachers' salaries is now almost $36,000 above the minimum which could be paid under the State's salary scale. Assuming that the cut in wages will amount to 10 per cent, which seems likely, it means that the county will save one-tenth of this sum, or $3,600.

The saving will come about in this way: The State, through its equalization fund, assures any county that money to pay sufficient teachers at the minimum wage will be forthcoming from the State if county taxes do not raise it. A 10 per cent cut in the minimum wage will reduce by the same amount the sum paid out by the State from the equalization fund.

In Prince Georges County a 10 per cent cut will save the State $41,600, as the State assures the county that it will make up any deficiency in teachers' salaries up to $416,000. But the State takes no responsibility for the extra $36,000 paid by the county over the minimum scale. Therefore the county will derive the 10 per cent saving from the cut in this $36,000.

Although no definite statement has been made that there will be a cut in salaries, it is considered likely that one will be made, probably one amounting to 10 per cent. A smaller cut would save the county less money and a larger one would increase the county saving. At any rate, a saving of $3,600, if not offset by other necessary expenditures, would permit a cut of one-half of 1 per cent in the county tax rate.

"SOCIAL TRENDS."

After three years of labor and an expenditure of $1,000,000, a committee of sociologists appointed by President Hoover has rendered a report on "social trends" in the United States. The net result is a vast accumulation of matter which no one will have time to read. The committee discusses a variety of social phenomena and concludes that it might be well to create a national advisory council, including educational, economic, scientific and governmental representatives, to consider national problems. It seems to be assumed that if American problems can be laid on a single table, to be dealt with by a body of assorted experts, a new national plan of living can be devised and somehow made effective "by law." The remedy proposed by the committee, in short, is socialism.

The Research Committee on Social Trends goes the way of all other boards and commissions set up to "co-ordinate" those problems which can not and should not be co-ordinated. The tomes issued by the committee will take their place alongside the dust-covered volumes issued by the Industrial Commission a few years ago. Experience should teach Americans that they are chasing a will-o'-the-wisp when they imagine that a super-council of any sort can work out a program whereby the people and the Government can be induced to adopt a "new plan" in which Americans will be miraculously relieved of their burdens by the enactment of new "laws." The people at this moment are trying to throw off one of these fundamental laws, which was at one time regarded as an experiment noble in motive and calculated to work a miracle in American life.

Instead of groping about to devise a scheme for salvation of the American people by law, sociologists who are not Socialists should take advantage of the lesson of experience and advocate a return to simplicity in the operations of the Government. Let the Government be held to its duties under the Constitution. Attempts to make it a social dictator are not only futile but injurious. The people are encouraged to shirk their own responsibilities and to make unreasonable demands upon the Government. If family life, religion, and ethics are going to the dogs the fault does not lie with the Government or the Constitution, but with the people.

CHOOSING A CABINET.

Having relinquished his duties as governor of New York, President-elect Roosevelt is now free to devote his entire time to the problems of his forthcoming administration. Among his most important tasks before March 4 is the selection of a Cabinet. Mr. Roosevelt has already given a great deal of attention to this responsibility, and some Cabinet members have doubtless been tentatively approved. It may be assumed that the entire field of available men for these posts will be canvassed.

In the selection of a Cabinet two strong forces are always at work. Efforts are made on one hand to assemble the best available talent for each post. On the other hand, there is a strong demand for the reward of different political and sectional factions with Cabinet positions. That these factions are bringing pressure to bear on President-elect Roosevelt can not be doubted. But he is trying to establish an administration that will command the confidence of the people and be able to cope with the grave problems that are pressing for solution.

Seldom has any President been confronted with more difficult questions: If ever a President needed a Cabinet of experts to help formulate and carry out the Government's policies in the fields of finance, international relations, domestic commerce and agriculture, veterans' affairs, etc., it is the man who will enter the White House on March 4. It is unthinkable that any man could solve these problems and meet these issues alone, or with the aid of inexperienced advisers. The gravity of the situation demands that the very best talent in the Democratic party be marshaled for the inauguration of the new deal.

The electorate did not place the responsibility for leadership through this critical period solely upon Mr. Roosevelt. The November election was a Democratic victory. The Democratic party rather than any individual will be held liable for the conduct of the Government during the next four years. In a sense every Democrat who joined in the fight for power is in duty bound to help the incoming administration.

It is rumored that eminent Democrats have declined to serve in Mr. Roosevelt's Cabinet. It is to be hoped that these rumors are untrue. To decline Cabinet duty is to refuse to serve one's country in a period of emergency. How can cooperation from Republicans be expected for a united assault upon the depression if distinguished Democrats refuse to lend their aid to the new administration?

"Of the various executive abilities", said Thomas Jefferson, "no one excites more anxious concern than that of placing the interests of our fellow citizens in the hands of honest men, with understanding sufficient for their stations. No duty is at the same time more difficult to fulfill." President-elect Roosevelt is fully aware of the demand for statesmanship of a high order in his Cabinet. Indications are that he is making every effort to bring the most able statesmen of the Democratic party to his aid. His success in this matter will determine, in large measure, the effectiveness of his administration.

OUT OF NICARAGUA.

The United States yesterday withdrew the last Marines from Nicaragua. That country, under its new President, is in full control of its own affairs, without any interference from the United States. The native national guard, organized and trained by Americans, is now believed to be capable of maintaining public order.

By its complete withdrawal from Nicaragua, as promised, the United States makes ridiculous those critics here and abroad, who refused to give this country credit for good faith when it announced in 1926 that its purpose in sending armed forces to Nicaragua was to befriend that country and to enable it to recover and hold its independence and tranquillity. President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg were subjected to insult in Congress because of their Nicaraguan policy. The apprehensions of certain elements in South America were stirred by the speeches of Americans who denounced their own Government as imperialistic. Only recently Japanese apologists of the Manchurian aggression have cited American intervention in Nicaragua as an example of the necessity of imperial expansion. If they are honest they will now admit that there is no parallel in the policies of the two nations and will not be until Japan withdraws from Manchuria after having aided China in establishing public order throughout its territory.

The world does not understand how a growing and powerful nation can refrain from encroaching upon weak neighbors. Americans of the right sort—and they are in the vast majority—do understand. When the United States declared in 1898 that it would make Cuba free it spoke in good faith, and it has kept the faith. When President Coolidge announced in 1926 that the United States would withdraw from Nicaragua after assisting that distracted country to recover its equilibrium he spoke the truth. American policy in its relations with its neighbors is as different from Japanese policy in Manchuria as day is from night.

WHEAT AND CHEAP MONEY.

The outlook for American wheat growers is not very promising as the new year is ushered in. Experts of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics estimate the carryover which is burdening the world market at 745,000,000 bushels, an increase of 37,000,000 over the surplus stocks last year. The demand for wheat has been curtailed. Yet a number of European countries that were formerly importers of wheat are paying huge bounties and thus stimulating greater production within their own boundaries.

More than half of the carryover is in the United States. Surplus holdings of wheat are estimated at 416,000,000 bushels in this country; 311,000,000 bushels in Canada; 18,000,000 bushels in Argentina, and only 1,000,000 bushels in Australia. It is notable that most of the carryover is in the United States and Canada, while the other two great producing countries hold but a little wheat. Australia and Argentina have both gained advantages in the world market by the drastic depreciation of their currencies.

Prospects for relieving the American market of its vast surplus are not bright. Exports, not including the shipments by the Grain Stabilization Corporation, fell to 3,530,000 bushels in the last five months, compared with nearly 20,000,000 bushels in the corresponding period of 1931. Foreign nations desiring wheat can obtain it cheaper from countries off the gold standard than they can from the United States. Even Canadian farmers have a distinct advantage over the American wheat grower.

Depreciated currency has cut deeply into the American export market as well as increasing foreign competition in the domestic market. American wheat growers can not hope to regain their export trade until this situation is corrected. Even when foreign currencies are again tied to gold, low wages, cheap land and greater fertility of some areas will make it extremely difficult for American farmers to compete in the world wheat market. Hope for improvement must be based upon curtailment of production so that the output will not exceed the domestic demand. It is not yet certain whether Congress will be able to offer the farmer any practical help in achieving that result.

BRITISH UNEMPLOYED.

A supplementary form of aid for England's unemployed has been launched on a nation-wide scale. It is not concerned primarily either with rendering financial assistance or the securing of work, for which there are already national organizations, but aims rather to prevent enforced idleness from resulting in a decline of mental and physical fitness and mechanical skill.

Under the direction of the National Council of Social Service plans are being put into effect in several hundred communities which will afford facilities for occupational practice and training, physical improvement and educational activities. The evil results of idleness will be combatted in a scientific manner while the unemployed await the possibility of return to work. Representatives of the council are meeting with other service groups to coordinate the work as completely as possible. While these efforts to preserve the morale and efficiency of those out of work is to be largely supported by voluntary contributions it is also to have government assistance.

Villages in various parts of England are opening the schools for free night study. Gymnasium equipment is provided and football teams are being organized, all with the idea of keeping up the spirit of those unemployed and in many cases fitting them for better positions when opportunity offers. Great Britain's compulsory unemployment insurance, now twenty-one years old, has not broken down to the extent that it has in Germany, but with the continuing years of depression it has been unable to care for all the unemployed. Many have been without work so long that they are no longer eligible for benefits, and new workers have grown up who have never had jobs, so the royal commission on unemployment insurance now proposes an additional benefit plan at government expense to provide for "unemployment assistance."

Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, estimates that there are now in England 1,000,000 individuals among the unemployed who probably never can be reabsorbed by British industry, or at least not for years to come. They will continue to be a heavy charge on the assistance plan, and they will also require the indefinite continuance of such organizations as those being organized for maintaining physical and educational facilities for the unemployed.

THE LETICIA DISPUTE.

The great waste of life and treasure in the Gran Chaco appears to be of no value as an object lesson to Peru and Colombia, which are rushing war material and soldiers to the upper Amazon. Ships and barges utilized as transports are reported at Para, Brazil, loaded with Colombian soldiers bound for the disputed area. More Colombian forces have been sent overland to be in readiness for the ultimate clash. Peru is concentrating troops and airplanes, and Brazil, determined to protect her neutrality, is also sending strong reinforcements to Tabatinga, only five miles distant from Leticia, on the opposite side of the river.

Thus another inexcusable conflict is impending over a boundary question which by all rules of modern civilized procedure should be settled by peaceful negotiation. The town of Leticia was ceded to Colombia by formal treaty ratified by Peru. The area so acquired was in peaceful possession of Colombia for several years until September 1 last, when Peruvian irregulars seized the town, imprisoned Colombian officials, confiscated customs funds and took possession of the public buildings. Lima authorities promptly denounced the seizure as without government sanction or instigation. Public opinion, however, became quickly inflamed, and in obedience to national feeling the government troops reinforced the attacking party and have continued to hold Leticia.

Since Colombia was in rightful possession of Leticia the Bogota government appears to be justified in claiming that the preliminary requisite to any adjustment of the differences between the two countries be the evacuation of Leticia by the Peruvians and its restoration to Colombian control.

Police and troops are fighting off a march of farmers in Austria. What an uncivilized country! Hasn't it any farm board?

The legislatures of 43 States will meet this month, thus testing out the theory that this is to be a happy New Year.

STALIN IS NERVOUS

From the Chicago Tribune.

Comrade Stalin has turned press agent, unintentionally, for Thomas Campbell's book, "Russia, Market or Menace." The comrade did not intend to be of service, but he was mad. Campbell, who undertakes technocratic wheat farming in the American West, went to Russia as adviser to the Soviets. Coming out, he wrote a book in which was an account of an interview with Stalin. The all-Red boss took exception to Campbell's narrative and prepared a counter-statement for publication in the official Communist fortnightly. Before it was printed he sent for the correspondent of the Associated Press stationed in Moscow and gave out the statement for circulation in the United States.

Press privileges in Moscow have their limitations, one of which requires humoring the commissars. The statement was cabled over. It may have been coherent in Russian, but when translated it appears hysterical. Stalin is trying to say something and is not succeeding, although he does make it appear that he resents the presumption of any one claiming friendship with him. That would imply a human need. The all-Red boss has none.

There is another implication in the statement which the comrade did not intend. That is one of uncertainty. What a dictator jumps from a pin prick the natural assumption is that he is growing uneasy. His anger seems to proceed from alarm, from a feeling that all is not well. Lenin would have regarded such behavior as weakness. He would have thought the gentleman was not sure of himself.

Stalin's enemies will conclude that the dictator is wavering. He betrays his sense of insecurity. There are other indications which would justify him in sniffing the wind for the scent of an enemy. Russia, the world's great farm, is going hungry. Bread ticket restrictions are increasing the difficulties of obtaining food. That way lies ambition for the fellow who wants Stalin's job, for the masses terrorized, for the counter-revolutionaries. The man with an ax is always in the shadows of tyranny.

POST HASTE.

It is plain from the advertisements that if Christmas and New Year's could be deferred until mid-January presents could be bought much cheaper.

From the way the present Congress is leaning on the President-elect the Seventy-third is liable to run out on him, leaving everything on his desk.

The Marines have left, and all that Dr. Sacasa has to do now is to get the Old Nic out of Nicaragua, otherwise known as Sandino.

That was not a bread line in front of Senator Dill's office yesterday; just volunteers ready to sacrifice themselves on the beer-test jury.

It probably should be a satisfaction to know from such a distinguished source as the President's research committee that we have not simply been imagining things, but that there is really something wrong.

The President-elect has engaged Old Scout Norris to lead him into the wilds of Alabama and demonstrate that Muscle Shoals is not a myth.

Only six new British lords. King George misses Lloyd George when it comes to docking peers for the good of the party.

If the Thursday eve powwow in New York covers all the subjects on the agenda it will find no excuse for the song: "Lord, you made the night too long."

It may be O. K. for F. D. to take over legislative functions and minor things like that, but the report that he is going to publicize personally his next cruise calls for an investigation by the Press Club.

An optimist is one who still thinks that the legislative fulfillment of Democratic promises can be left to a Congress which may not meet for a year.

If the New York conference can shift the veto publicity to the present occupant of the White House that will be good politics, anyhow.

It might be equally useless if a Senate committee investigated how much ad lib beer would have changed the character of the hilarity fluid consumed on New Year's Eve.

UNITED.

Time was we had a fortune or we thought one ours to boast.
'Twas written in the ledgers which the bank accountants post,
But a red line lies beneath it and there's no use staying sad
Just because we lost the title to the stuff we almost had.

Now, we're certain of the children, they've been ours in fact and name;
We have had them always with us since the very day they came;
And no banker ever calls us on the telephone to say
That the price is down on Janets and he's taken ours away.

Here we are still bound together, all for one and one for all;
And we'll live our lives united, whether markets rise or fall.
Though we have a need for money as the days go speeding by,
There is many a happy minute which the dollars can't supply.

We can be a little braver in the face of toil and care,
We can stand a little closer when there's trouble we must bear,
We can plan and scheme together and may find contentment, too,
In the countless, extra duties which we're now required to do.

Never Yet Have the Oppressed Won Freedom by Whining or Signing Petitions

By ROBERT QUILLEN

IF you will travel through the Southeast, you will see the poorest, the most illiterate and the most backward part of America.

If you ask why a land so greatly blessed by Nature lags behind less favored regions, history will give the answer. In the time of our fathers the land was ravaged by people called "Carpetbaggers." And the toil of two generations has not yet effaced the scars.

Read the story of those dreadful days and learn how utterly a civilization can be destroyed by the malice or greed or folly of rulers. It will help you to understand the peril that faces America now.

You can not realize it, for history never reveals its significance to those who are living it, but these are carpetbagger days.

Do you realize how heavily your land is mortgaged?

The national debt—including, of course, that of all divisions of Government—has grown since 1914 from $4,000,000,000 to $35,000,000,000. The interest charge alone is greater than the total cost of operating the National Government before the war.

The annual tax burden in the same period has grown from $3,000,000,000 to $14,000,000,000.

The cost of operating the National Government in 1916—the last prewar year—was only a fraction over $1,000,000,000. Now it is over $4,000,000,000.

Capital is confiscated; industry and commerce are crippled; homes and farms are sold for taxes; millions are jobless and destitute; and yet law-makers still search for new things to tax.

That is what the modern carpetbaggers have done to you—to you and your children and your children's children.

Yet it isn't too late to save yourself.

The debt must be paid. The interest charges must be met. But taxes for all other purposes can be reduced as much as you wish to reduce them.

Complaint won't do it. Talk will avail nothing. Petitions and resolutions are useless.

Reason does not move the unreasonable. Rulers who are unjust or foolishly extravagant or venial are moved by no argument except force. And the greatest force in the world is an aroused public opinion.

In plain, old-fashioned language, the people must get hopping mad and let the world know it.

Righteous wrath will save America, and nothing else will. If a free horse is ridden to death, it is only because it hasn't the wit or energy to buck.

POLITICAL COMMENT

Congress Moves Leisurely.
Providence Journal.

That Congress is not inclined to hurry through its essential work for this short session is indicated by the fact that not a single one of the eleven regular annual appropriation bills was completed before the Christmas recess. All of these measures, of course, must originate in the lower house according to constitutional stipulations. Thus far only three of them have been reported out of the appropriations committee. One has actually passed the House itself, but has not been acted upon by the Senate.

It may be that, in one grand final rush before March 4, the entire eleven bills will be approved by both branches of Congress. But as matters now stand, it is clear that this leisurely moving Congress is piling up a lot of work for itself that must be tackled with vigor when the holiday recess is ended if another reason for a special session next year is to be avoided. The money that these bills provide must be available on July 1, 1933.

Is Kansas Going Wet?
St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Only two States, North Carolina and Kansas, voted dry in the Literary Digest straw poll on prohibition last spring. North Carolina, where dry sentiment had a majority of only 68 votes out of 64,790, already has shown that she didn't really mean it, for a wet senator was elected from that State last month. And now even Kansas, last stronghold of the prohibition cause, is showing signs of deserting the "noble experiment."

Pressure for Farm Relief.
Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The new farm bloc in Congress is ready for action. It is in what is probably the strongest strategic position ever held by an agrarian group in Washington. It has the backing of the three leading farm organizations, the American Farm Bureau Federation, the National Grange and the National Farm Union. Its program includes the domestic-allotment plan, which already has broad support. And it is pressing its program at a time when the country is more or less in a mood to try some form of advanced farm relief in the hope that it may unlock the log jam of depression.

With the beer bill out of the way in the House, farm relief now becomes one of the two foremost problems. Economy is the other.

Beer and Budget.
Baltimore Sun.

In part the failure of Congress to formulate any definite plans for balancing the budget is due to the uncertainty over the fate of the beer bill. It is conceded in every quarter that if the beer bill becomes law, the fiscal problem confronting the Federal Government will be quite different from the problem that will exist if the beer bill is defeated. Until the outcome of the fight to legalize 3.2 per cent brew is determined, therefore, there can be no conclusive action on fiscal matters.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Technocracy Kindly Provides New "Governance by Science"—But Not a Dictatorship of Technicians.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: One of the finest things that has come to public notice since Prof. Albert Einstein revealed his secret was that lilting explanation of technocracy by Howard Scott, of Columbia University.

While Herr Albert was compelled to tell the gaping world that, in order to reach his conclusion, 27 unknown quantities had to be assumed, Mr. Scott scaled the summit without even shifting gears.

It seems there has been an uneasy feeling among technocrats everywhere, growing out of an assumption that, because the average run of people could not possibly understand technocracy, they were suspicious of it. And suspicious people, as everyone knows, peer under the bed or give way to forebodings and let nature take its course.

So naturally Mr. Scott thought something ought to be done to assuage the anguish. For the upper-story thinkers to contact the lower strata, it was necessary, of course, to hold the party in the basement and bar all words that would stagger a rustic.

With this perspective, it was fairly easy for Mr. Scott to write technocracy's Magna Carta. Plenty tense, but tolerably terse, here is his alpha and omega:

"The word 'technocracy,' as representative of a new body of thought means governance by science—social control through the power of technique—and as such has no connotations of dictatorship by the technician or a soviet of the engineer. Technocracy is a new approach to social phenomena.

"Technocracy is . . . a method of scientific procedure in operating a mechanism of a continental order of magnitude.

"Technocracy points out that this continent has no cause for gloom."

Thus, with civilization rapidly approaching the sublime, any one who can discourse for 5 or 10 minutes upon some phase of the thinghood of the whatness not only makes the front page, but is very likely to be compelled to occupy space in the brimming halls of the immortals.

Labor-Saving Machinery Here to Stay. Shorter Work Week Necessary.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Labor-saving machines are here to stay because this and future generations will not agree to go back to slow, laborious hand labor.

The machine makes life so easy for most people that more mechanical devices to displace manpower instead of less, will be utilized in the future.

To my mind the only logical way to solve the present unemployment problem is a shorter workweek for all wage-earners. It is obvious there must be a corresponding reduction of individual earnings, for, in order to contniue to attract capital to it, industry must be conducted upon a profit basis.

However a lower wage-scale for all wage-earners would be only temporary. The same amount of work distributed among more workers would keep more money in circulation and provide at least a part-time job for all.

Enact into law and vigorously enforce the 30-hour work-week or some other similar plan for distributing jobs and practically end unemployment as well as the hardships and suffering it entails.

Eskimo Happier Than Civilized Man. Because Tax Man Is Not There.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: When bumper crops of all kinds, including all the temperate zone vegetables and fruits, are ours this season in this land of "milk and honey" it leads one to ponder. There is plenty of food, shelter and raiment for all. The people have fine roads and plenty of automobiles to travel over them and time to ride as well. Yet in general they are unhappy and very apprehensive.

Isn't it queer that the Eskimo can live on blubber, snatch his raiment from off savage bears and contentedly loll himself to sleep in a tent formed of ice and snow? Why should all this be so? I will reveal the mystery about it. The tax man does not threaten to take the blubber, bears and tent away from the Eskimos. Only civilized man chooses to inflict this evil on himself.

PHILOSOPHER.

Says Grain Needed for Beer Is Too Small to Affect Surplus.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Gustav Pabst testified before the Senate agriculture committee during the war that less than three-fourths of 1 per cent of all the grain raised in the United States was used in the manufacture of liquor, and that was too small an item to be considered in the conservation of food. He was backed by all the brewery interests. If that small a percentage was used, then how can any one expect to use more than that amount now if we have only beer? If it was too small an item to consider in conservation, it certainly will be too small and too insignificant an item to reduce such an enormous surplus as there is in this country now. G. L. WYANT.

Happenings of Interest in Washington Society

President to Return With Mrs. Hoover This Morning.

THE PRESIDENT AND MRS. HOOVER and their party who have been in Florida will return at 8 o'clock this morning.

Mrs. Edward Everett Gann and Mrs. William Howard Taft are the guests in whose honor Mrs. William F. Dennis will entertain at luncheon on Friday.

The Secretary of State and Mrs. Henry L. Stimson entertained yesterday afternoon at a reception at Woodley for members of the Diplomatic Corps, officials of the State Department and former members of the Foreign Service.

The reception was held instead of the annual New Year's Day breakfast, which the Secretary and Mrs. Stimson usually give at the Pan-American Union following the President's New Year's reception at the White House. Owing to the absence of the President there was no reception at the White House, and the Secretary of State's reception was in the afternoon instead of the morning.

Mrs. Stimson, who received the guests with the Secretary, wore a gown of deep red velvet. The house was charmingly decorated with Christmas greens and holly, and the live Christmas tree in the front garden, decorated with gleaming white lights, added a note of festive cheer.

At the tea table were Mrs. William Witt Mitchell, wife of the Attorney General; Mrs. James Grafton Rogers, wife of the Assistant Secretary of State; Mrs. Keith Merrill and Mrs. Warren Delano Robbins.

Members of the Cabinet were also present, for, with the exception of the Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Ogden L. Mills, the Secretary and Mrs. Stimson were the only ones who held a reception yesterday.

The Chief Justice and Mrs. Charles Evans Hughes also held a reception yesterday afternoon in their home on R street. They were assisted by the Associate Justices of the Supreme Court and their wives.

Mrs. Charles Francis Adams, wife of the Secretary of the Navy, will not receive tomorrow, but will be at home the following Wednesday, January 11.

Mrs. Ray Lyman Wilbur, wife of the Secretary of the Interior, and Representative Ruth Bryan Owen are among the judges at the fashion show to be held tomorrow at the Miami Biltmore for the benefit of the milk fund of Miami.

The Marchesa Diana, wife of the Charge d'Affaires of Italy, Signora Casardi, Signora Sbernadori, Countess Roncalli, Signora Bonardelli, Signora di Girolamo, Countess Fumasoni-Biondi, Miss Vera Bloom, Miss Meta Morris Evans—the ladies' committee for the concert to be given at the Mayflower Hotel tomorrow evening by Tito Schipa and other artists of the Metropolitan Opera Co., for the benefit of the poor Italian children of Washington, met at the apartment of Signora Casardi, at the Mayflower yesterday, to complete plans for the concert.

The Most Rev. Fumasoni-Biondi, the apostolic delegate to Washington, heads an additional list of sponsors for the concert. Others are the Minister of the Netherlands and Mme. van Royen; the Minister of Egypt, Sesostris Sidarouss Pasha; Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Wilbur J. Carr, Charge d'Affaires of Switzerland, Mr. Louis H. Michell, the Counselor of the Brazilian Embassy and Mme. de Almeida, the Secretary of the Belgium Embassy, Count Francois de Buisseret; Attache of the Swiss Legation, Mr. Pierre de Salis; the Attache of the Egyptian Legation, Mr. Andre Cattani; Mr. and Mrs. James Clement Dunn; Gen. and Mrs. George Scriven; Capt. and Mrs. W. W. Galbraith; Comdr. and Mrs. Maddox; Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Harriman; Capt. and Mrs. Fortunato Porotto; Mrs. Morris Evans; Mrs. Hamilton Lamar; Mrs. Heurich; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dodge; Judge and Mrs. C. C. McChord; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Obear; Dr. and Mrs. G. B. Tribble; Dr. and Mrs. Walter Teichmann; the Rev. Dr. Lardone, and Mrs. Brewster Marwick, who will entertain at dinner before the concert.

The first Secretary of the Egyptian Legation, Nicholas Khalil Bey, entertained at luncheon on Sunday at the Olney Inn when his guests were the Minister of Egypt, Sesostris Sidarouss Pasha; Miss Agnes Claudius, daughter of Senator Claudius Pasha; Miss Elizabeth Cerf, daughter of Judge Cerf, of California; Miss Calderon; Brig. Gen. William E. Horton; Commander and Mrs. Edgar R. McClung; Baron Marcellus; D. A. R von Redlich; Mr. Hussein Chawky, Attache of the legation, and Mr. Jack Downes.

Secretary and Mrs. Newton Entertain for Midshipman Son.

The Secretary to the President and Mrs. Walter H. Newton entertained at luncheon yesterday for their son, Midshipman Walter H. Newton, jr., and a group of his classmates who have been spending the holidays here. After the luncheon the midshipmen returned to Annapolis. The guests included Miss Grace Newton, Miss Nance Hall, Midshipman Bernard Streen, Midshipman Clinton Heath, Midshipman Howard Anderson, Midshipman Richard Derickson, and his brother, Cadet Bowen Derickson.

Mr. Andrew W. Mellon, Ambassador to Great Britain, has arrived in Washington from his home in Pittsburgh, and is at the Carlton for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Tuckerman and Miss Ruth Tuckerman will go today to Baltimore to attend the second Bachelors' Cotillion in that city and return tomorrow. Before the dance, Miss Tuckerman will be one of the guests of honor at a dinner to be given by Mrs. J. Wilmer Biddle at the Mount Vernon Club.

Dr. and Mrs. Allington British Embassy Guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Alanson B. Houghton entertained at luncheon yesterday in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Cyril Allington, who are the guests of the English-Speaking Union. Dr. Allington is the headmaster of Eton School and Mr. Houghton is a former Ambassador of the United States to Great Britain. Dr. and Mrs. Allington went yesterday to the British Embassy to be the guests of the Ambassador of Great Britain and Lady Lindsay until tomorrow.

Mrs. William Fitch Kelley has returned to Washington after a visit to her son, Mr. McClure Kelley, who is in Geneva, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Duncan McKenney and their daughter, Mrs. Blaine Mallan, have issued cards for an at-home on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Doherty and Miss Helen Lee Doherty and their house guests, who included Mrs. John Allen Dougherty, have left Miami for a short visit to the North.

Ensign W. C. Butler, jr., has returned to the U. S. S. Colorado at San Pedro, Calif., after spending the Christmas holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Butler.

Mrs. W. Beverly Mason and her sons, Mr. Beverly Mason, Mr. John Mason and Mr. Daniel Mason, have returned to Washington after spending the holidays at their home in Asheville, N. C.

Miss Katrina McCormick has as her guest Miss Janet White, daughter of Mrs. Richard S. Aldrich.

Mr. and Mrs. Lars Anderson have left White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., after a short visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Howard Horton announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Adah Horton, to Mr. Thomas Wriggins, jr., of Germantown, Philadelphia.

Mrs. Russell William Magna, president general of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, will be a guest of honor at a luncheon given at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, New York, Thursday, in celebration of the birthday of Joan of Arc. Mme. Carlo Polifeme, president of the society, will be in charge of the ceremonies. On Friday, Mrs. Magna will be guest and speaker at a meeting of the New York City chapter, of which Mrs. Alfred W. Cochran is regent. Members of other New York chapters will be present and a broadcast of Mrs. Magna's address has been arranged.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Porter Davidson have taken a cottage at Aiken, S. C., for the winter. Before her marriage, Mrs. Davidson was Miss Betty Hanna.

Miss Chase Black Wed To Edwin M. Martin.

Miss Chase Black, daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. Henry W. Black, of Walterboro, S. C., was married to Edwin M. Martin, of Washington and New York, at the First Presbyterian Church of Atlantic Highlands, N. J., at noon Saturday, December 31. News of the marriage will come as a surprise to the many friends of the couple, as no announcement was made of the engagement.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William I. Campbell, brother-in-law of the bridegroom. The bride had only one attendant, Miss Dorothy Campbell, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Campbell, and Capt. Paul Foley, U. S. Navy, retired, was best man for Mr. Martin.

A wedding breakfast followed at the manse of the church, at which the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. William I. Campbell, formerly of Washington, and the Rev. Campbell reside. Mr. Martin and his bride left last night for Atlantic City. They will make their home in New York at 5 Prospect place, and in Washington at 2230 Belmont road.

The bride is a graduate of Columbia College, of South Carolina, and Columbia University, of New York. Mr. Martin is a patent lawyer practicing in Washington and New York. He is a graduate of Georgetown University and a member of the Chevy Chase Club and the Racquet Club, of Washington, and the New York Athletic Club.

The marriage of Miss Mela Allen Royall, of Goldsboro, N. C., to Lieut. William Elgie Carraway, of New Bern, N. C., was solemnized at 5 o'clock last Saturday afternoon in the presence of many friends at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in Goldsboro by the Right Rev. Thomas C. Darst, of Wilmington, bishop of East Carolina, with the assistance of the Rev. George S. Gresham, church rector.

The Texas Club will entertain at its first meeting of the season this Friday night, at the Washington Hotel. The party will be in honor of the Speaker and Mrs. Garner. A short program will be given, after which a reception will be held for Mr. and Mrs. Garner. Those in the receiving line, in addition to the guests of honor will be the president of the Texas Club, Representative and Mrs. R. E. Thomason, Senator and Mrs. Tom Connolly, Senator and Mrs. Morris Sheppard and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Witt, of Austin. Mr. Witt is the lieutenant governor of Texas. There will be dancing and cards for those who desire to play.

Among those who have made reservations for the Book-Review luncheon on January 9 at the Kennedy-Warren given by the Chevy Chase branch of the National League of American Pen Women are Mrs. Pat Harrison, Mrs. Robert L. Owen, Mrs. Walter Tuckerman, Mrs. Edward Peter, Mrs. Frank Berrien, Miss Viola Offutt, Mrs. Jennie Wright, Mrs. William D. Tewksbury, Mrs. Delos Blodgett, Mrs. Emma W. P. Slack, Miss Victoria Copping, Mrs. William H. King, Mrs. Jesse W. Nicholson, Mrs. Frank Chaney, Mrs. David McPherson, Mrs. Frank Bennett, Mrs. Malcolm Matheson, Mrs. Charles Tompkins, Mrs. Henry Alvah Strong, Mrs. Charles Mathews, Mrs. Richard Yates and Mrs. Mary S. Parker.

Philadelphia Sees Mummers Parade

But City's Inability to Give Prizes of $25,000 Cramps Fete.

Philadelphia, Jan. 2 (A.P.)—King Momus in all his glory strutted up Broad street today in his traditional celebration of the coming of a new year. His followers were not as numerous as in previous years, but those who marched and pranced and danced their way in the face of subfreezing weather, made a fine display.

Father Penn, having difficulty in meeting his 1933 budget, cut out his annual appropriation of $25,000 in prizes for the new year's mummers, and many of the former participants decided not to celebrate this year.

Philadelphia's annual show is carried on by New Year's clubs organized for the one purpose of celebrating the advent of the new year. When the city decided not to allow any prize money, the clubs split into two groups, one group paraded as usual, the other held a pageant in the Municipal Stadium and charged admission for the benefit of charity. There were eleven clubs in line in the Broad street parade, where formerly there were 25. Twlve clubs joined in the stadium pageant.

"Round Robin" Checks Used.

Cherokee, Iowa, Jan. 2 (A.P.)—"Round Robin" checks for $1 each, intended to aid business by keeping money in circulation, have been issued by the Cherokee County Merchants Association.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

YESTERDAY I suggested that you list your beauty assets and liabilities and set about improving the latter. And I promised that if you were really serious you would find yourself younger and lovelier at the end of this year.

Today I'll go a step farther. I'll promise you marked improvement at the end of one month if you will follow a persistent beauty program. Just give yourself the necessary beauty care every day. It should not take more than a half hour of your time, all told.

Concentrate on those features that need improvement, of course. But don't, please don't neglect the others.

Sad But True.

I'll tell you a true story about a woman who had a lovely skin but really ugly hair. Her skin looked 20. Her hair 60. It wasn't gray, but it was discolored, no life, thin, stringy, unmanageable. She went to a hair specialist who said, "Madame, with a complexion as lovely as yours, all you need do is concentrate on your hair, and you will look charmingly beautiful even at 70."

Thereafter the woman, whom we shall call Mrs. R. just for identification gave all her spare time to her hair. She had conditioning treatments at a reputable beauty salon, brushed and massaged her hair at home between treatments, and within a few months her hair grew in thicker and glossier, a permanent by an expert and periodical waves by a fine hairdresser showed off her rejuvenated hair. All this was fine, of course. If only Mrs. R. had been wise enough to continue to care for her skin. But she wasn't. That's the sad part of our story. She sacrificed caring for her complexion, neglecting it for her hair. And what happened? At the end of a few months her hair was beautiful, but her skin was blotchy and aged, and she looked not a bit younger or lovelier.

That's why I say concentrate on the features that need improvement, but do devote a few minutes to every single detail of good grooming and beauty lore.

I wish every reader would send for my beauty schedule and follow the night and morning regime and the hints for every day, once a week and so on. Put yourself to a persistency just for one month. Your efforts will be well rewarded, I promise you.

Culbertson on Bridge

AN IMPOSSIBLE HAND

PLAYING at Crockford's a few days ago, I found myself at a very dubious-looking Slam contract, due to optimism in my partner's bidding. In fact, when I later showed this hand to a leading expert, he said that the hand could not be made, as 2 club tricks must be lost. I shall be charitable and not mention his name, as any good card player should see the hope in the hand and play for it as his only chance. Of course, hope materialized into fulfillment, or there would be no story.

Mr. Culbertson
The Bidding:

South	West	North	East
1◇	Pass	2NT	Pass
3◇	Pass	3NT	Pass
5◇	Pass	6◇	Pass
Pass	Pass

The only comment on the bidding is that my partner's six diamond bid was quite optimistic. Naturally, with my hand, I certainly was not sorry to hear him bid six, until I saw the Dummy.

The spade Knave was opened by West. East signaled with the 7, and I took the trick with my blank Ace. On the very first play, there was an opportunity for me to go wrong. If I had carelessly laid down the Ace of diamonds, blindly following a rule to lead from a hand with two honors on the first round. I would have been forced to lose a trump trick and the contract would have been hopeless. However, with this combination of 9 trumps, there was nothing to be gained by playing the Ace first, because if the West hand proved to be void of the suit, four to the Knave-Ten held by East could not be captured. I quite correctly led a low diamond to the Queen in Dummy, and when West discarded, I was quite glad I had done so. A small diamond was returned, and East made it harder by splitting his equals. I took the King and led a small club from my hand, West playing small, and I played the 9 from Dummy.

In preparing for a squeeze, it is usually necessary to give up a losing trick early in the play. In other words, when a squeeze is one's only hope for 12 tricks, one cannot take 11 tricks and expect the squeeze to develop for the twelfth and then lose the thirteenth. To successfully fulfill the squeeze play, the opponents must be squeezed down to their last few cards, and the one trick to which they are entitled must be given to them earlier. East took the club trick with his Ten-spot and his return was now immaterial. He chose to lead a spade, which I ruffed, and then reentered Dummy with the club Ace. The last diamond was led from Dummy and the 9-spot in my hand finessed.

I now proceeded to run my diamond suit, and poor West was helpless. Coming down to the last four cards, he couldn't keep a high club and four hearts. On the diamonds, the last club in Dummy and the spade were discarded, as one of the clubs in my own hand was one of the squeezing cards. If West chose to discard his last club, one of the clubs in my hand would produce the twelfth trick, or if he discarded a heart, the last 4 tricks would be taken in the heart suit.

Another case of bad bidding being atoned for by fine play.

TOMORROW'S HAND

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

THE PARADINE CASE

By ROBERT HICHENS

SYNOPSIS.

Sir Malcolm Keane, one of England's most celebrated advocates, has been briefed by Sir Simon Flaquer, solicitor, to defend his client, Mrs. Paradine, against a charge of murdering her husband, Col. Paradine.

While Mrs. Paradine is in Halloway Jail awaiting trial, Lord Horfield is appointed judge of the case.

Sir Malcolm and his pretty wife, Gay, who bears a subtle resemblance to Mrs. Paradine, have been happily married for ten years, but the husband's obsession with the Paradine case is beginning to cast a dark shadow over their happiness. Sir Malcolm finds himself fascinated by the mysterious blonde, whom he passionately desires to save. Subconsciously he is not wholly convinced of her innocence, but he declares emphatically to Sir Simon that he believes her innocent. Sir Simon is skeptical about the defense Sir Malcolm has prepared, which is to suggest that the colonel's servant, William Marsh, who had been Paradine's batman in the war, might have had a hand in the murder. Sir Malcolm is afraid of Lord Horfield, who seems to have a streak of cruelty that manifests itself toward women who come up for trial before him.

Col. Paradine had been blinded in the war and had never seen his beautiful wife, who had been a servant before her marriage. She is a Dane, who had been rescued from a life of degradation by a philanthropic American. After a short period in the United States, she had settled in London to earn her living, and had married the rich Col. Paradine after the war.

Sir Malcolm goes alone to the north of England to look over the Paradine home at Hindley. On his return he invites the Horfields to dinner and the theater, against Gay's wishes. The dinner passes off in a friendly enough spirit. Leaving for the theater Keane takes Lady Horfield in his car and Gay accompanies Lord Horfield, who makes love to her, much to her disgust.

When the Paradine trial opens, Gay goes to it with Judith Flaquer, unknown to Malcolm.

THE butler, having cleared away the remains of the colonel's dinner, then went downstairs and found Mrs. Paradine alone in the dining room finishing a solitary meal, which had been served to her by the footman while he was busy with the colonel. When he came into the room she asked him where his master was, had he finished his dinner. The butler replied that he had and had gone to his bedroom, and added that, by the colonel's order, he had taken a glass full of Burgundy into the bedroom and left it there. Mrs. Paradine then asked whether William Marsh had gone to the colonel. The butler replied that when he came downstairs the colonel was alone in his bedroom. He could not, of course, speak of what had happened since he came downstairs. Mrs. Paradine thanked him, got up from the table and left the dining room. When she was at the door she turned and said to the butler:

"Is he going to bed do you know?"

The butler replied that he couldn't say, and Mrs. Paradine then left the dining room and shut the door behind her.

"Where did she go, gentlemen and ladies of the jury?" continued the inexorable voice, which, Gay thought, grew harsher as the speech for the prosecution lengthened out. "Evidence will be called to prove that she went first to the drawing room, which—an unsual thing in the average London house—was on the ground floor of the house, remained there for a few minutes, and then was seen going upstairs. In the meanwhile, as you will presently learn, William Marsh, Col. Paradine's confidential servant, had visited his master's bedroom to inquire whether he could do anything for the colonel, and had been told to go away and leave him alone. He wanted nothing. The colonel was then sitting in an armchair at the foot of the bed, apparently brooding. He spoke very sharply to William Marsh, contrary to his usual custom. For though often very inconsiderate, even brutal to his wife, he was generally kind to his servant. William Marsh left the room hurt by his master's behavior. As he did so he saw Mrs. Paradine going into her bedroom, opposite to the colonel's, and shutting the door behind her.

"Marsh, as he will tell you presently, lingered for a moment on the landing. He was deeply attached to his master and disliked to leave him all alone in such a condition of evident misery, yet he did not know how to approach him again after being ordered away. This disturbance of mind led him to hesitate for a moment, wondering what he could do, uncertain in his mind, unhappy at the turn of events. While he thus stood, to his surprise, he saw Col. Paradine's door open and the colonel come out. Marsh stood where he was and Col. Paradine, unconscious of his presence, passed by him and went down a short passage. At the end of the passage there was a lavatory. The colonel entered it—although blind, he was clever in finding his way about in places he was familiar with—and shut and bolted the door behind him. Just after he did this Ellen Smith, the head housemaid, arrived on the landing from the back stairs, and seeing Marsh standing there inquired if she could do anything for the colonel. Marsh replied, "No, we'd best leave him alone. He's not himself tonight". On that Ellen Smith left the landing with Marsh, and they both went downstairs together, leaving Mrs. Paradine in her bedroom and Col. Paradine locked in the lavatory.

"Gentlemen of the jury—and ladies—I am instructed that not one person of that household, except those two persons, was present upon that first landing of the house in Eaton square during the quarter of an hour which followed. There is no evidence, apart from any the prisoner may presently elect to offer, as to what took place on that first landing during that lapse of time. But evidence will be given that, after the lapse of about a quarter of an hour servants in the house heard the piano being played in the downstairs drawing room. Mrs. Paradine was there playing an arrangement of the well-known Viennese waltz known by the name of 'The Blue Danube.' No one had heard her come downstairs, so no one could say when she came. She may of course have come down sooner or later. The servants seem to have assumed that she began to play directly she came into the drawing room. If so she would have been upstairs for about a quarter of an hour. However, I am instructed that there is no evidence as to that. The evidence is that she was upstairs when Col. Paradine went to the lavatory, and that some quarter of an hour later she was playing in the drawing room on the piano. She continued playing for a considerable time, perhaps for half an hour or more. Then the sounds ceased."

Counsel then related what happened that night in the Eaton square house as he had been instructed. Mrs. Paradine went upstairs to bed a little after 10 o'clock. Her maid, Fanny Greene, was waiting for her and would give evidence that Mrs. Paradine did not go into her husband's room to bid him good-night, but went at once to bed. The servants retired and the peace of the night descended upon the house. It was rudely broken, however, just before midnight by Col. Paradine, who opened his bedroom door and cried out in a loud, half-strangled voice something which woke his wife in the bedroom opposite.

"She has stated that at first she could not imagine what had waked her—she affirms that she was fast asleep—but that, on listening, she heard her husband's voice calling, 'Marah! Marah! Marah!' with a rising inflection as if of agony. It is noticeable," counsel said, leaning toward the jury box, and slightly lowering his voice, "that, according to the statements of the prisoner, Col. Paradine did not call the name of his wife, who he knew to be sleeping close to him, but the name of his servant, who slept two floors below."

After a pause to let this sink in counsel described the acute illness of Col. Paradine, the rousing of the house and, the sending for doctors—two arrived at the house within an hour—the complete collapse of the unfortunate man who, after being violently sick several times, sank into a condition of unconsciousness, and in spite of the efforts of the doctors, which counsel described minutely, died soon after 7 o'clock on the following morning. From the first the doctors were of the opinion that Col. Paradine's condition was caused by some irritant poison and a death certificate was refused. There was no question of disease. The symptoms displayed indicated internal ulceration, undoubtedly brought about by an irritant poison. The doctors suspected the presence of arenaic, but eventually, when tests had been made by Prof. Blake, to whom certain organs of the dead man and specimens of rejected matter had been submitted, it was discovered that death had undoubtedly been caused by antimony taken in the form of tartar emetic. Nevertheless—at this point in his speech Sir Joseph Farrell spoke very slowly and emphatically, looking steadily at the jury—traces of arsenic were discovered in the body, and the doctors would give important evidence as to that. With regard to the antimony it was suspected that the poison had been swallowed by Col. Paradine in the glass of Burgundy which the butler had place in his bedroom. But in the hurry and agitation caused by his sudden illness that glass—there would be evidence to the fact that the wine had been drunk, for the empty glass had been noticed by more than one witness, standing on the night table by the colonel's bed—that glass mysteriously disappeared and was never accounted for.

"The assumption is that it was deliberately made away with by some one," said counsel. "But I am instructed that there is no evidence as to that. The glass simply disappeared from Col. Paradine's room and has never been found."

Counsel concluded by describing the arrest of Mrs. Paradine on the charge of being the person who administered the antimony to Col. Paradine and so caused his death, and finished a long and elaborate opening with these words:

"Gentlemen and ladies of the jury, I have to submit to you that there is cogent circumstantial evidence that the antimony, in the form of tartar emetic, which undoubtedly caused the death of this unfortunate man, must have been introduced into the glass of Burgundy which stood on his night table during the short time when he was absent from his bedroom in the lavatory, into which William Marsh saw him go, and that the only person who could have so introduced it was his wife, Mrs. Paradine, the prisoner in the dock, she being alone with him at that time on the first floor of the house and within easy reach of his room, empty while he was away in the lavatory. If you come to the conclusion that it was she who administered the antimony then she is guilty of willful murder and it will be your painful duty to say so."

At the conclusion of counsel's speech the court adjourned for the lunch interval.

Immediately after the interval, when Lord Horfield had taken his seat on the bench, a procession of servants went to the witness box. They were the servants forming the Paradine household at Hindley Hall, some of whom later went with the Paradines to London, and included the housekeeper, the butler, a footman, Mrs. Paradine's maid, two housemaids, two gardeners and a chauffeur. The evidence of William Marsh, for which Judith Flaquer was eagerly waiting, was not reached on this first day of the trial.

The main object of the crown in calling so many of the servants was to establish the fact that Col. and Mrs. Paradine got on very badly together, were a miserable couple, unsuited to each other, leading a troubled life together, such a life as a sensitive woman might very well wish to have done with.

The object of the defense, on the other hand, was to water such evidence down, to take all the sting out of it, and to leave the jury with the impression that though there were at times unhappy incidents in the life at Hindley, nevertheless the marriage was really no more disastrous than any average marriage in which one of the parties suffered from an affliction that was incurable and made for depression. The defense, of course, also aimed at presenting Mrs. Paradine as a deeply affectionate wife, full of admiration for her heroic husband, and bearing patiently with his unfortunate idosyncrasies, realizing that they were caused by the misery of his blindness. Important evidence given by the servants was that connected with the two attacks of illness which Col. Paradine had while at Hindley, and with the incidents preceding the attack in Eaton Square, which ended with his death. The most severe cross-examination was directed to the evidence given by the housekeeper, the butler and the chauffeur.

Keane's cross-examination was directed toward eliciting that their suspicions about Col. Paradine's illnesses at Hindley were entirely vague, with no facts to back them up; that they had nothing definite to complain about in their mistress' conduct, and that with regard to the move to London, when there Mrs. Paradine had never shown neglect of her husband, or any frivolous turning away from his to a life of pleasure. He was successful in showing the hollowness of their faint dislike of their mistress, which seemed to rest chiefly on the fact that she was foreign and that they didn't care for or understaand her ways.

The attention and interest in court became strongly intensified when evidence was given about the fatal evening and night in London which had preceded Col. Paradine's death.

It was obvious from this evidence that all the servants in Eaton square realized that on that evening before dinner something extraordinary had happened in which Col. Paradine, his wife and William Marsh were intimately concerned. The butler and the housekeeper had heard the voice of the colonel raised in apparently fierce denunciation. (This when he was alone with his wife.) A shouted summons, as well as a violent ringing of the bell, had brought Marsh to the room. He had entered it and shut the door behind him. A considerable time had then passed. The butler and the housekeeper thought at least ten minutes, perhaps more. They had not, of course, listened at the door. No one had done that. But they and the other servants had been so perturbed by the certainty that something unusual was happening in the house that they had congregated on the back stairs and in the hall just at the top of those stairs, not out of curiosity, not at all, but fearing lest something—they didn't know what—might come about with the colonel. By the sound of his voice he had seemed "quite out of himself." And the summoning of William Marsh, one of themselves, had given them all the feeling that they ought to be "within call." The housekeeper and the butler stated that they had told the other servants to keep away and attend to their own business, but it was obvious that their authority had for once been disregarded. For all the servants gave evidence that there had been a terrible row going on in the study. Yet none of them had heard what was said, so that none knew what the row had been about. And when Marsh had finally emerged from the room and had found the butler and the housekeeper at the edge of the hall—the other servants having hastily retreated, evidently from a wholesome fear of Marsh—he had been very angry at finding them there and had flatly refused to give them any information about what had happened. But both housekeeper and butler described him as looking "almost beside himself."

Keane cross-examined the butler closely about the episode of Col. Paradine's solitary dinner upstairs and the episode of the glass of Burgundy. Lakin was a typical servant of his class, conventional, restrained in demeanor, respectable—at any rate in appearance, and quite possibly in character also—and with a certain sense of his own importance as a person who had reached the top of the servants' world. In cross-examination Keane did not attempt to create any suspicion about him. What he did do was to try to establish that it was possible that the glass of Burgundy might have been got at by some one other than Mrs. Paradine before Col. Paradine drank it. Both the doors of the bedroom were unlocked when the wine was placed on the night table. Could Lakin affirm on oath that it was impossible for any one to have got into the room and introduced poison into the wine before the colonel retired there? Lakin considered that it was impossible. The colonel had immediately gone into the room and remained there. Keane then asked whether it was impossible that some one might have been concealed in the room before the wine was placed there. Lakin was obliged to say that such a thing was not impossible. But he had noticed nothing unusual about the room and felt sure that it was empty.

Keane questioned him closely about the condition in which the colonel was during his dinner at which the butler had helped him, arranging food on his plate, &c., even cutting some of it up. This part of the cross-examination was obviously directed to establishing firmly in the minds of the jury that on the evening preceding his death Col. Paradine had been in an abnormally excited state, the sort of state in which a man is scarcely responsible for his actions.

"It seems that the defense is going to be suicide!" Judith whispered to Gay as Lakin allowed that his master was in a "terrible state" of excitement while dining.

"Was it Col. Paradine's habit to drink wine at night just before going to, or after he was in, bed?" Keane asked.

"No, sir."

"So that this ordering of wine to be put in the bedroom was exceptional?"

"Yes, sir."

"Absolutely exceptional?"

"Yes, sir."

"Never done before within your recollection?"

"Not with wine, sir. The colonel——"

"I am only asking you about wine. Please answer my question."

"No, I never knew the colonel to have wine in his bedroom till that night."

"Did he usually drink Burgundy?"

"No, sir. Generally claret."

"So the ordering of Burgundy was unusual?"

"Yes, sir. Sometimes——"

"You have answered the question. I am not asking you anything else."

At this point Lord Horfield intervened and said in a bland voice:

"Just one moment, Sir Malcolm." (To the witness): "By unusual do you mean the jury to understand that Col. Paradine never drank Burgundy?"

"No, my lord. But he generally preferred claret."

"He generally preferred claret, but sometimes drank Burgundy."

"Yes, my lord."

"Proceed Sir Malcolm."

At this point in the evidence Judith Flaquer, who had glanced at her watch, whispered to Gay:

"I think we ought to get away now They'll soon adjourn."

"I'm ready."

New Year Is Celebrated By Oldest Inhabitants

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

A Parisienne couturiere suggested these glove-like sleeves on a black velvet dinner dress—but they aren't gloves, remember! White satin and black velvet bands with silver thread embroidery decorate them.

THERE is something about a beautiful, expensive piece of material. Since a little girl, I have delighted in the "feel" of a beautiful fabric. Who hasn't? And it is with real delight and approval that I see the return to beautiful fabrics.

It's all very well for the queen of fabrics, velvets, to go democratic on us and suddenly appear in seven-fifty frocks—that is, it seems all very well, but we actually don't like it. That is why the fabric makers, using good psychology, are introducing expensive materials despite hard times. They realize that there will ever be certain women who will gladly pay more for a dress with a smart and becoming line and a fashionable cut when it is made in a type of material which can not be imitated in a cheaper copy of the dress. Thus it is that in the new mode the quality of the fabric makes in part, the style of the garment.

One is not misled by price. Unfortunately, many a highly priced material has nothing more to recommend it than the credulity of the buyer. On the other hand, beware the seemingly beautiful and heavy-to-the-touch material that seems disproportionately low priced. This is the fabric that may wrinkle quickly and badly, or turn of its own accord into several shades, or crack or stretch perversely. A reasonably high price, quality and beauty—and one is fairly sure of obtaining a beautiful and trustworthy piece of material.

It pays to examine fabrics well before purchasing them, despite impatience on the part of salespeople, or lack of time of your own . . . And a good piece of material is a joy to sew and a pleasure to wear.

Never know how often you will use a tea apron until you try it! I mean, until you make a cute one, or someone gives you one for a gift, or somehow you acquire this something that you are almost sure you will never use. Then comes the night the gang drops in for supper after the theater, or the night you have a little dinner "ted ah ted" (which is how you pronounce it, not how it's spelled) with the "present-interest," and out will come the little tea apron in all its unexpected glory! Some people love 'em—and it is for them that you presumably, make some of the darling ones we tell you how to make in this week's illustrated leaflet. But you can't promise yourself that you won't use some of 'em for yourself. Anyhow, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dah-ray Department of The Washington Post for this leaflet, and see for yourself al-l-l-l-l about tea aprons.

Goin' Culinary.

So many requests came in for that recipe for making real onion soup like one gets in Paree, that I am just going to give you the directions here, "Fashun Collom" or no! Because it's always fashionable to be clever, and now is the exact time to display your hidden charms—in the culinary line. So-o-o-o, start today with this information: peel and slice medium fine, don't chop, one large onion per person. Better have someone else do this if you can, for your hand's sake. Then watch tomorrow for the next step!

* * * *

Long gloves are undeniably elegant—and a Parisienne adopted them bodily for the charm of this black velvet dinner dress! The sleeves for such they are, and not gloves—are tight-fitting from the elbow flares down to the wrists. The elbow flares are banded in velvet and embroidered in silver, and the embroidery repeated at the wrists. Nice?

Au revoir!

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

TEETH TARTAR.

AN editorial in the Journal of the National Dental Association calls on the research laboratories to find a method for preventing the formation of salivary calculi on the teeth. These deposits are composed of minerals that enter into the composition of normal saliva. They form on the teeth, near the openings of the salivary ducts, as a rule. The back surfaces of the lower front teeth are favorable locations because the openings of the salivary glands underneath the tongue are located nearby and the district is naturally suitable for a salivary lake.

The other location of choice for them is the outer surface of certain teeth in the back part of the upper jaw. Here are located the openings of the large salivary glands of the cheeks, but the possibility of calculus is lessened because gravity prevents the juice from accumulating in this location. Calculus, going by the name of tartar, is liable to form anywhere, but these are the favorite locations.

No amount of brushing and no kind of a brush, tooth paste, powder or wash will prevent these solid tartar masses from forming on the teeth of some people. Try as hard as they may, use all the twists of the wrist advised, or brush as many times a day as they will, persons of a certain type will need to go periodically to the dental hygienist to have their teeth scraped and polished.

So long as the concretions form only on the teeth above the gum line they do little harm. In fact, some think they protect against decay. But when they form on the roots and elsewhere below the gum line they tend to irritate the gums and to at least lay the foundation for pyorrhea.

To go to a dental hygienist twice, or even four times a year, to have this tartar scraped off is not a great hardship for many persons, but for the average man it is not practicable. It would be a worth-while discovery if some research worker should find out why these salts deposit from saliva in some people and not in others.

When he was a young man Dr. C. N. Johnson and his scientific mentor, Dr. G. V. Black, conceived the idea that it resulted from overeating. The person who ate beyond his needs carried a surplus of minerals in his body. His saliva was oversaturated with them. When it stood for a little while it threw down a sediment. This accumulated on the teeth. As these dentists grew older they abandoned the opinion that overeating caused salivary calculus, but they never developed another theory to take its place.

If we could find what caused this solid material to harden on certain teeth and could agree on a method of prevention we could also know how to prevent stones from forming in the ducts of the salivary glands.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"CAPRICORN"

IF January 3 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11:30 a. m. to 12:45 p. m., from 4:20 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 9:30 a. m. to 10:30 a. m. and from 2 p. m. to 3:15 p. m.

Influences operating on this January 3 will bring about an atmosphere of dullness. In the early day activity will be sluggish in the business world, with increased activity in the afternoon. A good day it would seem for the making of contracts or any long term arrangements. Ideal for assuming obligations under a marriage contract.

The child born on January 3 will probably be very aggressive and possessed of a spirit that always accomplishes what is begun. Occasionally hard-headed and stubborn, he will, however, usually listen to reason. He is unbending toward all emotional appeals. Not unusually intelligent, he will go far through hard work.

If January 3 is the date of your birth, you are an uncommonly gentle person, always self-composed and seemingly never ruffled by the hectic "goings-on" about you. In your very calm way, you are a strong person. People step aside for you as you make your way through life; they listen with deference to your spoken words; they will follow you where you will.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

This smart model has many points which will prove helpfully slenderizing.

The neckline is particularly becoming and snappy, too, the way it forms a scarf.

You'll like the modified puffed sleeves. Bias lines mark the hipline, forming a pointed outline at the center-front, giving charming height to the figure.

In addition, there is a three-lesson beauty course, covering the face and hands, hair and figure.

Also, a good selection of patchwork quilts, embroidery work and other suggestions that you can make in your leisure moments.

Send stamps or coin (coin preferred).

Price of book, 10 cents. Address Fashion Department, The Washington Post, Fifth avenue and Twenty-third street, New York City.

Market Meanderings

By MILDRED REED BUNDY

Grocers Report Extra-Large Holiday Business, Owing to Relief Baskets; Farm Women Set Up Market in Northwest on Cooperative Plan.

Prophetic of better times, the Meanderer hopes, are these reports from food dealers on their Christmas business:

From a merchant in a large market on K street, comprising more than 100 food dealers—"The Christmas business here was better than we expected. All the dealers seem satisfied, I believe that, come what may, Washingtonians have their good dinner at Christmas. Going to market with a basket is more common at holiday time, too, I believe, than at other times of the year. While many of us furnish delivery service from this market, we are always glad to see the shopper with his market basket."

From a chain store manager—"Our holiday business was almost more than we could handle. I think that the tremendous amount of charity work in food brought on brisk food trade for local grocers. At 3 o'clock on the Saturday before Christmas we had an order for nearly 50 baskets to be filled with Christmas dinners, after having already filled hundreds of such baskets. At noon on the Saturday before New Year's there wasn't a turkey left in this store."

From the manager of a woman's cooperative farm-to-home market—"Our holiday business was the best we've ever had. The Saturday before Christmas we had the largest receipts of any day we've been in business."

Accessible to Washington housewives, particularly those in the extensive Northwest residential section, is a farm-to-home market where food that is very fresh, very inviting and reasonably priced is offered every Wednesday and Saturday. The market is conducted in a new, sanitary, attractive building, built in a one-story rambling fashion, painted white. In the building are many food stands ranged in several aisles, in market fashion. The women from the farms who display their fresh produce are white-aproned, white-capped and as appealingly clean about handling their wares as are any of the most particular city marketers.

Through the handicap of severe weather of the last several weeks, these enterprising women from nearby Maryland and Virginia farms have managed to keep their market going according to its schedule. Scores of Washington women have learned of the tempting quality and dependability of the fresh foods there and return regularly to this market that women established and manage.

Large white eggs, so fresh that the yolks stand high and thick when the egg is broken, are only 45 cents in this farm-to-home market. This price is asked alike by all the women marketers there, and each dozen offered is carefully candled before being placed on sale.

Whipping cream, so thick that it must be coaxed from its bottle, is only 40 cents a pint, and 20 cents a half pint.

Excellent sausage, freshly produced, sells there for 20 cents a pound.

Milk in the raw state, which many prefer, sells there for 10 cents a quart.

Fresh bread, all home made; dozens of varieties of rolls; all kinds of home-made cake; cookies, candies and canned goods; poultry, including both turkeys and chickens, either dressed for cooking or already cooked; fresh cuts of pork and veal; butter, lard, buttermilk, coffee cream and dozens of other desirable fresh products are displayed in this market. The Meanderer believes this cooperative enterprise of the farm women to be not only worthwhile to those engaged in it, but a distinct advantage to Washington.

"Early bird specials" are to be some after-holiday sales ideas for this week in a popular bakery on Fourteenth street, just around the corner from F street. The specials offered at low prices will be sold only in morning hours, and will consist mostly of fresh bread and bread products.

Tree-ripened grapefruit and oranges from Florida, thin-skinned and smooth to the touch, clear yellow in color, are to be the only quality of these citrus fruits to be offered from now on in one set of chain stores. These superior fruits are so low in price that inferior grades of the same fruits are not to be offered to the public, the manager of one of the stores told the Meanderer. The shopper for grapefruit and oranges will know that if the skin on the products sought is tough, thick or splotched with brown, the fruit is not of the best quality obtainable.

Shoppers for canned fruits are advised to watch for a special value in canned strawberries, red raspberries, black raspberries, and blackberries to be offered this week in a chain store. No. 2 cans of these fruits, usually sold for 19 cents a can, are to be offered for less than that price.

Cauliflower now offered for sale is of much superior grade to that on the market at Christmas time. The new shipments of cauliflower are firm and white and sell in some markets for as little as 19 cents.

Telephone questions about Market Meanderings to The Washington Post, National 4205, Extension 52; or address Mildred Reed Bundy, The Washington Post, inclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

ONE BILLION DOLLARS FINE..
90 MILLION DAYS IMPRISONMENT
for neglect of COLDS

EVERY YEAR, the common cold costs America over a billion dollars! Every year, colds imprison people at home — away from work—for more than 90 million days!

These figures are based on estimates of the United States Public Health Service.

Nor does this terrific penalty imposed by colds include their misery and annoyance — their trouble and worry — their actual danger to health.

Now Comes Relief!.. Happily — now — a way has been found to lift much of this burden. It comes with the new Vicks Plan for better Control of Colds.

In clinical tests among thousands last winter, Vicks Plan reduced the number and duration of colds by half! — cut the dangers and costs of colds more than half!

To millions of homes, the Plan has already brought new freedom from colds.

Better Control of Colds... This unique and remarkable Plan was made possible by the development of the new aid in preventing colds — Vicks Nose & Throat Drops. This new formula is the ideal companion to Vicks VapoRub, the modern way of treating colds. Together with certain simple rules of health, they form Vicks Plan for better Control of Colds — fully explained in each Vicks package. Very briefly, it is this:

To PREVENT Many Colds... When Colds threaten—at that first feeling of stuffiness or nasal irritation, sniffle or sneeze—Nature's usual warning that a cold is coming on—use Vicks Nose Drops at once! They soothe irritation and aid Nature's functions in throwing off the infection that threatens. They prevent development of many colds.

To END a Cold Sooner... If a cold has developed or strikes without warning, vigorous measures are necessary. At bedtime, apply Vicks VapoRub over throat and chest. Its direct double-action continues through the night. By morning the worst of a cold is usually over. During the day, use the convenient Vicks Nose Drops for added comfort and relief.

For Fewer colds, Less Severe colds, Less Expense... Follow VICKS PLAN for Better CONTROL-OF-COLDS

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

JESSICA DRAGONETTE, who will come here today with the winners of the radio star popularity contest to be presented with gold cups by Vice President Curtis, was last in Washington when she sang at the debut of Miss Helen Doherty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Doherty, of New York.

Naturally there was eagerness to see Miss Dragonette. Almost everybody had heard her on the air, but very few knew what she looked like. As the time of her appearance approached there was an air of expectancy in the Mayflower ballroom and guests gathered closer to the stage.

Sitting in a box almost adjoining the stage was a beautifully gowned woman whom many, from her pictures, identified as Jessica Dragonette. She was alone. A little later another woman, also beautifully gowned, but much less conspicuous, took a seat in the rear of the box. However, she faced away from the stage and appeared to be waiting for some one.

To the amazement of the onlookers the woman in the front of the box raised her lorgnette and glared at the newcomer, as much as if to say "How dare you sit in this box without my permission?" It was disappointing to think the sweet-voiced Jessica Dragonette could be such a person.

LUCKILY, however, the other woman continued to scan the aisle and was not conscious of the glaring. In fact, to this day she may not be aware of the incident. However, it may interest her to know about it, because the elaborately dressed woman in the front of the box, who was so put out that an intruder should invade her sacred preserves, was not Jessica Dragonette, but a guest who was so eager to have a front seat to see Miss Dragonette that she was herself almost on the stage.

The identity of the modest and decidedly charming woman in the rear of the box was revealed by Herluf Provensen, White House announcer, of the National Broadcasting Co., when he approached, accompanied by Mr. Doherty, who said, "Here we are, Miss Dragonette. Are you ready to go on?"

Whereupon there was an ovation for her as she was escorted to the stage. It would be hard to describe the expression on the face of the woman in the front of the box when she discovered whom she had "high hatted."

Radio stars, in addition to Miss Dragonette, who will receive awards from Vice President Curtis at 11 o'clock this morning are Rudy Vallee, Morton Downey, Richard Gordon (Sherlock Holmes), Harry Horlick, of the A. & P. Gypsies; David Rubinoff and John S. Young. Ed Wynn, the other winner, was unable to come to Washington because of his broadcast tonight.

The National Press Club will entertain the radio visitors at a luncheon, beginning at 12:30 o'clock today.

KENNETH H. BERKELEY, of the National Broadcasting Co., and Mrs. Berkeley held open house New Year's Day at 4408 Fourteenth street northwest. A number of radio people dropped in during the afternoon.

Thus far we have not seen any explanation as to why Stokowski canceled his Roxy International Music Hall broadcast on New Year's Day. The Philadelphia Orchestra conductor was to have directed a special Radio City orchestra of 225 pieces. Radio listeners were given no reason for what evidently was an eleventh-hour cancellation.

Marguerite Cromwell and Rudolf Schramm's Orchestra will be on the air at 6:30 o'clock tonight over WRC for another Wilkins Quarter-Hour. The soprano solos will be "Strange Interlude" and "I've Told Every Little Star."

THE sinister Dr. Fu Manchu will cast aside his Oriental robes when he is interviewed on "Meet the Artist" program (WJSV, 5 p. m.). In real life Fu Manchu is John C. Daly, English actor, who was born in India and spent most of his life in the Orient. Other members of the series will be brought to the microphone also.

Mme. Maria Kurenko, known as "The Russian Nightingale," will be guest soloist with Joseph Bonime's Orchestra during the Five Star Theater presentation (WJSV, 10 o'clock) tonight. The program follows:

Overture, "Phedre" (Massenet), orchestra; "Les Regrets de Manon" from "Manon" (Massenet), and "Bolero," from "Sicilian Vespers" (Verdi), Mme. Kurenko; valse from "Coppelia" (Delibes), orchestra; "Rose and the Nightingale" (Rimsky-Korsakoff), and "Il Bacio" (Arditi), Mme. Kurenko; excerpts from "Carmen" (Bizet), orchestra.

QUITE a little excitement was caused by one of those fountain pen tear gas guns which Le Roy Mark, of Station WOL, remembered several of his friends with at Christmas. A junior member of the family of one of the recipients took the weapon with him to a holiday party at a home in the northwest section.

A subdebutante became interested in the gun and accidentally exploded the cartridge. Although the night was cool the scene of the party immediately shifted to the front porch. No report was forthcoming of what the parents, who were upstairs, had to say about the incident, but it was no doubt emphatic as well as tearful.

Representative Henry T. Rainey, Democratic floor leader of the House; Senator Bronson Cutting, of New Mexico, and William Hard, political commentator, will open the new "You and Your Government" series over the WJZ network at 7:15 o'clock tonight. The subject of the initial round-table discussion will be "The Legislative Prospects of 1933."

The Columbia announcer might have enlightened the radio audience to the extent of telling them what church service and what choir were heard from London just ahead of "Big Ben" on New Year's Eve. Mechanically it was one of the best transatlantic broadcasts we have ever heard, with practically no static, but it was marred by the announcer not taking the trouble to tell the audience what it was listening to.

TOM HOWARD, the dim-witted mayor who ambled through "Rain or Shine" with Joe Cook on stage and screen and who offset Marilyn Miller in Ziegfeld's "Smiles," will make his first air appearance under the Chesterfield banner at 9 o'clock tonight. George Shelton, his eccentric partner, will be with him.

The incident of Postmaster General Brown's hight hat, which he said the Government bought an automobile to accommodate, has been taken up by the radio jesters.

Broadcast over a national network last night was the poem written by Representative Fritz Lanham, of Texas, a verse of which is:

"The ordinary motor car,
However low and flat,
May leave brown derbies as they are,
But not the Brown high hat."

Eddie Cantor also made reference to the "high hat" incident in his Sunday night program.

STATION WERE, of Erie, Pa., has been closed down, as it were. Characterized by the Radio Commission as "obsolete and incapable of efficient operation," its call letters were, but no longer are.

$28,500 Is Realized From Sale of Seals

Sale of Christmas seals at one cent each in Washington has netted a total of $28,500, it was announced yesterday by Mrs. Ernest R. Grant, president of the Tuberculosis Association.

Mrs. Grant said that although this is far short of the goal set, that the work of the association will continue as usual in 1933, with the hope that the people of Washington will make up the balance during the year.

Citizens Association To Hear Rent Prober

Oscar H. Brinkman, special investigator for the Senate District rent investigation committee, will address the Columbia Heights Citizens Association tonight at the Fourth Presbyterian Church, Thirteenth and Fairmont streets northwest.

Mr. Brinkman is expected to acquaint members of the association with the rent situation in Washington as he has seen it from the viewpoint of an investigator.

South African Minister To Address Club Women

Erik Hendrik Louw, Minister of the Union of South Africa, will speak at 7 o'clock Friday night at the clubhouse of the American Association of University Women.

He will speak on "The Racial Problem of South Africa." Mrs. John William Cooper will preside and the speaker will be introduced by Mrs. Delos O. Kinsman.

At a luncheon at the clubhouse Saturday, Senorita Paulina Comez Vega, of Bogota, Colombia, who holds the association's Latin-American Fellowship, will be the honor guest.

On Their Merry Way

BIM'S WONDERFUL TELEGRAM HAS JUST BEEN RECEIVED— IT WAS SO KIND OF HIM TO ASK MILLIE AND MAMA TO STOP AND VISIT— BUT WHAT WILL THEY USE FOR MONEY?
WHEN BIM LEFT THEY TOOK A CHEAP ROOM AND WAITED FOR THIS INVITATION—
BY WATCHING THE PENNIES THEY HAVE JUST ENOUGH LEFT OUT OF THE THOUSAND DOLLARS TO PAY THE ROOM RENT AND TRAIN FARE— BUT HOW WILL THEY LIVE WHEN THEY GET THERE?
MRS. DE STROSS LOST NO TIME IN SENDING A WIRE TO BIM SAYING THEY WERE ON THEIR WAY—
HOW ABOUT A NICE STEAK FOR TWO?
OH, NO— WE'RE NOT A BIT HUNGRY—
MILLIE'S MOTHER IS KICKING HER UNDER THE TABLE— THAT IS THE REASON FOR HER LOSS OF APPETITE—
WE MUST BE VERY CAREFUL — DEAR— AND WATCH EVERY PENNY— WHEN I WIRED MR. GUMP THAT WE WERE COMING — I PURPOSELY DID NOT TELL HIM WHAT TRAIN WE WOULD ARRIVE ON OR AT WHAT STATION — I HAVE A REASON FOR NOT LETTING HIM KNOW—
IT WILL BE SOME TIME BEFORE I GET ANY MONEY — AND I WANT TO MAKE ARRANGEMENTS WITH THE PROPRIETOR OF THE HOTEL— SO THAT I CAN GET THE CHEAPEST ROOM AND NOT HAVE TO PAY IN ADVANCE — IT WOULD BE AN AWFUL THING TO BE PUT OUT ON ACCOUNT OF OUR BILL RIGHT NOW— THINK OF THE EMBARRASSMENT—

POLICE SEEK SLAYER OF FAY IN 4 STATES

Racketeer and Former Milk Czar Rated Destitute as He Meets Death.

New York, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—A patrolman paced up and down in front of a deserted night club just off Broadway today; a medical examiner removed four bullets from the body of Larry Fay, slain racketeer, and police in many States engaged in a hunt for a disgruntled doorman accused of killing his employer in an argument over a salary cut.

Such was the aftermath of the first sensational murder of 1933.

As 30 detectives joined in investigation of the killing, mute evidence told the story of how Fay—potentate of New York's half world, one-time milk czar and not so long ago rated a millionaire by his fellows—had fallen into bad times.

Instead of the big roll of greenbacks generally found in the pockets of such a man as Fay, police found only three dimes.

And a glance at his check book showed he had issued several thousand dollars worth of post-dated checks, which friends had cashed on the strength of his boast that he would soon be "back in the big money again."

Another bit of evidence—which police took as an explanation of the motive for the killing—was a neatly typed notice hanging in the kitchen of the night club which Fay managed and in which he met his death. It notified all employes that effective yesterday their salaries would be cut 30 per cent.

Four men and a woman, whom police declined to identify, were being held as material witnesses.

Seventeen others who had been in the night club when a roaring revolver sent Fay to his death were questioned.

And when that much of the investigation was over, Inspector Francis Kear announced:

"We have a perfect case."

Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney, who had taken personal charge of the case, prepared to present his evidence to a grand jury tomorrow and ask for the indictment of the missing doorman, Edward Maloney.

Meantime, Maloney was being sought throughout New York and adjoining States.

Impostor Is Hunted After School Ruse

Man Tried to Cash Check for $2,000; Said Sisters Wanted Tuition.

Police last night broadcast a lookout for a man giving the name of "C. L. Turbe," described in a telegram from the Harvard University Graduate School of Business Administration as "an impostor."

"Turbe," according to headquarters detectives, recently approached an exclusive private school in Sixteenth street northwest, the name of which police would not divulge, in an attempt "to make arrangements for tuition for his two sisters, who will arrive in America on the French vessel, De Grasse, January 3."

The man told school authorities he was a student of the Harvard Business School, the son of a very wealthy man, and would like to cash a $2,000 check or borrow money to complete the arrangements, police said. Although inclined to accede to his request, the school authorities decided first to wire Harvard for credentials. The statement that he was an impostor followed.

Colored Democratic Committee in Session

The executive committee of the colored Democratic organizations of Washington held a meeting at 8 o'clock last night at the Masonic Temple. The group voted to elect a committee of 100 members to fulfill outstanding obligations.

Communications from John B. Bramhall, chairman of the advisory committee, and G. David Houston were read. Mack D. Rowe, president of the group, presided at the meeting.

Series of Talks At St. Gabriel's

Rev. George Johnson to Give First of Discourses on January 9.

The Rev. George Johnson, of Catholic University, will open the second series of weekly discourses on January 9, at St. Gabriel's Church, Grant Circle. His subject, "The Church and the School," will commence at 8 o'clock.

This series of weekly talks is being conducted by the Catholic Information Forum, under auspices of the Knights of Columbus, the first set of discourses having been completed just before the Christmas holidays.

The new series opening January 9 and continuing each Monday evening will include Dr. Johnson on "The Church and the School;" January 16, the Rev. George Strohaver, of Georgetown University, on "The Church and Science;" January 23, the Rev. John K. Cartwright on "The Church and the State;" January 30, the Rev. Felix Kirsch on "Purgatory and Indulgence;" and on February 6, the Rev. John M. Nelligan, with an illustrated lecture on the mass.

Teacher Breaks Elbow In Fall While Skating

There was no school yesterday so Miss Penelope Graham, 25, of 1236 Eleventh street northwest, a school teacher, went roller skating on the East Potomac Drive. She slipped and fell, breaking her right elbow. At Emergency Hospital it was reported that it probally will be sometime before she resumes her teaching duties.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

Ann Dvorak.

IT can not be the influence of the Yuletide spirit of "peace on earth, good will toward men," because it operated in favor of Jimmy Cagney long before the season of holly wreaths, illuminated trees and flattened bank accounts. So it must be the depression.

I mean the eager willingness of studio managements to welcome back recalcitrants who have walked off the lot in practically high dudgeon and so laid themselves liable to what in earlier days would have been an immediate and permanent black-listing in every desirable spot in Hollywood.

In times like these, it seems, names that will sell tickets are so desirable that their wearers, in a manner of speaking, can get away with murder. So who are the Warner Brothers—and it is they, themselves, who ask the question—to quibble about any such minor matter as an actress' walking out cold on them?

Which, of course, gets us around to the subject of Ann Dvorak, said to be on her way back to the film colony and reinstatement in the good graces of the company from which she took French leave shortly after marrying Leslie Fenton.

The watchful and alert Mr. Hubbard Keavy, panjandrum of the West Coast Bureau of Tendencies and Trends, reports the attitude of the studio manager, whose initials are Jack Warner, toward Miss Dvorak in this direct quote:

"Miss Dvorak is still under exclusive contract to us. And I'm not mad at her."

This is much the same position that was taken with regard to the incisive and sorrel Mr. Cagney—all except the mad part! But Miss Dvorak's case does not offer an exact parallel.

The inside story of Miss Dvorak's defection has it that Ann quit because she learned that a youngster in the cast of a picture supposed to be hers, "Three On a Match," was being paid more than she was.

She was getting a modest $250 per week—which seems little enough in view of the excellence of her work in "Scarface," "The Strange Love of Molly Louvain," "Love Is a Racket" and numerous other features—while the youngster, "Buster" Phelps, currently on view with Ruth Chatterton in "Frisco Jenny," at the Earle, was being paid $275 a week.

So the studio is willing to forgive and forget. Heh, heh, heh!

While this column gives way to no one in its admiration of the finished art of Miss Cornelia Otis Skinner, concerning whose "Empress Eugenie" it is to be hoped something will be found in other columns of today's Post, it can not concede that what Mr. Oliver Sayler denominates "solo-drama" is an innovation of new vintage in the American theater.

Although Miss Skinner, by deft authorship and delicately shaded acting has modified and refined this peculiarly individual art to the most fluent uses of her own personality, one may pass over the comparatively recent achievements of the Yvette Guilberts, Raquel Mellers and Ruth Drapers to an older day when such brilliantly endowed artists as Mrs. Siddons and James Murdock pursued the Muse in similar demonstrations of isolated competence.

Which, of course, is not at all to say that any lover of the best in the theater can afford not to see and marvel at the completeness of the drama Miss Skinner is able to conjure from her, paradoxically, doubly singular creative efforts.

In case it had slipped your mind, "Heritage of the Desert," the Zane Grey subject now occupying the screen at the Columbia, was the picture Vice President Curtis projected for President Hoover and other distinguished guests at a recent formal dinner.

And if, in the jumpy state of your nerves following the New Year festivities, you are able to stand another afterthought, it would be that the announcements that William Gargan would set the public by the ears by the inspired excellence of his performance of the role of the Marine sergeant, "Handsome," opposite Joan Crawford in "Rain," were a trifle premature. It is in "The Animal Kingdom," with Leslie Howard, Ann Harding and Myrna Loy, current at RKO-Keith's, in which he plays the role he created on the stage, that Mr. Gargan really shows what he can do. And can he do it!

Speaking of "The Animal Kingdom," this picturization of the Philip Barry stage play, which has the distinction also of being the dedicatory attraction at the new RKO-Roxy Theater, in Rockefeller Center, New York, has the honor of having drawn the largest audience of any nonstage show picture house in the Capital to New Year's Eve's midnight show.

Business, of course, was enormous at the stage-show theaters—Warner's Earle and Loew's Fox—the scramble for tickets at the latter having necessitated the temporary suspension of the seat sale account several patrons cutting their hands on the ticket wicket and scattering blood more or less promiscuously over the cashiers and the inside of the box office.

When they counted up, I am told, some of the receipts looked a good deal like blood money!

Doing a little footwork for Mr. Stephen E. Cochran, while he and Clifford Brooke were in Baltimore bending an eye on Mr. Schanberger's production of "The Captive," Mr. T. D. Bonneville, one of the officers of the new institution, confided a few nights ago that the enrollment for Mr. Brooke's academy of the dramatic arts, to inaugurate its course on January 16, already has passed the goal originally set for the first term. Ample facilities are being provided for as many students as wish to avail themselves of this opportunity to take advantage of a thoroughly practical course in stage training.

It was Eddie Gilmore, Loew publicist, happily up and about his official chores again after a brief period of indisposition, who first brought to my attention a glaring instance of the public's conspicuous ability to get things muddled in its mind. The matter has since come more directly to my notice through several irate telephone calls.

It seems that from the time of the first announcement of Belle Baker's current engagement as headliner of the stage bill at Loew's Fox, the house phones have been jingling insistently to give outraged pro bono publicos opportunity to threaten the management with all sorts of dire consequences for having dared to advertise "a ringer for an actress who died several months ago."

The mistaken idea of Miss Baker's demise would be utterly incomprehensible were it not for the possibility of confusion of names. The untimely death of Belle Bennett, a month or two ago, evidently has convinced the thoughtless that Miss Baker can not possibly be at the Fox in person this week. Which most emphatically she is.

If we may revert briefly to "The Bitter Tea of General Yen," which, I believe, opens at RKO-Keith's Friday—unless Mr. Meakin can think up some reason for crossing the dope by switching the date—it will afford those interested in the WAMPAS annual list an unexcelled opportunity to appraise the stellar potentialities of one of the "Baby Stars of 1932," in the person of Toschia Mori, in the role of Mah-Li, the treacherous little beauty in the house of General Yen.

Miss Mori, speaking practically unaccented English, still possesses the odd beauty and exotic charm of a typical Oriental. She makes a thoroughly agreeable impression in an important assignment, but whether she is destined to become another Anna May Wong, as the WAMPAS evidently believe, remains to be seen.

Having practically finished the filming of "Hello, Everybody," and having been joined on the West Coast by her mother, Mrs. Charlotte Smith, Kate Smith is remaining in Hollywood until after the preview of her picture. She also is giving three unsponsored broadcasts a week for the edification of the West Coast.

Personal note to the Messrs. Carter Barron and Eddie Gilmore: Just a reminder that Georgia was admitted to the Union 145 years ago to a day as this is being written—January 2, 1788.

THE THEATER LAST NIGHT

NATIONAL

"THE EMPRESS EUGENIE." Miss Cornelia Otis Skinner presents a new Dramatic Sequence in six scenes, written and acted by herself, preceded by a group of four short Character Sketches. To be offered throughout the week, except Wednesday matinee and Friday night, when "The Wives of Henry VIII" and five short sketches will comprise the bill.

By NELSON B. BELL.

Selecting as the subject of the first sustained characterization she has presented in the National Capital a figure of almost contemporary historical interest, whose life was pregnant with all the elements of most poignant drama, Miss Cornelia Otis Skinner last night revealed to an appreciative and enthusiastic audience in the National Theater a new facet of her distinctive and distinguished art.

Again this brilliant young woman's skill as an author matches her artistry as an actress, for "The Empress Eugenie" traces, with a fine eye for the dramatic highlights of gay and ambitious youth and the somber shadows of a disillusioned and grief-stricken old age, the long years of a life that helped make and unmake empires and saw restored in the twilight of a peculiarly harassed career what had been torn from her beloved France when the sun of her hopes rode high. There is in the writing as well as in the acting of this richly colored biography a rising tide of devotion and despair that is productive of a cumulative and profoundly moving dramatic effect.

It may not be said that "The Empress Eugenie" presents either the variety or the suggested gallery of important personages to be found in "The Wives of Henry VIII." It is not to be expected that a single character should afford the kaleidoscopic parade of moods, modes and manners to be derived from a group of six engaging and sharply contrasted personalities. There is, however, in Miss Skinner's sympathetic study of a woman whose heart was torn by every bitter sacrifice simple directness, an obvious authenticity and an admirable reflection of an indomitable and unquenchable spirit that stamp it as a remarkable creative achievement for a single and unassisted artiste.

Not only is Miss Skinner unassisted by other players, but her material aids in the creation of a complete illusion are limited to particularly picturesque and becoming costumes, lighting and an occasional crystal chandelier, tufted sofa and reception chairs, park bench or latticed window, against an unvaried background of rich wine-colored drapes, to indicate the locale of the given episode in the Empress Eugenie's eventful life.

These episodes find her first in the Bois de Boulogne, before her marriage to Emperor Napoleon III, in 1853, when she was 27; then in the gardens of Compeigne, 1858; an ante room of the Tuileries, 1865; the house of Dr. Evans, the American, in Paris, in 1870, following the defeat at Sedan and the overthrow of the dynasty; in Camden Place, Chislehurst, England, 1879, receiving the personal condolences of Queen Victoria upon the death of her son in the Zulu Wars, and, finally, the Hotel Continental, Paris, in 1919, after the restoration to the Republic of Alsace and Lorraine.

The second scene in the gardens at Compeigne at the height of the Second Empire is, perhaps, the most charming of the six; that at Dr. Evans', after the debacle of Sedan, the most dramatic, and the visit of the queen the most tenderly pathetic. The final incident in the Paris of 1919, when Eugenie was a blind and aged woman within a year of her death at 94, is an inspiring and memorable glimpse of sheer Spartan courage and the triumph of an heroic soul.

This piece de resistance of the bill to be presented the greater part of the week is preceded by four of Miss Skinner's inimitable Character Sketches, of which "Home Work," done here last December, was the unmistakable favorite of last night's audience. The others, "A Southern Girl in the Sistine Chapel," "Old Embers" and "Motoring in the '90's" were agreeably humorous skits, each pointed and pungent, as all of Miss Skinner's creations are seemingly bound to be.

GAYETY

"GEORGIA PEACHES." An Empire Burlesque attraction, featuring Georgia Sothern, Carmen, Betty Du Val, Joy St. Clair, Sam Raynor, Bimbo Davis and Lee Hickman. Reviewed Sunday afternoon by Bud Hyman.

Georgia Sothern proves her right to be classed among the leading artists of the burlesque stage in "Georgia Peaches," current attraction at Jimmy Lake's Ninth street theater.

Billed as "Miss Dynamite," Miss Sothern lives up to her reputation as a dancer with individuality, and the appaluse with which she was greeted at each of her appearances shows the tremendous popularity she enjoys with Washington's burlesque fans.

It was a banner move on the part of Manager Lake to hold over Carmen, the Spanish dancer, who has made a wide circle of admirers in her short stay here. Her dances, while not so daring as last week, are still highly sensational and pleasing to the audience.

Betty Du Val, also a hold-over from last week, continues to please in each of her numbers, while the old favorites, Joy St. Clair, Ruth Bradley, Kay Cassidy, Ray Parsons and George Kinnear, all performers of merit, aid greatly in making the production a success.

The comedy skits by Raynor, Davis and Hickman are well done and produce much applause and laughter. All in all, a show above the average, as any cash customer will tell you.

Senator Norris Doubts He Will Go to Shoals

(Associated Press.)

Senator Norris, Independent Nebraska Republican, said yesterday he had received an invitation some time ago to accompany President-elect Roosevelt to Muscle Shoals for an inspection of the Government's power project there, but was "rather doubtful" whether he could go.

"Mr. Roosevelt will have experts with him who know more about it than I do," Norris said.

COAST GUARD PLANE SAVES YOUTH AT SEA

Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Jan. 2 (A.P.).—A valiant rescue of Paul Long, 21-year-old Riceborough, Ga., youth, brought him back today to his parents from a tiny boat that drifted into the Gulf Stream, off Fort Pierce, but it left the Coast Guard seaplane Arcturus damaged.

The Arcturus left Miami in response to a call from the Titusville, Fla., Coast Guard station.

In spite of high seas that threatened to swamp the plane, Commander C. C. von Paulson, in charge, and Lieut. C. H. Foley, copilot, made a landing and took Long aboard after locating his boat 12 miles at sea.

Taxiing in toward shore, to seek a calm bit of water for the take-off on the return trip, the Arcturus was damaged in one wing and lost both pontoons.

Identification of Long was established today by the customs office at Fort Pierce, where the first report of his absence was made.

After the vessel ran into difficulty Van Paulson and Foley sent up flares, which were sighted about 1 o'clock this morning by a customs order patrol officer at Fort Pierce. He gave the members of the party food and hot coffee.

The plane's sister ship, the Acama, which also ran aground in attempting to effect a rescue, was freed from a sand bar and ready to assist in salvage of the Arcturus.

Actress, Found Hurt, Says Fall Accidental

Mineola, N. Y., Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Thelma Atterbury, of Terre Haute, Ind., who appeared in Ziegfeld's Follies as Feon Van Mar, was moved from Nassau County Hospital to her apartment in New York today.

Able to talk for the first time since she was injured early Saturday at the Long Island estate of George E. Kent, the actress told police investigators she accidentally walked through a French door and fell 20 feet to concrete steps. She had accompanied George E. Kent, jr., to the estate, she said.

PITT DEFENSE CRACKS AS TROJANS TRIUMPH, 35-0

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

IT remained for the second day of 1933 to reveal one of the outstanding individuals of 1932 in the sports domain.

There can be no question of his claim to fame. None has approached his courage or hardihood. For sheer individuality he is without a peer. His is a new all-time, free-style record for awarding championships. His name, folks, is Prof. Frank G. Dickinson, author of the Dickinson system of football ratings. And the particular feat that catapulted him into the outstanding class was committed just a few weeks before 1932 had expired.

He is the gentleman who awarded the national football championship to Southern—beg pardon, folks, not to Southern California, but to the University of Michigan. If that doesn't make Prof. Dickinson outstanding, the meaning of the word has escaped this department.

Customers Arch Eyebrows.

At the time of Prof. Dickinson's award of the championship to Michigan, a few hundred thousand pairs of eyebrows were arched high upon the foreheads of the Nation's football fans. This department began to search the records to discover if Southern California had been disqualified on a foul after beating Notre Dame, 21 to 0.

Yesterday's development which saw the Southern California team, hitherto unbeaten and untied, nose out Pittsburgh by the extremely squeaky margin of 35 to 0, contributed to Prof. Dickinson's claim to fame. The Dickinson system of football ratings evidently is a marvel. This department recommends that the U. S. A. abolish its Standing Army, junk its Navy, conscript the Dickinson system, fling it into the next war and await the speedy asphyxiation of the enemy. Its element of surprise is that great.

Just Read Right Along.

Prof. Dickinson made his award to Michigan, also unbeaten and untied, on the premise that Middle Western football was superior to Pacific Coast football. Oh yeah?

Northwestern, which lost to Michigan, 15 to 6, was trounced, 21 to 0, by Notre Dame. Who outside of Prof. Dickinson would depose that Michigan was superior to Notre Dame? And which team was it that beat Notre Dame, 21 to 0? Right. And thus we have the method by which Prof. Dickinson rated Michigan above Southern California. The Dickinson system is priceless in its original humor.

Michigan, in eight games, scored 123 points and yielded 13 against such opposition as Michigan State, Northwestern, Illinois, Ohio State, Princeton, Indiana, Chicago and Minnesota. In eleven games, Southern California scored 185 points against Utah, Washington State, Oregon, Loyola, Stanford, California, Oregon, U. C. L. A., Pittsburgh and Notre Dame, and yielded only two touchdowns. Prof. Dickinson is an honorable man, but draw your own conclusions about the Dickinson system of football ratings.

Title Fight Looms For Portner's.

Washington's vicarious outlet for the pugilistic emotions of Capital fans, Portner's reformed brewery at Alexandria, is quite apt to be the scene of the closest thing resembling a world championship match ever staged within fifteen minutes of the White House.

Promoter Frankie Mann has said that if Joey Goodman, Richmond's claim to pugilistic fame, defeats Tony Stetz in impressive fashion at Portner's tonight he will be matched forthwith with Johnny Jadick, of Philadelphia, holder of the junior welterweight championship of the world.

The junior welterweight division is a synthetic class that has fallen into disrepute with both the National Boxing Association and the New York Athletic Commission, but Jadick nevertheless is at the top of any ranking that is applied to the class.

Jadick holds the distinction of performing twice a feat that no other boxer in 1932 was able to accomplish once. And that includes Kid Chocolate, Fidel Labarba and Jackie Kid Berg. For Jadick was the only boxer of 1932 to defeat Tony Canzoneri, the present lightweight champion and former holder of the junior welter title that Jadick lifted from him. And Canzoneri in the consensus of the New York Sun last week was rated the best fighting man for his weight and inches among all the champions of the prize ring.

Stetz Fights Goodman at Portner's

Southpaw Foe Boasts Many Knockouts; Manley in Fray.

VIRGINIA sends its most famous contribution to the manly art of scrambled ears into the ring at Portner's Arena in Alexandria tonight when Joey Goodman, 140-pounder from Richmond, collides with Tony Stetz, southpaw knockout demon, of Wilkesbarre, Pa., in an eight-round feature fight that may make or break the Old Dominion battler as far as his championship aspirations are concerned.

Goodman has been promised a shot at the junior welterweight crown which now adorns the head of Johnny Jadick, of Philadelphia.

Ranked only a few pegs from the top rung of the ladder of this division, Goodman must step out with a convincing and impressive triumph in order to place himself in line for the championship match, which, incidentally, will be staged at the one-time Alexandria brewery.

Virginian Favored Over Stetz.

Possessor of a strong left punch, a formidable record and having weathered the storm against outstanding challengers, the Virginian has been installed as the favorite to beat Stetz, whose only bout at Portner's recently resulted in a decision by a foul in favor of Arthur DeBeve. Goodman has walloped into defeat such stars as Jack Portney, Tony Lombardo, Tommy Grogan, Lope Tenerio, Midget Fox, the Perlick twins, Buster Brown, and a host of other good fighters during his six-year tour of rings in the East, West, North and South. In 1930 he fought Billy Wallace to a draw and lost slashing encounters to Sammy Mandell and Benny Bass, both champions at the time.

Goodman recently returned to Richmond after cleaning up the junior welter ranks on the Pacific Coast. Promoters in Frisco worked him up to a match with Young Corbett, but a hitch developed and the bout was canceled.

Goodman Colorful And Speedy.

Goodman has color, speed and punching power. It will be his first bout at Portner's, but if successful he will be brought back for the title go with Jadick on, possibly, January 31. Goodman's admirers in both Richmond and Norfolk are coming up to see him fight.

In Stetz, Goodman faces a youngster who had fourteen consecutive knockouts until a low blow cost him the bout with DeBeve. A willing scrapper, he promised to make a worthy foe for the Virginia sensation.

Thirty rounds of boxing are on the program for the benefit of the Alexandria Day Nursery. Roy (Kid) Manley, the up and coming welterweight recently imported from Arkansas, returns for a shot at Tommy Barshara, of Norfolk, whose last fight at Alexandria netted him an eight-round decision over Charlie Gomer. This happened on January 26 of last year. Bashara is substituting for Buster Brown, Baltimore scrapper, who is ill. Manley last Tuesday disposed of Bobby Burns in an eight-round bout.

Good Preliminaries Scheduled.

A good preliminary card has been arranged. Bobby Lowry, hard-hitting District boxer, will meet Joe Raspi, Baltimore's "Little Caesar," in a six-rounder. Barefoot Green, Fredericksburg 175-pounder, opposes Babe Hollingsworth, football player, in a four-rounder, and Joey Schwartz, of Baltimore, will open against Leroy Dougan, of Arkansas, who fought Harry Kid Groves to a draw last week at Portner's.

Matchmaker Mann reports a brisk advance sale of tickets, which may be obtained at Vic's Sport Shop.

BOXING BIT'S SELECTIONS—Goodman to beat Stetz, Manley to beat Bashara, Lowry to beat Raspi, Green to beat Hollingsworth, and Dougan to beat Schwartz.

Jimmy Mack Decisions White in Philly Bout

U. S. Racqueters Win 3 Out of 4 at Adelaide

Adelaide, Australia, Jan. 2 (U.P.).—United States players won three of four matches from Australian tennis stars today. Ellsworth Vines, American and Wimbledon champion, defeated Harry Hopman, 6—2, 4—6, 6—2; Keith Gledhill, of California, beat Edward Moon, 7—5, 11—9, and Wilmer Allison, of Texas, paired with John Van Ryn, of Philadelphia, to defeat Moon and L. Quist, 6—1, 6—1, 11—9. Jack Crawford scored Australia's only victory, beating Allison, 1—6, 6—4, 6—4.

68,188 SEE CRICKET PLAY.

Melbourne, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Before a world record crowd of 68,188 and led by the talented Don Bradman, the Australian Cricket Eleven concluded their second innings in the second test match with England and were all out for 191.

Australia had finished ahead of England in the first inning play, the Antipodeans scoring 228 against the 169 knocked up by the English eleven.

Record of Richards Is Equaled as Hebard Bows in 4 Sets.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—For the third successive year, Mark Hecht, of New York and the University of Pennsylvania, captured the national junior indoor tennis championship today at the Seventh Regiment Armory.

The youthful Pennsylvania sophomore outsmarted and outsteadied Richard K. Hebard, of White Plains, N. Y., and the Hill School at Pottstown, Pa., through four sets of well-played tennis, to win, 6—4, 4—6, 6—2, 6—0.

Hecht's victory enabled him to equal Vincent Richards' hitherto unprecedented record of winning three junior indoor titles in a row.

Hecht and Hebard fought on almost even terms up to the sixth game of the third set. Each had won a set at 6—4, and his own service in the first five games of the third set.

The turning point came on a beautiful net-cord shot by Hecht, which enabled him to break through Hebard's service and capture the sixth game to lead, 4 to 2. He won the seventh game at love and the eighth, 4 to 2, when Hebard double faulted twice.

Hebard was on the run, now, and Hecht romped through the final set at love in 15 minutes.

The seeded team of Giles Verstraten and John Mogrady, of New York, won the doubles championship, scoring over Hecht and Ernest Koslan, of New York, 3—6, 6—3, 6—4, 8—6.

Alfred L. Jarvis, of Tenafly, N. J., and the Hackley School at Tarrytown, N. Y., played almost faultless tennis to defeat William V. Winslow, of Rochester, N. Y., 6—0, 6—3, in the final round of boys' singles.

Jarvis and Winslow then teamed to win the doubles title, defeating the Baltimore pair, Albert Shapiro and Jacob Sellis, 6—4, 6—2.

MANHATTAN BEATEN BY MIAMI, 7-0

Cook Circles End to Touchdown in Last Five Minutes.

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 2 (A.P.).—With only five minutes left to play, Cecil Cook, half back, swept wide around right end and raced into the goal zone today, giving the University of Miami a 7-to-0 victory over Manhattan College of New York in the first annual Festival of Palms football classic. Capt. Bates kicked goal from placement.

Battling on scoreless terms for three quarters, while heat hampered Coach Chick Meehan's Manhattanites, the Miami eleven started clicking just before the game ended.

Starting from their 37-yard line, Miami pushed the ball down the field with line plunges and passes to the 2-yard line, making three consecutive first downs en route. From that point, after two line plays failed to gain an inch, Cook skirted end for the score.

7,500 Witness Contest.

Spurred topnotch condition under the drilling of Coach Tommy McCann, assisted by Coach Bob Zuppke, of Illinois, the Miami eleven furnished an upset with the victory.

They were called upon to withstand several scoring threats by Meehan's outfit, and effectively smothered Bill Pendergast, quarter back and power of the Manhattan attack. Pendergast carried the ball 31 times and gained 111 yards.

The Manhattan eleven came here a week ago and trained in the Miami weather to prepare for the game. They will leave tomorrow for New York, traveling via steamship.

The line-up:

N. C. STATE'S QUINTET TO INVADE

Plays Colonials Tomorrow and C. U. on Thursday.

THE wheels of collegiate athletic endeavor begin slowly to revolve tomorrow night at George Washington University gymnasium, where the elongated Colonials, minus the services of Forrest Burgess (who has been sidetracked for the time being because of Southern Conference eligibility rules), meets North Carolina State's gang of young men who call themselves the Wolfpack.

The Wolfpack will bark at the door of Catholic University and be invited in to play Thursday night at C. U. gymnasium as an additional feature of an active week for the local college boys. Georgetown plays up in Buffalo against Canisius Thursday, at Colgate Friday and N. Y. U. Saturday, and Maryland and American University lope down South to meet minor foes.

Likely to Play Here as Wolfpack.

Not much is known in these parts concerning the dear old Wolfpack, or the Red Terrors, as they are known on the side. It is probable that they will play in Washington under the name of the Wolfpack, the old picture of the wolf at the door being more tolerated in the Capital than the suggestion of Red Terrorism.

Relying blindly on a press-agent blurb distributed by the N. C. State News Bureau, we find that old N. C. S. has been training daily for its big visit to a place called "The Nation's Capitol." Its coach's name is Sermon, an apt moniker for a gentleman of his position. The team bristles with four seniors in LeRoy Jay and Ralph Johnson, forwards; Gilbert Clark and Allen Nelms, guards. One George Beaghen plays center. The boys are really opening their season against G. W., their only other game having been an easy victory over something called Atlantic Christian College.

Steady work and the threat of well-performing substitutes has boosted G. W. along the paths of perfection during the Christmas holidays. The absence of Burgess, of course, will be felt, even if the former Central boy wonder is not playing the kind of basket ball that once sent the galleries into fits of adulation. Loose-knit Bill Nonan takes Burgess' place, giving the Colonials a 6-foot-5 and a 6-foot-4 set of forwards in Parrack and Noonan; a 6-foot-5 center in Ty Hertzler, and a couple of 6-foot-1 or 2 men in Capt. Otts Zahn and Wayne Chambers.

POST MORTEMS . . .

Did Prof. Dickinson ever hear of Southern California, unbeaten and untied, and with a 21-0 victory over Notre Dame and a 35-0 triumph over Pitt? . . . Perhaps the Dickinson system could annul those five touchdowns yesterday and give Pitt a scoreless tie . . . Fifteen jockeys are tied for the 1933 leadership with one victory each . . . And Johnny Gilbert is not among them.

West's Stars Win From East, 21-13

Schaldach Is Hero of Pacific Gridmen's Uphill Battle.

By RUSSELL J. NEWLAND.

KEZAR STADIUM, San Francisco, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—In a fiercely fought football battle climaxed by a pugilistic skirmish on the part of two players, West defeated East, 21-13, here today in the eighth annual gridiron classic played in the name of charity.

The brief fistic set-to, between Joe Kurth, Notre Dame tackle playing for the East, and Ralph Stone, San Francisco Olympic Club end, for the West, furnished an unexpected finale to the spectacle engaged in yearly by all-Americans and near-greats of the football world.

Keyed up under the tense struggle, the principals lost their heads for the moment and traded punches, while some of the 45,000 fans tried to crowd onto the field for ringside seats. Order was quickly restored, however, and the erring principals left the field.

East Dominates in First Half.

For the first half of the game, the Eastern forces with several All-Americans in the line-up, completely dominated the situation, scoring a touchdown in the opening quarter and having the edge in play during the second period. When the Easterners raced off the field at half time it appeared that they would win by a sizable margin.

Conditions were reversed as the squads took the field for the second half and, before the third period was many minutes old, the West had rushed to its first touchdown.

Little Hank Schaldach, California half back, led the smashing second-half offensive that brought the West its victory.

The sturdy ball-toter, who wound up his collegiate gridiron career a few weeks ago with the Bears, scored every point made by his team today and in individual performance outshone the work of the Eastern luminaries.

Schaldach Starts March To Goal.

His 35-yard return of a punt shortly after the third period started put the ball 5 yards from the East's goal and four plays later he banged through for the remaining half a yard for the first score.

His place kick on the try for point sailed through the bars and the West went into a lead it was not to relinquish.

In the same quarter, an intercepted pass by Harry Stafford, half back from the University of Texas, gave the West another scoring opportunity that was quickly capitalized upon.

Texas Mines Eleven Bows to Methodists

El Paso, Tex., Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Scoring a touchdown in each quarter and converting from placement twice, a better conditioned Southern Methodist football team trounced the Texas College of Mines and Arts gridders, 26 to 0, before some 5,000 persons in a post-season football game here today.

Southern Methodist was superior in all divisions of play.

Stagg Is Suffering From Pneumonia

Grid Patriarch, Under Care of Old Pupil, Is in No Serious Danger.

New York, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Amos Alonzo Stagg, patriarch of Chicago football, is seriously ill in the Medical Arts Hospital with a "full grown bronchial pneumonia," but he couldn't have landed in better hands.

His doctor is Max Rohde, right guard on Stagg's "Big Ten" Conference champions of 1907, and despite the 71-year-old veteran's temperature of 102 degrees, and the complications of influenza, Dr. Rohde considers him in no immediate danger.

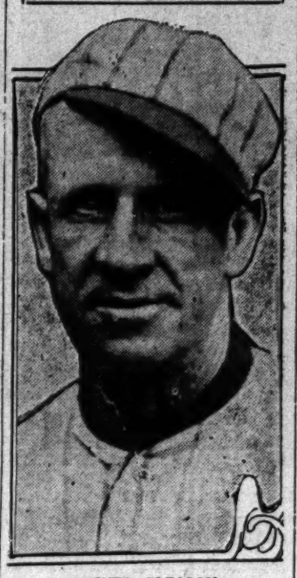
Stagg, who was forced because of his age to retire as Chicago's head football coach at the end of the 1932 season, came here last week to attend the annual coaches' meetings.

"It's a great satisfaction," Dr. Rohde said, "to have a chance to do something for the 'Old Man' for a change. Like every other Chicago man who ever played for him, I look to him almost as a father. We'll pull him through all right."

Stagg seemed to enjoy the situation despite the severity of his illness.

"When Max was playing football at Chicago I used to kick him around quite a bit," he told the nurses. "Now I suppose he'll get back at me."

Succumbs



"KID" GLEASON.

'Kid' Gleason, Coach of A's, Dies at 67

Former Chisox Pilot Victim of Lingering Heart Ailment.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—William (Kid) Gleason, coach of the Philadelphia Athletics Baseball Club, died tonight of a lingering heart ailment which had confined him to his home for several months. He was 67.

Gleason spent nearly all the adult years of his life in major league baseball, and was manager of the Chicago White Sox many years. He was born in Philadelphia, but gained his first baseball experience as a boy in Camden, N. J., where his parents moved when he was a child.

Pitched for Phillies in 1888.

He was known as "Kid" to everybody in baseball circles. The nickname came to him when he joined the Phillies as a pitcher in 1888. His first professional engagement was with the Williamsport (Pa.) team two years previously.

Gleason went to Baltimore as a pitcher in 1894 and ended his two-year career there as a second baseman. He next figured in a trade that sent him to the New York Giants, where he developed fast as a second baseman.

President Comiskey appointed Gleason manager of the White Sox in 1918. He stayed as manager of the White Sox until some time after the 1919 world's series revelations.

Gleason was so much shocked that he was on a sick bed for a long time. More than once he was in despair of his life.

The grizzled fighter, however, made a remarkable comeback and when he regained his health the Shibes and Connie Mack offered him the post of coach.

Gleason Developed Cicotte.

He trained the White Sox players into becoming stars and no player ever benefited more by his experience than Eddie Cicotte, a spitball pitcher, who had been shifted all over the American League circuit without any success.

Gleason obtained Cicotte for a small outlay and developed him into one of the mightiest pitchers of baseball. He also was responsible for the rapid rise of Pitcher Lefty Williams, Outfielder Felsh, Third Baseman Williams and Shortstop Riseberg.

Gleason is survived by his only child, Mrs. Mamie Robb, five brothers and a sister. Of the brothers, only Harry, the youngest of the family, played baseball. He was with the St. Louis Americans in the early part of the century and played with several minor league clubs before he retired.

Ohio State Keeps Coach Willaman

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—L. W. St. John, athletic director at Ohio State University, today issued a statement he said he hoped would put an end to rumors of an impending change in the Buckeye football coaching staff.

"I am not looking for a football coach," he said, "and as far as I know the board of athletic control of the university is not looking for a coach."

"Sam Willaman has a good record here in the four years he has been head coach," he said. "Why should we be looking for a new coach?"

Trojans Push Over Three Touchdowns in 4th Period.

ROSE BOWL, Pasadena, Calif., Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Driving and passing as they never did in the regular season, the University of Southern California swamped Pittsburgh here today in the annual Rose Tournament football classic, 35 to 0, before 83,000 persons.

The vaunted Pitt defense folded up in the fourth quarter when Coach Howard Jones' mighty Trojans pushed over three touchdowns after scoring a few minutes after the opening of the game and again in the third on passes.

It was Troy's fourth victory in the 18 years of Rose Tournament play and the second over Pittsburgh. The score was the most convincing of the long series, taking precedent over the 47 to 14 victory rolled up in 1930 at the expense of the Panthers.

First Period.

*Capt. Tay Brown won the toss for Southern California and elected to kick off. Pitt chose the north goal, with the slight breeze in its face.

Stevens kicked off to Sebastian on the goal line. He brought the ball back to the 16. Sebastian made 12 yards on a reverse. Heller picked up 2 and then passed incomplete. It was a long throw. Hogan punted to Griffith, who was tackled by Hartwig on the 38, after a 4-yard return.

Griffith and Clark on line drives, went to the 45. Griffith then found a wide hole through center for a first down in the exact center of the field. Clark sifted through right tackle for 7 yards. Griffith was just inches from a first down on the 40. Clark made it a first down, driving the left side to the Pitt 37.

Griffith faded far back to his 45-yard line and arched a high pass to Ford Palmer, who jumped high in the air just over the goal line for a

Sarazen Plays Hunch, Flies to Los Angeles

Miami, Fla., Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Gene Sarazen may be playing another hunch in his flying trip from Miami to California for the Los Angeles Open Golf Tournament.

Two years ago Sarazen, while playing in one of the Florida open events, suddenly decided to try his luck at Agua Caliente in the richest golf competition of the year. He made a quick trip across the continent and then burned up the course to win first money.

Yesterday Sarazen finished with a 69 in the Miami open to place well up among the leaders in this event, and shortly afterward boarded a plane for the rushing journey to Los Angeles.

Brother and Sister Win In Pinehurst Tourney

Pinehurst, N. C., Jan. 2 (A.P.).—James Sutherland and his sister, Elizabeth, of Chicago, won the annual young peoples' mixed foursome golf tournament here today. Hitting alternate shots, they scored 99-27—72. Durban McGraw, of Pittsburgh, and Frances Parson, of Youngstown, Ohio, tied for second with C. H. Dickerman, New York, and Mrs. W. H. Hanna, Jr., of Spring Lake, N. J. Each had net 74s.

LARGE JEFFERSON CROWD SEES RIP VAN WINKLE AWAKE

Hillsborough Beaten by 2 Lengths

Gold Step Finishes 3d in New Year's Handicap.

First Race of Year Is Won by Kybo; Mills Rides a Winner.

JEFFERSON PARK, New Orleans, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—A crowd which taxed the capacity of the crawfish course, appearing even larger than that of a week ago, was on hand this afternoon to send the ponies on their way to another year of endeavor. W. L. Johnson's 5-year-old Rip Van Winkle, holder of the local 6-furlong record, rang up a handy victory in the New Year's Handicap, beating Hillsborough by two lengths and rewarding favorite players with $4.80 for $2. Gold Step found the route too far, but finished third, losing the place by a length.

The winner, well handled by Lee Hardy, ran the mile and one-sixteenth in 1:46 1-5 over a fast, dried-out track.

Pace-Setting Kills Off Gold Step.

Gold Step, possessing the early speed of the eight-horse field, was nursed along in front to the stretch, but the ordinary Regal Flag made his task harder by sticking along for 6 furlongs. After the field straightened out for the home lane, the race resolved itself into a duel between Rip Van Winkle and Hillsborough. Rip gained command and Hillsborough, on the outside, lost ground steadily in the run to the wire. Try It finished fast, but Gold Step, saving ground, easily held him safe.

Kybo, under a million-dollar ride by Apprentice Arcaro, drove to a neck victory over Barney Sexton in the first event of the year. Dental Cream was third, four lengths behind. The winner, a $6.80 for $2 shot, was slow to get into her stride, but she moved up on the leaders with a rush leaving the back stretch and cutting the corner at the turn for home, outstayed Barney Sexton. The latter, after setting the pace, went a bit wide, which might have cost him the purse.

Mills Brings Abe Furst Home in Second.

Hank Mills, staying over another day before leaving for Florida, put up one of his best rides to get the well-played Abe Furst home a winner of the second race by a half length at $7 to $2. Sister Mary saved the place by three lengths from Forget Not. The latter took the track early and held command until the stretch, where Abe Furst and Sister Mary took charge, Mills riding powerfully to drive his mount first to the judges.

Black Flash was easily best of the sprinters in the third race. The daughter of Coventry, well ridden by Lewis, saluted the judges with two lengths' advantage over Polly E., while Parkersburg, the pacemaker, was third. The winner, held at slightly better than three to one, beat Parkersburg, and Polly E. late in the stretch to score going away. Polly E. was whipped steadily but was not good enough.

Galahad Wins Fourth by Five Lengths.

The veteran route traveler, Galahad, was much the best of the field in the mile and a half test, fourth on the card, registering by five lengths to pay $8.80. Buck Hero nosed Drastic Celt out of the place. Nick Burger allowed Galahad to settle in his stride and the old fellow easily overtook the tiring leaders after a mile, scoring with speed in reserve. Drastic Celt would have caught Buck Hero in another jump.

Oziti was a good thing in the sixth event, winning by four lengths at $7.20 for $2. Yankaway took the place by a length and a half from Miss Frisky. The winner rated close to Yankaway's pace to the top of the stretch, responded the veteran's, Earl Pool's, call and won as if outclassing the field. Cath Eagle, well played, broke well, but Willie Garner timidly took up to last place and finished tenth.

Reggie Root (sitting), new Eli football coach, and Mal Stevens, whom he has succeeded, are pictured above as they talked over the Yale grid situation.

AT THE POST

DEAR AL: JEFFERSON PARK, JANUARY 2.

I knew I'd have a hangover. Finished 1932 in pretty fair fashion with my long string of winning days, but I certainly hit a snag yesterday. My horses must have been feeling woozy after the big New Year's Day birthday party and they did a variety of things which failed to include winning races. However, I'm a glutton for punishment and I'm going right back at them tomorrow with renewed vigor (whatever that is). Stay with me, pal. It's just possible that I can wiggle myself into another Drombo or two and it may be tomorrow.

BILL.

FIRST RACE—DR. PARRISH appears to have the edge on the group named for the opener, although I believe QUARTERDECK will offer the top fellow a keen struggle after they pull him up to the barrier with a twitch in his nose. WORLDLY LAD may find the field and the distance to his liking. Should be third.

SECOND RACE—VLADIMIR is a sprinter of sorts and shows remarkable form when all the strings are pulled. This Stefan The Great horse won at Fairmont last fall after being in a tangle for three furlongs. Works have been on the improve recently. Should take full advantage of the No. 1 post position. CHIPOLA and DEDICATE for the rest.

THIRD RACE—ANNE ARUNDEL was scratched yesterday and I retained a top spot here for her. Seems to be in good form and ready to hand out a surprise package. SALLY IRENE and DONATE to battle it out for the place and show.

FOURTH RACE—OTTIE M. gets in light and should take the measure of VOLWOOD at the difference in weights. They have been working hard with this one in the morning and are mighty anxious to get him home. The show should be taken care of by KILMORE.

FIFTH RACE—GRAND PRINCE and PROMETHEUS share top weight of 117 pounds in this sprint and I believe the contest lies between this pair. The first named has been campaigned hard for many months, but retains enough speed for these. PROMETHEUS has been the medium of a few thousand tips and may make good soon. TRYANDAGAIN is my long-shot special for show.

SIXTH RACE—HONOHINA showed to good advantage here and deserves a chance to lead a field of this sort. NEWGRO and PACHECO appear to have the most speed of the others.

SEVENTH RACE — THE BREAK seems to have the edge in the field. I'm trying to wake up HAPPY FELLOW in this mile and believe he will be second. FAYLIN for the show.

Agua Caliente Stake Annexed by Bahamas

Agua Caliente, Mexico, Jan. 2 (A.P.). Bahamas, 4-year-old bay gelding of the Oak Tree Stable, won his second straight stake race here today by trimming Sundot and Wirt G. Bowman in a driving finish in the $2,000 added Agua Caliente New Year Handicap.

Irish Kennedy K.O.'s Burch in Third Round

Stevens Point, Wis., Jan. 2 (A.P.). Irish Kennedy, 148, of Stevens Point, today knocked out Eddie Burch, 150, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, in the third round of a scheduled eight-round fight.

Charlie Crocker, 135, Iron Mountain, Mich., knocked out Wallie McElwaine, 138, Eau Claire, Wis., in the second round. Chief Miller, 160, Neenah, and Ted Coleman, 169, Stevens Point, fought a draw.

Pat McLaughlin, 191, Waupaca, Wis., won a decision over Jack Clifford, 200, Minneapolis. Pete Stachoviak, 140, Wausau, Wis., and Windy Thomas, 140, New London, Wis., battled on even terms.

REFEREES, ATTENTION.

RED SOX SEE IMPROVED PITCHING

Six Hurlers Not With Club at Start of '32 Now on Staff.

Special to The Washington Post.

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—On the assumption that any change made is certain to show an improvement, the Red Sox already are looking forward to a better season in 1933 than the ill-fated 1932 campaign if for no other reason than that almost their entire pitching staff has been remodeled for next year.

For when the Sox start on their training period next spring only four of the hurlers who opened the 1932 race with the team will be on hand again. In addition there will be six pitchers, who joined the Boston Club during the past season, besides recalled players and new importations which may be added to the roster during the winter.

Five Pitchers Departed.

Bob Kline, Bob Weiland, Eddie Durham and John Michaels are all the regulars that remain of the pitching staff, which started off with such bright hopes last spring. MacFayden, Russell, Lisenbee, Moore and Donohue have gone elsewhere, three of them in trades and two sent to the minors.

In place of MacFayden, Russell and Moore, who won a total of 6 games and lost 32 for the Boston club last season, the Sox have obtained John Welch, Ivy Andrews and Gordon Rhodes, whose combined pitching efforts recorded 13 victories against 20 defeats for Boston.

Andrews topped all the other hurlers on the club during the campaign with eight victories against six defeats. He defeated the Browns three times without suffering a setback, turned back the Indians twice in three tries, and broke even with the Yankees, Athletics and White Sox, winning one and losing one against each of these three clubs.

Welch Won Four, Lost Six.

Welch, who came to the Red Sox midway in the season from Newark in exchange for Pete Jablonowski, won four games and lost six, while Rhodes, who came to the club in a transaction with the Yankees for Wilcy Moore, added one more victory to the list, being mostly for relief work.

Among the holdover pitchers on the club Kline had the best record, winning ten games and dropping thirteen. Durham captured seven games and also lost thirteen.

It is generally felt in the Hub that Andrews, Welch and Rhodes will lend the Sox valuable assistance next year and that if more punch can be added to the club it should make a decided improvement over its dismal showing of 1932.

TERRY'S DOWNS EAGLES.

Terry's courtmen scored over the Y. M. C. A. Eagles in handy fashion yesterday, winning by a score of 59 to 25. Vermillion, Gevinson and Fitzgerald topped the scoring. The winners have a gym and want a game for Friday night. Call Manager Vermillion at Metrotpolitan 4621 after 5 o'clock.

Investigation Plays Bolling Five Tonight

Bureau of Investigation, champions, and Bolling Field, runners-up last winter, will see action tonight at the Bolling Gym when the Government Basket Ball League officially opens its second annual campaign. The Airmen face the Union Printers at 8 o'clock, the Sleuths meet Crop Production an hour later.

The remainder of the week's schedule is as follows:

Wednesday—G. P. O. vs. Union Printers, at Central High, 7:30, and Naval Hospital vs. Fort Myer, at Bolling Field, 9 o'clock. Thursday—Crops vs. G. P. O., at Bolling Field, 8 o'clock. Friday—Naval Hospital vs. Investigation, at Bolling Field, 8 o'clock.

No Field Trial Title Awarded by Judges

Holly Springs, Miss., Jan. 2 (A.P.) There will be no champion in the all-American amateur field trials this year.

Judges of the event declined to award it today, although they credited Mandy Mostone, white and black setter bitch, owned by Theodore Hundley, of Huntington, W. Va., with the best performance. The purse goes to Hundley but the title and cup will be withheld.

Expectre, white and orange setter, belonging to Roy Craft, of Morristown, N. J., was adjudged second best dog. Third place went to Jake's Mohawk Jack, owned and handled by C. E. Duffield, of Tulsa, Okla.

Mandy Mostone was handicapped by a strange handler. None of the dogs performed well enough to carry the championship title, the judges decided.

WINS IN TWO PUNCHES.

Dayton, Ohio, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Two punches and it was all over here tonight in the scheduled ten-round boxing bout between Sammy Slaughter, Terre Haute, Ind., and Henry Firpo, of Louisville. With the first punch Slaughter sent Firpo down for the count of nine. The second put him down for ten.

THE POST'S CONSENSUS AT JEFFERSON PARK

The following consensus has been compiled by The Post from the selections of the leading handicappers of the turf. The figures show how the selections were rated.

COURT GAME FEATURES "Y" CARD

500 See A.G.O. Bow, 31-27, at Annual "Open House."

SOMETHING in the neighborhood of 500 followers of sport witnessed the activities of the Y. M. C. A.'s annual open house yesterday, wherein a galaxy of athletic endeavors paraded by in review.

Following a loose-jointed schedule which frequently saw several events being run off at the same time, the unwieldy program began early in the afternoon with a volley ball game between the two Y. M. C. A. clubs which are entered in the Chesapeake Volley Ball League, and ended late in the evening with a heavyweight wrestling macth.

A. G. O. Court Defeat Feature.

Probably the feature of the afternoon was the 31-to-27 victory of the Y. M. C. A. Big Five basket ball team over the War Department A. G. O. squad, the team that was the dark horse of The Post-A. A. U. tournament, 145-pound section, last year. Cline, Evans and Dix stood out for the victors, while the work of Ertel and Bugg shone for the losers. Play was fast at all times. Bugg's foul shooting did much to keep his side in the game.

The Washington Blues beat the Washington Reds three straight games in volley ball. Members of the winning team were Foster, Smith, Sample, Lawler, Cutts and Hunt. In a trio of handball matches Payne defeated Myers, 14-21, 21-4, 21-12; Cowley defeated Neville, 21-14 and 21-0 and McLean and Walker beat Pearlman and Newman, 21-5, 21-16.

Gallaudet College's wrestling team, which was scheduled to wrestle the Y. M. C. A. outfit, was thrown en toto by an attack of influenza and was unable to put in an appearance.

The Y team fell to and presented themselves in mat matches, in which Kirschman threw Leonard in an interesting 13-minute bout, and Ballard, District heavyweight champion, was held to a 15-minute draw by Armstrong, about 25 pounds lighter.

Commodore W. E. Longfellow, whose bulk produced a high water mark for the Y pool, gave his routine of life-saving exhibitions intermixed with repartee, and Messrs. Morrell and Bryan, secure behind a couple of mesh helmets, fenced each other to a bloodless draw.

K. OF C. SWAMPS ST. JOE.

In one of the most decisive basket ball games played here in several seasons the Knights of Columbus 145-pound team defeated St. Joseph's yesterday, 44-6, allowing the losers two points in the second half.

HIGH SCHOOL FIVES PREPARE FOR SERIES DEBUTS ON FRIDAY

Eastern and Central in Limelight

Outstanding Rivals to Battle; Roosevelt Plays Western.

St. John's to Oppose Coggins' Promising Team Today.

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

HIGH school athletes go back to school today as preparations for the opening of the annual interhigh championship series go forward. Minus the usual prognostications concerning the outcome of the race, the series starts Friday with what appears to be the prime rivalry of the entire schedule, the first clash of Central and Eastern.

Prevailing opinion, supported by the irrefutable testimony of the team's record to date, is that Central has the crown now gracing Eastern's worried brow under lock and key. But another item that glares an ominous warning from the records has to do with the series games of past years when top-heavy favorites were tumbled from their lofty positions by dark horses who battled their way through to the title.

Certainly the champion will not be crowned the very first day of play, but the winner of the big game will be taking the most difficult barrier on the course, in our opinion.

Roosevelt Meets Western.

Roosevelt clashes with Western in the second game on the card. Roosevelt will bear watching. The Bears have not captured a title in many years, but they have an irritating habit of upsetting more powerful opponents at crucial stages of the race.

St. John's will probably enact Scott's dramatic poem, "The Charge of the Light Brigade," in today's game with Central, which will be played at Central Gym at 2:30 o'clock. The contest is one of the two games on today's schedule. Lynn Woodworth leads Roosevelt's squad to College Park for an engagement with the Maryland Cubs.

Central walloped the Cadets by a lop-sided score that mounted well into the seventies and sent the Johnnies reeling in their own gym. Playing on Central's floor the Scarlet can hope for little better than a defeat by a decent score.

Woodworth Tries Team.

Roosevelt is priming for its opening game in the interhigh series Friday and Woodworth plans to use his best team throughout today's contest with Maryland freshmen. Mike Cavanaugh, Joe Sherman, Bill Harris, Dave Scherr and Jesse Black probably will start for the Bears. As Maryland's publicity agent has been lax in supplying information on the Frosh, the old alibi, little is known of the team's strength, &c., must be used again.

Emerson's courtmen are scheduled to work out this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Boys Club in preparation for tomorrow's game with Eastern. With a brilliant array of scholastic talent under his wing, Coach Sanborn is hopeful of navigating the remainder of the schedule in successful fashion. Emerson has Mike Scanlon, Fred Scheele, Swift, Bentley, Willison, Jordan Thompson and Brown, all well known in schoolboy ranks, but the boys did not click together in the preholiday games. What they will do henceforth is problematical, but it is a safe wager Emerson will be a hard nut to crack.

Florida Netman Wins Fourth Tourney Title

Jacksonville, Fla., Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Hudson Hamm, of Fort Lauderdale, made tennis history for Florida public courts tournament play today when he won the fourth championship in one tournament by taking the men's singles from Joe Whalen, Miami, 6—0, 6—1, 6—2.

Hamm already had conquered in the junior singles, the men's doubles and the mixed doubles. In the men's doubles he teamed with Whalen. In the mixed doubles he paired with Katherine Sample, of Miami.

Hitting the Headpin

PICKING off the pins for a record set of 1,916, Convention Hall whitewashed Temple in their District League match at the hall last night. The mark exceeds by 18 sticks the previous record established by the same team. It looked like a case of too much turkey on the part of Megaw and his men.

Convention Hall rattled the bottles for games of 656, 629 and 631. Temple was comparatively weak, turning in games of 598, 559 and 581. "Whip" Litchfield stole the individual honors with games of 149, 147 and 142 for a 438 set. Charley Walson was second in this respect, with a 423 set, composed of 165, 127 and 131 games.

Jack Talburtt assumed an 81-pin advantage over Henry Hiser in the first block of their ten-game match, rolled last night at Bethesda. Hiser was in poor form and after the first game was never close to his opponent. Talburtt rolled consistently from start to finish, dropping below 120 only in his fifth game, which was 115.

Teamed with Tony Santini, Hiser staged a comeback in a doubles match with Sam Corcoran and Ed Schlegel and rolled 618. Added to Santini's 609 it gave the pair a 15-pin lead over their rivals for the first block. Hiser's 147, scored in doubles, was high for the night.

Santini	122	109	104	120	134	—609
Corcoran	107	110	125	125	131	—598
Schlegel	125	127	118	106	138	—614—1212

Hokie Smith smashed the National Capital League individual set mark for the second time within the space of a week when he uncorked a 437 set in the match at Lucky Strike last night. Hokie's team, King Pin, took all three from Baltimore & Ohio with games of 606, 563 and 695, a total of 1,864.

Hokie rolled 153, 128 and 156 in establishing the new record. Only last week he turned in a 436 effort, finally topping the 434 mark hung up by Ray Chapin 16 years ago.

COURT LOOP IN OPENERS TONIGHT

Six Games Are Listed in New Community Center League.

REORGANIZED on a larger and more attractive scale, and with more interest on all sides than has ever before been evidenced, the Community Center Basket Ball League tonight inaugurates its campaign with six games. The teams have been divided into two divisions, an even dozen contenders in each. Four of tonight's games involve Section A quintets. The others are part and parcel of Section B.

Believing that the city will support a strong amateur court league, Winfree Johnson, director of the Community Center, has worked untiringly to make the venture a success. The 24 teams seeking the championship embrace the strongest unlimited clubs in this vicinity, including Sholl's, A. A. U. title holder.

Games Nightly, Including Thursday.

Starting tonight, games will be played every night up to and including Thursday of this week. Next week, and continuing thereafter, games will be played every night excepting Saturday and Sunday.

Three contests stand out in contrast to the remainder on tonight's card, Investigation vs. Drakes; Millers vs. Clovers, and Olmsted Grill vs. Delaware & Hudson. The complete schedule, time and place of games, is listed below. Admission to all games is 15 cents.

The Washington Post will carry a complete account of all games, box scores and league standings every morning.

SECTION A.

Sholl's vs. Swann, at Central, 8:30 o'clock.
Superintendent of Documents vs. Utah State Society, at Central, 9:30 o'clock.

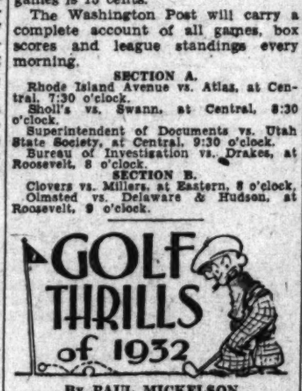
SECTION B.

Clovers vs. Millers, at Eastern, 8 o'clock.
Olmsted vs. Delaware & Hudson, at Roosevelt, 9 o'clock.



By PAUL MICKELSON
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

THIS is a story of Abe Espinosa's putter, a war club that blew several of America's greatest money players out of the P. G. A. championship and stirred up an oratorical storm.

Abe, a serious-minded Castilian from Chicago, came to the championship scene several days in advance to sharpen up his game. He was hitting the ball perfectly, but couldn't down his putts. So he looked about for a new putter.

The day before the championship drive opened he spied one in a drug store. It was his for $1.

When the final 36-hole scores were posted the next day, Abe found himself tied with nine others in a "sudden death" play-off for two places in the championship match play bracket.

Among his opponents were three of the most noted professionals in the game, Tommy Armour, Billie Burke and Harry Cooper.

But on the first green, Abe hauled out his drug store putter and dropped a 20-foot, uphill putt for a birdie three to survive. Armour, Cooper and Burke were eliminated as another outsider did likewise.

Abe bragged about that shot and about the $1 putter until a golf writer wrote it up in a St. Paul newspaper.

Result: He was called before the P. G. A. official committee for questioning.

But Abe still has the club. It's his "ace of clubs."

VIRGINIA U. FIVE WINS.

University, Va., Jan. 2 (A.P.).—The University of Virginia tonight defeated the basketball team of the Peoples National Bank, 51 to 25, in the first game of the season for the Cavaliers. At the end of the half Virginia led, 25 to 3.

Wright Again Wins Gold Racquet Event

Tuxedo Park, N. Y., Jan. 2 (A.P.).—William C. Wright, of Philadelphia, national champion, today won the Gold Racquet court tennis tournament for the fourth time.

Wright defeated Ogden Phipps, of New York, in the final round, 7—5, 3—6, 6—3, 4—6, 6—4. Phipps, who has been playing court tennis for only three years, gave the champion a terrific battle before he was subdued.

The New Yorker engineered the biggest upset of the tournament in the semifinal round yesterday when he conquered James H. Van Alen, of New York, 8—2, 6—2.

SOUTH TURNS TO ALUMNI COACHES

Wash. & Lee Latest to Name Grad as Grid Tutor.

ATLANTA, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Washington and Lee University, like Virginia Polytechnic Institute, has turned to its alumni to lead it to gridiron success.

Warren E. "Tex" Wilson, lanky tackle of a few years ago, has been named head football coach to succeed Jimmy DeHart, whose 1932 W. & L. eleven won but a single contest. Cy Young, another fine athlete during his undergraduate days at the Lexington School, will assist Tilson. Both were aides to DeHart during last season.

A year ago V. P. I. intrusted its gridiron destinies to a former Tech star, Henry B. Redd, and in his first season Redd produced a team that won the State championship and ranked among the best teams in the South.

Other Dixie schools whose football teams are coached by alumni are Maryland, Sewanee and Georgia Tech. H. C. Byrd is the Maryland mentor. Harry Clark is head coach at Sewanee, and W. A. Alexander handles football at Georgia Tech.

Conference Leaders Idle This Week.

Kentucky and Georgia, Southeastern Conference basket ball leaders, are idle from conference competition this week, but Alabama, Vanderbilt, Sewanee and Louisiana State open their intercollegiate campaigns in the South.

Alabama started its season tonight against Tennessee and plays Louisiana State on Wednesday and Thursday. The Crimsons close the week against Tulane Friday and Saturday. Vanderbilt and Sewanee play Clemson, while Sewanee and Tennessee engage South Carolina. Kentucky faced Ohio State tonight in another intersectional skirmish and tackles Creighton of Nebraska Friday and Saturday.

The first fortnight of the cage season saw both Georgia and Kentucky defeat Tulane twice. The Greenies, however, rallied last week-end and took a pair of contests from Tennessee.

TEAMS WANT GAMES.

Saranac unlimited and Carlton 100-pound quintets are booking games. Teams interested can arrange contests by calling Manager Askins at Columbia 8727.

VINCE DUNDEE WINS.

DECISION TO ROMANS.

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Johnny Romans, rugged Milwaukee lightweight, won the decision over Tiger Kid Walker, Zanesville Negro, in the main bout of a boxing program here this afternoon. Romans, substituting for Al Gahn, won the first two rounds. The Zanesville fighter evened the score in the next two and the fifth was even, but Romans won a slight margin in the remaining rounds.

MORATORIUM IN ROWING DENIED

Annual Poughkeepsie Race Safe Despite Bear Stories.

By ALAN GOULD.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—There need be no fear, despite the expression of it in some quarters, about the famous Poughkeepsie regatta holding its place in the intercollegiate sports picture for 1933.

"There is undoubtedly the need for retrenchment this year and we may not have quite so many crews in competition as before, but the championship regatta will be held on the Hudson as usual and I am confident most if not all our rowing colleges will be represented," Maxwell Stevenson, of Columbia, chairman of the stewards of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association, told the Associated Press today.

The chairman's remarks were prompted by the publication of "bear" stories on the big regatta within the past week. Pennsylvania, Cornell and Syracuse, all members of the association, indicated sharp curtailment of rowing activities for the new year and discussed the possibility of a year's "moratorium" on the Poughkeepsie regatta to save money.

Annual Meeting Next Week.

The annual meeting of the stewards, to discuss plans for Poughkeepsie and the rowing situation in general, will be held in New York January 12, Stevenson said.

One of the chief prospects is that arrangements will be made to hold the intercollegiate regatta earlier in June, as a means toward cutting down the expense of training quarters at Poughkeepsie.

"There is not the slightest chance of calling off the regatta," Stevenson said, "despite a feeling among some of the members of our association that drastic retrenchments are called for in athletics this year.

"This is unquestionably the time for economy, but not for abandonment. It is to me unthinkable in a sport as thoroughly simon-pure as rowing that we would even consider not having our championship regatta, an event going back 38 years for most of us, simply because we haven't made as much money as usual out of football and consequently are having trouble balancing the budgets.

"I am confident that June will find the regatta again one of the greatest and most picturesque of our college sporting events, attracting close to a full turnout of crews."

Columbia to Send 3 Crews.

Speaking officially for his own college, Columbia, Stevenson said it would continue a full rowing program, subject to necessary economies, this year and prepare to send three crews to Poughkeepsie as usual.

Wisconsin and perhaps Washington will be unable to accept invitations to compete at Poughkeepsie, but it is likely California will defend the championship which the Golden Bears won in the varsity four-mile race on the Hudson last June. Navy is expected to join Columbia in opposing anything except the application of economic principles to the annual regatta.

RAY MILLER VICTOR.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 2 (U.P.).—Ray Miller, 139¼, of Chicago, won a ten-round decision over Johnny Datto, 130½, of Pittsburgh, today before 5,000 fans.

Franky O'Brien, 164¼, Hartford, Conn., knocked out Tait Littman, 169, Milwaukee, in the second of a scheduled ten-rounder.

DUBLINSKY IS WINNER.

Chicago, Jan 2 (U.P.).—Harry Dublinsky, Chicago contender for the lightweight boxing crown, took a 10-round decision from Prince Saunders, also of Chicago, at Cicero Stadium today.

touchdown. The gain was 33 yards. Smith kicked goal from placement. Score: Pitt, 0; S. C., 7.

Sebastian was caught napping as Palmer made the catch.

Stevens kicked off to Weinstock who returned 14 to his 34-yard line.

Sebastian picked up 2 on a reverse, but Heller's long pass was too wide for Skladany. Griffith returned Hogan's punt 15 yards from his 15.

Griffith and Clark cracked the line for 8. Clark, on a spinner, made it first down on the 40-yard line. Skladany held Clark for no gain. Griffith was badly rushed on a forward pass, and Pitt was penalized for holding.

A beautiful flat pass was all but completed to Griffith. Griffith punted out of bounds on the 34-yard line.

Warburton and Getz went in for Griffith and Clark.

Heller kicked through to the 39. Sebastian was stopped at center for a scant yard. Sebastian completed a short flat pass to Dailey for a first down on the 46-yard line.

Interference was ruled on another long pass and the ball was put in play on the Trojan 35-yard line. Ford Palmer recovered Sebastian's fumble on the 33-yard line.

Warburton circled left end to the 40. Weinstock repaired to the side lines where the Panthers went into a compact huddle while he changed his torn trousers.

Warburton dashed through a hole at center for first down on the 45. Getz fumbled and lost 10 yards. It was a bad pass from center.

Warburton lost two more. Southern California was penalized 15 yards to its 16 for holding. Palmer punted to Sebastian at midfield. Pitt was penalized 5 yards for running into the kicker. Warburton drove left guard for 6.

Palmer punted again, this time to the 30-yard line. Sebastian returned to the 43.

Heller picked up 2 yards on a wide reverse from one side of the field to the other. Sebastian picked up 2 more as the first quarter ended.

Score: Pitt, 0; Southern California, 7.

SECOND PERIOD.

Both teams substituted freely as the second period opened. Muncas punted out of bounds on the Trojan 24. Clark recovered a bad pass from center on his 12-yard line.

Palmer punted to Sebastian, who was downed without a return on his 44-yard line. Heller recovered a bad pass from center on his 31-yard line. Warburton signalled for a fair catch on Muncas' punt on his 35 and Pitt was penalized 15 yards for interfering with the receiver.

Heller swept the left side for 6 yards. S. C. was penalized for offside. Heller's pass over the center of the line to Skladany was smeared by Clemens.

Sebastian completed a flat pass to Skladany to the 49-yard line. He crashed through right tackle for a first down on the 45-yard line. Weisenbaugh slipped through the middle of the line and dashed down the field to the 23 line as Warburton pulled him down after a 38-yard run.

Heller's long pass fell incomplete over the safety zone and the Trojans took possession on their 20.

Warburton slipped and fell, losing 3. Griffith's punt was partially blocked and Pitt took the ball on the 33-yard line. Sparling broke through and caught Heller before he could throw the ball, for a 6-yard loss.

Heller broke loose for 6 over left tackle. Rosenberg caught him after 6 more yards over the same spot. Sebastian failed to make first down on the 25-yard line. Warburton spun through center for 3 yards. Griffith found the same hole for 3 more. He punted out of bounds on the Pitt 44.

Griffith intercepted Heller's pass with Sebastian, the intended receiver, tackling him on the Trojan 41. Warburton slipped through center for 3. Sparling, on a clever broken-field run, dashed to the Pitt 42 with his famous reverse. He did it again, going to the 33.

Griffith picked up 7 going to the 24. He made it first down on the 20-yard line again, driving through the line. Sparling picked up a yard on a reverse.

Griffith tried the right side, but Pitt swarmed in so he reversed his field and picked up 5 yards. He recovered his own fumble. Skladany threw him for a 2-yard loss as the half ended. Score, Pitt, 0; S. C., 7.

THIRD PERIOD.

Weinstock kicked off to Clark, who fumbled and then returned the ball to the Trojan 12-yard line.

Clark and Griffith hit the line for 4 yards. Griffith punted to Sebastian at midfield. He returned to the Trojan 43. Erskine threw Sebastian for a 10-yard loss on a sweeping reverse to the right.

Griffith intercepted Heller's pass on his 33-yard line and ran the ball to the Pitt 33. His first play was a short pass, incomplitte. Sparling drove to the 23 on a reverse. Again he tried it and went to the 12 for a first down.

Griffith spun through the center of the line to the 4-yard line. Dailey knifed in and threw Griffith for a 6-yard loss. Dailey and Onder smeared him for the loss of another yard.

Sparling reversed to the 2-yard line. Clark couldn't get over the line and failed to gain. Bright tossed a flat pass to Griffith over the goal line for a touchdown. Smith kicked goal from placement. Score, Pitt, 0; Southern California, 14.

Stevens kicked off to Heller, who returned from the 9 to his 30-yard line. Smith stopped Sebastian after picking up 3. Youel caught Heller on the 49-yard line after a quick thrust over left guard for 29 yards. His short pass was too short. Weinstock found no hole over Smith. Smith broke through and dropped Heller for a 5-yard loss on an attempted pass. Muncas punted to Griffith after a 3-yard return to the 33-yard line. Griffith ran the side lines to the 29 after two other plays failed.

He punted to Sebastian, who fumbled and recovered as Palmer hit him on the 27. The line closed up on Heller after a yard gain. He picked up 5 more.

Muncas punted to Griffith who was downed by Dailey after a 4-yard return to the 34 as the third period ended. Score, Pitt, 0; Southern California, 14.

FOURTH PERIOD.

Warburton picked up 4 over left guard. Clemens danced through the right side to the 45 for a first down. Warburton got his usual 4 on a spinner through center. Sparling added 2. Clark bucked the line for a first down on the Pitt 42. He hit Pitt's forwards for 4 more.

Warburton went to the 34, and Clark moved the ball up another yard. Warburton leaped through a slender hole for a first down on the Pitt 30. He slipped through another crack in the line and dashed to the 15.

Warburton got away to the 5-yard line on another quick slant. Clark drove to the 4 for a first down. Again Warburton knifed through, to the 1-yard line. Clark drove to the 1-foot line over the right side. Warburton was inches short of a touchdown. Warburton made it on the next thrust. Smith kicked goal for the third time.

Score, Pitt, 0; S. C., 21.

Capt. Paul Reider went into the game for Sebastian. Weinstock returned Smith's kickoff 11 yards to his 28. Palmer recovered Weinstock's fumble on the Pitt 21-yard line. It was a bad pass from center.

Sparling slanted to the 16-yard line. Warburton ran through right tackle for a first down on the 10-yard line. Clark threw a lateral to Warburton just as he hit the line of scrimmage and Cotton ran untouched to a touchdown. Smith again kicked goal. Score: Pitt, 0; S. C., 28.

On a reverse Reider picked up a lone yard. Hogan's punt was blocked by Browning and Bescos, substitute ends, and the ball rolled out of bounds. It was fourth down and Troy took the ball on the 15.

Matthews and Clemens worked it to 7-yard line. Matthews crashed center to the 1-yard line for a first down. Matthews and Barber lost 2 yards. Barber drove over center for a touchdown. Lady kicked goal. Score: Pitt, 0; S. C., 35.

Lady kicked off to Nicksick on the 3. He returned to the 25. Nicksick drove to the 32. Nicksick passed to Rooker, sub for Daily for a 24-yard gain to the 50. Another toss was wide and incomplete. Hogan's pass fell incomplete as the game ended. Final score: Pitt, 0; S. C., 35.

Pitt's Gridmen Outclassed By Superior Trojan Team

California should be regarded as the national champion.

"It was a smart, aggressive and versatile team," he said. "It took advantage of the breaks. The score was not a real indication of the strength of the two teams, for intercepted passes and fumbles played a large part in the scoring spree.

Coach Howard Jones, of Southern California, thought his team played "100 per cent football."

"It was a glorious finish to a great season," said the coach.

Southern California marched straight to a touchdown immediately after the Trojans got their hands on the ball for the first time, traveling 60 yards in eight plays and about three minutes elapsed time.

Trojans Win Toss and Kick-off.

The Western team won the toss and kicked off, Mike Sebastian taking the ball on the goal line and lugging it back 15 yards. The same player, on a smart reverse, placed it on the 28-yard line, but a pass, also intended for Sebastian, fell incomplete. Bob Hogan then punted.

Homer Griffith was stopped by Charles Hartwig, who did a lot of tackling during the afternoon, on Southern California's 40-yard line. Griffith picked up 2 yards on a plunge and Clark on a spinner advanced to the 45-yard line. Griffith drove to a first down in midfield and then Griffith and Clark, in three plays, added another first down on Pitt's 37-yard line. Griffith picked up 3 at tackle before launching his payoff pass. Homer faded back to the 45-yard line and passed the ball straight into Ford Palmer's hands over the goal line. The ball went by Sebastian, standing at Palmer's elbow, but it had passed before the southpaw could stretch out a hand to knock it down.

Southern California made a gesture toward another touchdown just as the second period ended, driving to the Pitt 13-yard line, but the attack bogged when a fumble slowed it up and Griffith was knocked down trying to pass before he could get the ball away.

Early in the third period, after Griffith intercepted a Panther pass on his 33-yard line, Southern California advanced to Pittsburgh's 11-yard line, but lost the ball on downs there. A Pitt fumble gave the ball right back and this time the Californians went on to score, although Pitt's line, charging in fast, broke up the famous power play twice in a row, and forced the Trojans to throw a touchdown pass on fourth down, Kenneth Bright to Griffith.

Warburton Runs Wild In Final.

Irvine Warburton did a lot of running in the last period, finally winding up over the goal line for the third touchdown. Pitt fumbled on the first play after the next kick-off, Palmer recovering for Southern California on the 23-yard line. Sparling and Warburton moved to the 10-yard line and Warburton took a lateral pass from Clark to score without opposition.

Two ends, Bescos and Browning, paved the way for the fifth touchdown by blocking a Pittsburgh punt on the 15-yard line and the Trojans scored again after some difficulty, Dick Barber, the broad jumper, plunging a matter of inches to score.

The winners registered 22 first downs against 9 for the losers. Southern California outgained Pittsburgh 288 yards to 193 and had an edge in the passing game by completing two in four attempts.

Teams About Even In Kicking.

Pittsburgh's passing figures showed four completed in eleven tries. There was little to choose in the kicking, Southern California averaging 34 yards and Pitt 32. Penalties were 15 yards against Southern California and 20 yards against Pittsburgh.

The end men, Ford Palmer, Ray Sparling, Ted Dailey and Joe Skladany repeatedly brought the great crowd to its feet by their spectacular performances.

Charlie Hartwig was a great guard, making life miserable for the Southern California players by frequently inserting himself in their back field, until the game was well advanced. Then a recipe was found for slowing him up by changing the style of plays thrown at him.

Southern California's famous line was a bit slow in gaining momentum, but when it began to function, the lighter Pitt forwards could not cope with it. The tackles, Smith and Capt. Tay Brown and the guards, Aaron Rosenberg and Larry Stevens were going places when the game grew old and they were taken out to give some of their fellows a chance.

Heller and Sebastian Threats.

Warren Heller and Sebastian, fleet Pitt backs, were closely covered, but managed to break away at intervals and remained a threat until they were removed exhausted. Heller ran up a total of 63 yards during the day, while Sebastian made just half that.

Warburton and Griffith led the Southern California offensive, the diminutive Warburton piling up 77 yards and the heavier Griffith following with 61. Griffith, too, played a stellar defensive game and his interception of a pass in a pinch perhaps made the top heavy score possible.

New Hampshire Leads In Lake Placid Program

Lake Placid, N. Y., Jan. 2 (A.P.).—The Lake Placid Club's twelfth annual college week winter sports competition closed today without developing a formal winner of the Harding Trophy, emblematic of the team championship.

Snow and ice conditions permitted holding only two of the four remaining events on the program—the ski jump and the 2-mile snowshoe race. Both the 14-kilometer cross-country ski race and the Slalom test had to be canceled.

The University of New Hampshire, scoring heavily in the two events run off today, finished in first place with 20 points. Dartmouth, defending champion, was second with 17; Ottawa, third, with 10; Maine and McGill tied for fourth with 3, and Williams, sixth, with 2.

E. J. Blood, of New Hampshire, retained his title in the ski jump, with a team mate, T. C. Christiansen, second; Lucien Lafleur, of Ottawa, third, and T. H. R. Goldthwaite, of Dartmouth, fourth.

ALUMNI DAY AT CENTRAL DRAWS 600

ALUMNI DAY at Central, celebrated yesterday, attracted a throng of 600 students and former students, who participated in a diversified and entertaining program. Central's varsity basket ball team chalked up its eleventh consecutive victory at the expense of the alumni, winning by a score of 46-36, in the feature event of the athletic program.

On the rifle range the school team outscored the alumni, 337 to 321, in an interesting match. R. Davis, W. Davis, Tildon and McGarity comprised the winning team, while Castle, R. Radue, Silverberg and Nines shouldered their rifles for the graduates.

Real competition developed when the girls alumnae team outscored their younger opponents on the range. The score was 390 to 388. Firing for the victors were the Misses Hutchie, Thompson, Lombard and Sherman. The school team was composed of the Misses Wilson, Bradley, Dillman and Spencer.

Fancy diving—Won by Knight (Al.); second, Tarbett (C.); third, Kiedel (C.).
100-yard breast stroke—Won by Maurer (Al.); second, Burns (C.); third, Kundhal (C.). Time, 1:22.3.

100-yard free style—First, tie between Rote (Al.) and Baumgartner (C.); third, Burns (Al.). Time, 0:57.4.
Central meets Baltimore Poly January 6, in Central pool.

5 British Horses Race On Turf at Hialeah

Special to The Washington Post.

Hialeah Park, Miami, Fla., Jan. 2.—Five British horses recently purchased in England by Godfrey Preece, of Westbury, Long Island, will find themselves quite at home in the mile races over the turf oval at Hialeah Park this winter. Being British, racing on the turf is their dish.

Preece's British horses are: Debenture, Red Tullie, Captain Fish, Swordcraft, and Outis. Preece has written to Racing Secretary Joseph McLennan signifying his intention to have horses in the turf races as often as they are run.

JACK PORTNEY IN DRAW.

GREENLEAF LEADS.

SPEAKING OF TENNIS

By BOB CONSIDINE.

WASHINGTON will have a man in the top flight of tennis officialdom another year in Lawrence A. Baker, of the Chevy Chase Club, who has consented to allow his name to be printed on the ballot ticket for reelection as secretary of the U. S. L. T. A.

The ticket on which Baker was swept into office last year at the New Orleans meeting, in a heated debate of which the feelings of the outgoing party were not spared by the leader of the incoming, Louis Carruthers, has had a singularly harmonious life for a group of U. S. L. T. A. officials. This is a somewhat sorry commentary on the political acumen of the boys who were ousted, for when the Democrats lost out in 1928 they set up a belittling office in Washington, headed by Jouett Shouse, and this, aided by the depression, accomplished certain results at the polls last November.

Prosperity Comes With Harmony.

The outright professionalism of Billy Tilden and his resultant hands-off attitude toward the amateur tennis powers, has, of course, done its share in the lending of harmony to the amateur game. With harmony has come a form of prosperity and it would not be surprising if the coffers of the Middle Atlantic Tennis Association and its many brethren and sistern will benefit thereby, the U. S. L. T. A. being exceeding philanthropic in giving back its excess profits to the little tentacles which go to make it such an encompassing octopus.

As the boys get ready to commit another national meeting in New York in early February, only one of two problems face them. The constitution will be pruned here and there, with "shalls" replacing "wills" and so forth, and the boys will continue their annual battle, about which little is heard, with the West Side Tennis Club, that establishment of stucco which maintains, with the help of the U. S. L. T. A., Forest Hills Stadium, worth $300,000. For some time now the West Side boys have been objecting to the distribution of the "wealth" achieved by the U. S. L. T. A. out of holding big tournaments in the West Side's own horseshoe.

West Side Club Splits With Not Body.

The way they work it now, they split 50-50 on the first $20,000 taken in at the gate and then after that the U. S. L. T. A. gets 75 per cent and the club 25 per cent. The club wants a more equivocal arrangement past the $20,000, pointing out that it has a $300,000 investment on its hands and it must make $30,000 per year at least to ward off the mortgage wolves. The U. S. L. T. A. allows the club a certain fund, not very large, to get the stadium in shape for its big events.

When the stadium was built ten years ago, the U. S. L. T. A. promised that it would get at least one big event a year, and another contract of this sort probably will be signed at the next meeting. Incidentally, Davis Cup ties are played on a straight 50-50 basis between the two teams concerned, with the clubs working on a percentage basis—15 per cent if they maintain temporary stands and 20 per cent if they have permanent stands.

"Hearts and Flowers" New Theme Song.

But outside of these little things, the next meeting, and the theme song of the next administration, probably will be "Hearts and Flowers," Harry Knox, a very deserving worker from the midwest, will be ushered in, and the outgoing president, Mr. Carruthers, will be elevated to the executive committee. Most of the officers and committee members will avow that they can't give the time to tennis this year that they did last year, and that they must buckle down to business, and then do pretty much the same thing again next summer.

The benefits to be derived from Baker's place on the organization stationery are manifold. It almost assures Washington tennis fans of a Davis Cup match, not with any of the Central Powers of course, but nevertheless a Davis Cup match.

One of the hardest things to learn in tennis is to be able to make a good shot, or even a pretty decent one, immediately after scoring some outstanding sort of placement. An enormous percentage of shots are missed after making a good shot. The reasons are simple enough. Even the best of players can't resist a surge of satisfaction when it so happens that they, for instance, bring off a perfect shot down the line on the dead run and pass their opponent. Unconsciously they relieve the shot in their mind, and suddenly they are confronted with the next ball, and a makeshift shot is many times the only thing they can manufacture.

That's why very imaginative sort of people never really make good in tennis. Your ideal tennis player is a gink 6-feet-2, streamlined, with an intellect nicely dulled to consider only the point at hand. Tennis text books actually preach this doctrine, appealing to players to consider only the shot which is coming up.

Farmers May Ask War Debt Moratorium, Leader Says

Johns-Manville President Lays Agricultural Woes to Europe's Burdens.

New York, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—When our farmers realize the full significance of the effects of war debts on prices, Lewis H. Brown, president of Johns-Manville Corporation, believes they will demand a moratorium on European payments.

"To a greater extent than most people realize," he explained in a year-end statement, "this country is dependent upon the prosperity of its farmers. Either the prices of farm products must come up or the prices of manufactured goods and all the items of cost that enter into them must come down, together with taxes, interest and mortgage principal.

"The unprecedented low prices of farm products in this country is due largely to two things: First, the tremendous increase in production since 1914; second, to the drastic reduction of imports by Europe, our biggest customer, of cotton and wheat.

"Europe has been forced by the war debt situation to cut her imports below her export volume, so that out of the balance of trade she could pay interest and some principal on the war debts. This has thrown a great surplus on our home markets and demoralized the price.

"When our farmers realize the full significance of this, they will demand of their congressmen a moratorium on the European war debts.

"I am confident that the money panic of a year ago is past. Business is trying hard to get better. If some of the obstacles were removed from its path, I believe that 1933, in volume of trade, would be better than 1932.

"However, the job of educating the American people to the cause of the decline in the prices of farm products and the effect of this on the industries of our country will require considerable time. In the meantime, our Congress reflects the opinions of their constituents. Until necessity brings home the lesson, we will probably continue to drift and suffer.

"On the other hand, I have great faith in the intelligence of the American people, once the facts are before them, to reach the right decision."

Mr. Brown eschewed the role of a prophet, saying, "A review of the year-end statements and predictions by business leaders in the past five years should be sufficient warning to both the maker and the reader of the fallibility of human judgment in predicting the future. I have no predictions to make."

Confining himself to a general discussion of economic problems, he expressed the belief that business had made its first basic upward change in trend since the depression began, during the late summer and early fall of this year. He linked this with an improvement in commodity prices, showing that improvement in business stopped, after prices reached their peak and turned downward.

This depression he described as more than a normal cyclical swing. "It is primarily a readjustment of the price structures of the world to prewar levels. It is a repetition of the readjustments that occurred after the Napoleonic and Civil wars. It has been aggravated by the tremendous increase in debt structures that has been piled up in twenty years. • • • We must either find ways to facilitate the flow of trade, thus bringing somewhat higher commodity prices, or face either rapid or gradual repudiation or adjustment of debt structures."

International Shoe Earns $6,647,527

Great Northern Iron Ore Halts Distribution of Certificates.

St. Louis, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—The International Shoe Co. today reported net earnings of $6,647,527 for the fiscal year ended November 30, as compared with $9,744,815 for the preceding year. Net sales amounted to $65,488,662, a decline of $21,313,631.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Trustees of the Great Northern Iron Ore Properties, at a semiannual meeting today, voted that no action be taken on a distribution to holders of certificates in the corporation.

A distribution usually takes place in June and December. The June distribution this year also was passed by the directors.

Horse-Collar Business Held Sign of Recovery

Buford, Ga., Jan. 2 (A.P.).—The horse-collar business is on the up and up. And that, says Victor Allen, is an unerring sign of changing business conditions. About 7,800 horse collars a week are turned out at the Allen factory here. These collars will be used chiefly for farm animals, Allen said.

The increased demand for collars is accompanied by a growing need for horse and mule harness, and a force of 1,700 is busy making sets at the factory. Operating a shoe factory in addition to the harness plant, Allen said the output of shoes has been doubled this year. Reports from Atlanta's stock yards indicate that three to four times as many mules are being sold this season than heretofore in several years.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—All security and commodity exchanges in New York and certain markets in other important centers were closed today in observance of the New Year holiday. The banks will also remain closed.

Dividend meetings scheduled for this week include those of Columbian Carbon, General Cigar, Union Oil of California, Cluett Peabody and American Machine & Foundry.

The January survey of the National Association of Credit Men notes only a slight drop in sales and collections during December. About 50 per cent of the cities reported note collections to be slow, or the same average as in the previous month.

Philip Morris Consolidated, Inc., reports for the year ended December 31, net income of $415,173, equal to 68 cents a share on the common stock, compared with $385,472, or 61 cents a share in 1931. The company owns practically all of the capital stock of the Continental Tobacco Co. Inc., and a substantial interest in Philip Morris & Co., Ltd.

4 Per Cent Loadings Cut Is Predicted for Quarter

(Associated Press.)

A 4 per cent decline in freight car loading for the first quarter in 1933 as compared with the same period in 1932 was predicted yesterday by the American Railway Association.

The organization based its estimate on figures compiled by the 13 regional shippers' advisory boards, with the 1932 loadings in the first quarter totaling 4,169,316, against an estimated 4,002,503 for 1933.

Shippers in the Great Lakes region, however, were expected to ship 4.8 per cent more carloads, the estimate calling for 225,665 against 215,361 during the first quarter in 1932.

1932 Crop Revenue Is $873 Per Farm

Interest and Taxes Take Fifth of That, Expert Reveals.

By FRANK I. WELLER
(Associated Press).

Gross farm revenues in 1932 probably totaled no more than $5,240,000,000, according to tentative estimates of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. In 1929 gross revenue was $12,000,000,000; in 1931, $7,000,000,000.

This gross revenue meant to the Nation's 30,000,000 farm population a gross income of about $175 per capita, and a total income of $873 for each of the country's 6,000,000 farms compared with $2,000 of income received four years ago.

Fixed Charges' Share Large.

Interest and attendant costs on the farm mortgage debt represents a fixed annual charge of about $568,000,000. Figuring that taxes on farm property absorb about 11 per cent of the gross income, agriculture's tax bill for the year was $576,400,000. Thus, $1,144,000,000 of the $5,240,000,000 was absorbed by fixed charges.

Carried on down to averages for the Nation's 6,000,000 farms, each paid about $190 in fixed charges out of $873 of income.

Compared with 1931, live stock revenues show a deficit of $566,000,000; dairy products, $437,000,000; cotton and cottonseed, $132,000,000; grains, $74,000,000; fruits and nuts, $79,000,000; vegetables, $104,000,000; sugar crops, $2,000,000; tobacco, $26,000,000, and other crops, $85,000,000.

Farm Buying Power Off.

In a general way, the farm value of all products has suffered a decline of nearly 60 per cent in the last two crop years, compared with a decline of but 24 per cent in wholesale value of nonagricultural commodities.

The purchasing power of farm products was little more than one-half what it was before the war.

Capital employed in agricultural production declined 24 per cent in the last year, to $44,339,000,000, and now plans are afoot to broaden the farm credit base by freer acceptance of collateral at lower interest rates.

The mortgage indebtedness which has increased from $3,300,000,000 in 1910 to $9,200,000,000 would be refinanced under plans of national farm leaders for a national agency similar to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation empowered to serve sound paper in all hands.

U. S. Heads Nations In Exports Volume

1932 Shipments Decline 35 Per Cent; Germany Second on List.

(Associated Press.)

The United States held fast to first rank among the world's export nations last year, but the value of its shipments abroad during the first nine months of 1932 dropped 35 per cent from the preceding year's.

This shrinkage brought the exports 62 per cent below the average value of outgoing trade for the past five years. The quantity diminished much less, being about 20 per cent below 1931. These figures were announced yesterday by the Chambr of Commerce of the United States, which concluded that export prices averaged about 18 per cent below those of the first nine months of 1931.

Ranking next to the United States as an export nation was Germany, followed by the United Kingdom and France. The American total of $1,188,920,000 was 17 per cent greater than Germany's export, 23 per cent larger than the British and more than double that of France. The chamber pointed out that part of the shrinkage both in volume and value had to be attributed to foreign abandonment of gold-stabilized currency and to exchange restrictions, conditions less general in 1931.

SHIPBUILDERS READY FOR REPLACEMENTS

Need for More Vessels to Follow World Trade Improvement.

New York, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—The fact that a considerable percentage of America's ocean-going ships is "now well over 20 years old gives the best outlook for replacement tonnage at such time as world conditions change and shipping revives," said H. Gerrish Smith, president of the National Council of American Shipbuilders, in a year-end statement.

Mr. Smith produced figures to show how 1932 shipbuilding compared with 1931, the report covering operations of private shipyards of the United States, and measuring ship tonnage in terms of gross tons for privately owned vessels and displacement tons for Government vessels.

There were no privately owned vessels contracted for during 1932, against 11 of 74,600 tons in 1931, and only 1 Government-owned vessel of 10,000 tons, against 4 of 14,100 tons the year before. Vessels delivered during the year consisted of 16 privately owned of 151,187 tons, against 16 of 155,400 in 1931, while in each year there were 2 Government-owned vessels of 12,000 tons. Vessels under construction on December 31, 1932, consisted of 4 privately owned of 53,652 tons, against 23 of 236,100 tons the year before, and 7 Government-owned of 47,900 tons, against 8 of 49,900 tons the year before.

"The number of men employed on new merchant and naval construction in seaboard shipyards on January 1, 1933, is about 10,000, which is 40 per cent less than the number employed on January 1, 1932," he said.

"The amount of shipping laid up throughout the world has increased greatly during the year and at present represents about 15,000,000 gross tons, or 20 per cent of the entire world fleet."

Pacific Theaters In Receivership

$6,000,000 Assets Value Claimed; Involuntary Petition Filed.

Seattle, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—The Pacific Northwest Theaters, Inc., operating 33 theaters in the Pacific Northwest, has gone into involuntary receivership. Frank L. Newman, manager, announced today the organization was unable to pay its bills and considered voluntary receivership would be for the best interest of all concerned.

The petition was filed in Federal Judge Jeremiah Neterer's court Saturday, and Mr. Newman and Don L. Graham, Seattle attorney and counsel for the corporation, were named receivers.

Mr. Newman placed a $6,000,000 valuation on the firm's properties. Theaters of the company are operated in Seattle, Spokane, Tacoma, Wenatchee, Yakima, Belingham and Olympia. They will not be closed.

Auto Plants Hoping For '33 Prosperity

Fear Complex Disappears, Field Salesmen Say; Necessity to Aid.

Detroit, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—A year of disappointments, but one which, having touched the lowest point in production and distribution in more than a decade, gave indication toward its close of improvement not far away—such was 1932 to the automobile industry.

The restriction in retail demand that began more than three years ago continued throughout the year, with indications that the total ouput for 1932 would be in the neighborhood of 1,400,000 units with actual sales only slightly in excess of 1,100,000 vehicles.

The figures are estimates based on official registrations for the first three quarters of the year and unofficial compilations for the latter three months.

The impression that improvement in the industry is not far distant is based largely upon the reports field representatives of various producers have brought back of an "improved psychology," and a lessening of the "fear complex" which they hold has been mainly responsible for the restriction of new-car buying to an almost absolute necessity basis.

Aside from witnessing the failure of their earlier hopes for an upward tendency in production and demand in 1932, motor-car manufacturers saw the automobile excise tax enacted by Congress despite a united effort to have it withheld during the current year at least.

Many of the industry's executives who appeared at the hearings that preceded enactment of the tax claimed it would hamper its recovery effort.

The year just ended also saw a continuation of the industry's effort to reduce factory inventories to the lowest workable minimum that would provide facilities for a subsequent upturn, and the entry of many more producers into the low-priced field.

Board of Trade President Looks to 1933 for Delivery

By JOHN P. BOUGHAN
(Associated Press Market Editor).

Chicago, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Peter B. Carey, president of the Chicago Board of Trade, says the world's largest grain exchange "looks to 1933 as a year of hope and strength."

"Once private business is relieved of the expense and withering influence of surplus supervisory bureaus," he declared, "definite steps forward may be expected."

Reviewing grain trade happenings of 1932, and forcasting the future, Carey said:

"There can be no doubt that interference with markets has pressed prices downward.

"The Farm Board, in vast speculations, accumulated immense surpluses. These hung over world markets as a threat. Investors who usually help carry the crops were afraid of Farm Board decisions in the way of public selling.

"Restrictions of the grain futures administration took all privacy from investment or speculative trades. Domination of the market by Farm Board subsidiaries swept away normal freedom and liquidity, so essential to higher prices."

When economic wounds begin to heal, President Carey declared, the grain markets, "free of hampering restrictions, will be quick to respond."

Agriculture, he said, had sunk to its lowest depths in 1932, with wheat, oats and rye making all-time bottom-price records.

Declaring against repetition of further governmental experiments in grain marketing, Carey advocated repeal of the law which increased by 400 per cent the tax on commodity sales for future delivery.

The immediate result of this increase, he said, was a lower volume of trade on commodity markets. The tax, he said, created an extra expense of marketing—an expense which must be passed back to the producer who already receives a "ruinous" price for his products.

Business Losses Checked, National City Bank Asserts

New York, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—While many grave problems are seen awaiting solution as the "country enters the fourth calendar year of the depression," the National City Bank in its year-end review finds that the "deterioration in business" has been checked.

"It may be considered that in the past six months a ground for business recovery has been laid that had not existed hitherto in the depression," the review finds. "Taking the period in its entirety its outstanding characteristics have been these:

"1. The contraction of credit has been halted, and volume outstanding is larger at the end of the period than at the beginning. The financial situation has improved steadily since early summer, and the growth of confidence in the country's money and in the general solvency of the banking system has relieved the pressure on credit and thus removed one of the causes of deflation. Funds have piled up in the centers, available to business when trade relationships are restored.

"2. The decline in business activity has been stopped and the level is higher at the end than at the beginning (of the six months). The third quarter was a period of improvement and marked gains in activity, and the recession during the final quarter has been moderate in most particulars, not materially exceeding the seasonal expectation.

"3. The decline in prices was stopped, and despite subsequent reactions, stocks and bonds hold well above bottom, while commodities are but little under the June low.

"4. The piling up of commodity stocks has been checked. Although in the raw materials the improvement is not very substantial, stocks of manufactured goods in all lines are conspicuously low, and much below a year ago. The small stocks of automobiles in dealers' hands are an example.

"This is the first half-year period since the beginning of the depression of which the foregoing can be said."

The review points out that economic relationships are still unbalanced "in the terms upon which the various groups of the population have been accustomed to exchange their goods and services."

Moreover, it states, "business men recognize the gravity of the problems and issues before the Government for action, and as long as their outcome is uncertain, capital is likely to continue timid and business to delay plans for expansion and replacement that would stimulate the heavy industries.

TAXES DROP URGED TO ASSIST BUSINESS

G. F. Swift Says Give Trade Chance; Remove U. S. Activity.

Chicago, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Give business a chance, "by lowering taxes and broadening foreign markets, and it will forge ahead," said G. F. Swift, president of Swift & Co., in a year-end statement.

"As we enter upon the new year we can not help being conscious of the great difficulties through which this country and the entire world have been passing, and of the urgent need of sound government policies. The depressed state of the Nation's business is not beyond repair.

"In my opinion, what business chiefly needs is the removal by Government action of the obstacles which stand in the way of prompt recovery. Business is always ready to go ahead if given the opportunity.

"Reduced taxes would help everybody, and particularly the farmer, who is suffering from low purchasing power. Another thing that the farmer needs is a broader foreign outlet for his surplus products. The restoration of his foreign market would enable him to get better prices for his products, thereby increasing his power to buy the manufactured products of American industry.

"A reduction in taxes and a broadening of the foreign market for agricultural products are things that can be brought about only through wise statesmanship. Substantial recovery in business depends upon sound Government policy in dealing with these questions. Unsound Government policy would only aggravate a bad situation.

"Swift & Co. is operating at its normal rate. Our costs are low and our products are in constant demand. Our rate of operation is determined entirely by the quantity of live stock which comes to market, and live stock receipts seem to be as high in years of depression as in years of prosperity.

"We hope to have a substantial improvement in our results in 1933."

Illinois Bank Closings Decline as Year Ends

Chicago, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—The number of banks closed in Illinois declined sharply since the peak month of June, when 30 institutions shut their doors, State Auditor Oscar Nelson reported today. Since that time 8 banks were closed, compared with 49 between January 1 and June 30.

"This decline in the number of closings is a favorable sign that conditions are stabilizing," Nelson said.

CANADIAN RAILWAYS GAIN $6,000,000 NET

Operating Economies Result in Improvement Despite Revenues Cut.

Montreal, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—A record of the campaign waged by the Canadian National Railways to trim expenses as rapidly as the depression ate away the system's operating revenues was presented in a year-end statement released today by S. J. Hungerford, acting president.

The Canadian railroad man pointed out that receipts of the Northern System had declined $150,000,000 a year since the peak year of 1928, while operating expenses had been cut $100,000,000. In the same period, the road's capital expenditures, which totaled $91,550,000 in 1928, had been cut to $34,287,000 in 1931, and to a bare $2,100,000 in 1932. During the period, Mr. Hungerford said operating efficiency had been maintained at a high point.

"When the general upturn in business comes about, the Canadian National System will quickly show, in increased net earnings and income, its resiliency and its power of recovery," he said. "Operating as it has been in 1932 with about 50 per cent of its 1928 traffic, there is a definite limit to its capacity to produce impressive net earnings, no matter how economical may be the administration of the property."

Mr. Hungerford stated that drastic operating economies, carried still further in 1932, had registered an improvement of $6,000,000 in the system's net operating revenues, although gross revenue during the year declined $38,000,000.

"An extraordinary item of expense which has militated against a more favorable showing in 1932 is the premium on United States funds. This charge was much heavier in 1932 than in 1931, and, while there were some compensating advantages to the company from the situation affecting sterling, the net loss to the company during the year through the foreign exchange situation was $4,500,000."

Kentucky Tobacco Prices Holding Up

Burley and Dark-Leaf Auctions Are Attended by Large Crowds.

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Tobacco prices held up today with the best of December's markets when Kentucky burley and dark leaf auctions were resumed after a several days holiday.

An average of about $15 a hundred pounds was indicated on the local burley floors, where the largest crowd since opening day followed the buyers.

Owensboro markets reported averages of about $10 a hundred pounds for burley and $4 a hundred for dark tobacco was indicated by early sales. Lower grades of dark tobacco were offered on Paducah markets, which held down the price average.

TRADE'S STEADINESS CITED AS PROMISING

A. P. Giannini, Noted Banker, Says Prosperity Now Waits on Confidence.

(In the following article, A. P. Giannini, noted West Coast banker and controlling factor of Transamerica Corporation and the Bank of America, National Trust & Savings Association, declares the business outlook for 1933 is encouraging.)

By A. P. GIANNINI.
(Written for the United Press.)

San Francisco, Jan. 2.—The steadiness shown by American business through the vicissitudes of a heated political campaign, together with the ability to resist further declines during the uncertainties of a changing national administration, are the encouraging factors in the economic outlook for 1933. These are healthy signs.

The situation is much more satisfactory than would have been the case if we had had a more spectacular upturn, bound to be followed by further liquidation.

Given the least encouragement by the establishment in 1933 of private and public business policies, we will progress more rapidly toward the all-to-be-desired goal of sound prosperity.

Consideration for Farmers.

Congress must give early consideration to the farmer, provide the means for putting him back on his feet. Agriculture remains the backbone of our industrial structure, and we must restore the farmer's buying power, not alone because he is entitled to legitimate help, but because our urban population, to a large extent, depends upon his purchases to sustain employment and to keep business going.

It is inevitable that there should be some hesitancy pending a defining of the national policy toward the international debt question. The American people, at last are thinking out the debt question for themselves aided by the public discussions.

When the new administration assumes power we should know what we want and what we may reasonably expect to get. In negotiating with foreign countries, the administration should then be backed by the united opinion of a united people.

Necessity of Confidence.

For some nine months the Bank of America has said, through its advertising, that recovery depends upon the confidence of the individual and his ability to return to normal habits of living and of thinking.

These nine months have seen great gains made in this reestablishment of confidence and its effect is strikingly illustrated by the progress made over this period.

I believe that we will have men of nerve, of enterprise, and of vision who have been tempered but not defeated by the times we have passed through.

The successful men of the future will be those who have the courage to back their business judgment today.

Tipster Operations Found in 4 States

Delaware and Massachusetts, Illinois and Utah Used as Headquarters.

New York, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—The States of Delaware, Massachusetts, Illinois and Utah were named the headquarters of stock tipster operators in a report to the city Better Business Bureau today by H. J. Kenner, general manager. "Analysis of these enterprises," the report said, "shows that they are using the methods originated by George Graham Rice, who is still serving his four-year term in the Federal Penitentiary at Atlanta.

"The formula is this: First, obtain a mailing list; second, create a fictitous authority on stock market finance; third, start circularizing a financial periodical; fourth, secure a call on a stock listed on some exchange; fifth, create in subscribers the desire to purchase, through propaganda published in the periodical, and sixth, close the sales through the medium of a battery of high-pressure telephone salesmen; meanwhile, seventh, support the market to keep quotations on a gradually ascending scale.

"Profits accrue from the difference between the call price and the artificially stimulated market price. The tipster sells while he recommends that the victims purchase." The report says the operators "must avoid activity in and from New York State because of previous action against them," but does not detail their alleged activities in the four other States mentioned.

15 Merchant Leaders Find Signs of Better Business

New York, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—The Merchants Association made public today a symposium of fifteen members of its directorate on the outlook for 1933.

Thomas J. Watson, president of the association and of the International Business Machines Corporation, said that his firm had found demand improving and that "this improvement ought to continue and if it does it will mean better business in 1933 for practically every form of industry and trade."

The other views follow:

Arthur Lehman, of Lehman Bros.—"Even recognizing all the adverse factors, there are constructive forces at work which should reflect themselves in some improvement during 1933."

G. E. Cullinan, vice president of Graybar Electric Co.—"Our people, because of their contacts, look for better business in 1933. Therefore, American business men must likewise look for better business next year."

Lincoln Cromwell, board chairman of William Iselin & Co.—"There is a new feeling of confidence abroad since the national election."

Malcolm Muir, president McGraw-Hill Publishing Co.—"The striking stability shown in the general level of business activity as well as in security and commodity prices during the past six months encourages the belief that a fairly firm resistance level against further decline has finally been found."

William Fellowes Morgan, board chairman Merchants Refrigerating Co.—"There are two matters which have the greatest bearing on the return of better times in 1933." Government economy and foreign debt readjustment were named.

A. C. Pearson, board chairman United Business Publishers—"As the feeling grows that national, State and local budgets are to be pared down, confidence in essential stability is increasing."

Louis Wiley, business manager New York Times—"I believe there are many factors in the business prospect which lend encouragement for the future."

W. H. La Boyteaux, president Johnson & Higgins—"Before there can be any sound recovery the present excessive expenditures of Federal, State and municipal governments must be drastically reduced and brought more in balance with the reduction in the country's income."

Lucius R. Eastman, president, the Hills Brothers Co.—"We in the food trade like to think that adverse conditions affect us less than many other industries. This has been partially true in 1932. It will be increasingly true in 1933 only if we proceed confidently but cautiously."

David H. Knott, president, Knott Hotels Corporation.—"I am still an optimist regarding New York City real estate."

H. C. Turner, president, Turner Construction Co.—"Interchange of trade must be restored on an equitable basis before new buildings to serve industry can be profitably built. For these reasons I do not look forward to 1933 with much promise."

L. K. Comstock, board chairman, L. K. Comstock & Co.—"The impulse toward general improvement lies in foreign relations."

Charles R. Lamb, board chairman, J. & R. Lamb Studios.—"We believe that 1933 will see a slow but sure improvement in general business."

Harvey Wiley Corbett, architect.—"There are some slight indications of activity in the near future."

Dollar Ship Head Sees Revival Drift

United States Going Ahead, West Coast Shipping Magnate Says.

San Francisco, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—The United States is going ahead "with a firm, steady stride which eventually will lead to the goal of 'good times,'" said R. Stanley Dollar in a year-end statement.

Mr. Dollar, who is president of the steamship lines that bear his name and of the United States Lines and the American Mail Line, said "the present rate of gain shown in American shipping is indicative of a material upward trend in business of the world."

"That shipping is looking better and better is an opinion I have reiterated frequently in the past few months. Volume is increasing gradually and I believe will continue to pick up steadily. Shipowners and operators can afford to take cheer in the trend of the last few months. It is a certainty that we could not have reached a much lower level than observed some six months back.

"This country's history is that we never stay on one level long; we move either up or down. We had about reached our limit of descent, so upward was our natural course. The minute a revival is noted in any form of business, the transportation industry feels the effect almost immediately. Somewhere some form of transportation benefits. Thus shipping and other forms of bus transportation are good to watch as a weather vane.

"There can be no question but that sentiment among the shipping fraternity in this country is much better. However, shipping men are not unmindful of the fact that there is still much surplus tonnage in the transatlantic trades, with new Italian liners, the English and French liners, and other ships planning to go into commission soon.

"The volume of merchant shipbuilding throughout the world for the first time in 50 years has fallen below the 1,000,000-ton mark, as was recently revealed by Lloyds Register of Shipping. Decreases were reported in the quarter between June and September by all nations except Japan, which showed a slight increase."

Tobacco Stability Called Trade Aid

Philip Morris Company Head Hopes for Curb on Taxation.

New York, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—If the tobacco industry can "count on the retailers to ask for reasonable profits and can prevent the legislators from demanding unreasonable taxes," said R. M. Ellis, president of Philip Morris, Ltd., Inc., it will "do much to stabilize and stimulate other business in the coming year."

In a year-end survey of the tobacco business, Mr. Ellis said, "few people realize how much the stability of the tobacco industry contributed during 1932." Heavy taxation, he held, was the one thing that the industry was most concerned about.

"Everybody sees the big 6-cent tax stamp on each package of cigarettes. Some people may even realize that the 6-cent tax on 20 cigarettes means that the United States makes more money out of every package than the manufacturer, wholesaler or retailer—often making more on each package than does the whole cigarette industry put together. In spite of this, different States are constantly toying with the temptation to kill the goose that lays the golden egg, and add their State stamp tax as well. In more than ten States this has been done. Our hope is that wiser counsel will show that any industry that pays a regular income of $400,000,000 to the Federal Government should not be endangered by petty taxes for local purposes."

BANKER CLASSIFIES FAILURES AT SAVING

Thomas J. Groom Points Out Frailties in Thrift; Regular System Praised.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Four types of savers were classified in a radio address by Thomas J. Groom, vice president and cashier, Bank of Commerce & Savings, broadcast over Station WMAL last night. In this final of a series of radio talks on Christmas savings given under the auspices of the bank, Mr. Groom described the groups as follows:

"There is the first group, which consists of those who, at the opening of the Christmas Club, make one deposit and then abandon the matter entirely. Their first deposit is their last. No doubt most of these people have decided as a new year resolution that they should save and that they will save during the ensuing year. They make a bold beginning that proves an abortive end.

"Either their resolution was not firmly grounded, or they have quickly lapsed into their old ways. It is rather a distinct disappointment to find many who begin the year thus and immediately quit. The mere entry of the card of just one deposit is significant of a good intention suddenly abandoned. A persual of the Christmas Club ledgers of any bank would show many such deposits, telling the same story.

Quick to Forget Vows.

"Men get the savings impulse in much the same manner as they get the religious impulse, and many are too quick to forget their vows. The only possible way by which this group may be induced to save is by some process whereby the amount to be saved is withheld and saved for them.

"This compulsory method, while far from ideal, is better than none and is the only way by which such individuals can be helped to save. Its only redemming feature lies in the hope that it will impart the savings habit to the individual and thus make it a positive and not a negative virtue.

"The second group are those individuals who with the same intentions, open a Christmas savings account, make regular deposits for a time, then drop by the wayside. Their resolution lasted a while longer, but eventually succumbed to the same influences that worked havoc with the first group. They only got part of the way to the appointed goal.

Runner Who Gives Up.

"They are much like the runner in a race, who drop out of the contest shortly after the start and admits he is defeated, before he is half tired. It would be interesting to know why so many fail to come through. Reverses may have been the reason in some instances, but in the majority of cases, it is simply a lack of will power to carry on. After all, saving money is quite largely a matter of determination.

"The third group are the spasmodic savers. They deposit when the mood seizes them. They have no fixed plan or budget. They pay a few weeks ahead of schedule or a few weeks behind. They save what they do not spend. They may reach their goal in the course of time, but it will be by spasmodic advances, rather than steady plodding. They jump rather than walk. They need a steadying hand to keep them doing the things they set out to do.

"The fourth group embodies all that is desirable and wholesome in the Christmas savings idea. These people save systematically and continuously. They join the Christmas Savings Club, agreeing with themselves that they will lay aside a certain sum weekly—and do it. They need no prodding."

San Francisco Trading In Stocks Shows Decline

San Francisco, Jan. 2 (A.P.).—Stock trading in 1932 declined about 30 per cent under 1931 on the basis of stock sales on the San Francisco Stock Exchange. This year's total was 7,058,715 shares, compared with 9,857,057 in 1931.

Values were off more than half, $77,379,642 for 1932, against $160,870,689 in 1931, as the result of eight months of declining prices. Transamerica was the market's most active issue, with transactions of 2,919,034 shares. It fared relatively better than the average, rising from a low of 2½ in January to the year's top at 7. The close at 5½ gave it a net gain of more than 100 per cent for the year.

LUMBER INDUSTRY TO BALANCE TRADE

Offices to Be Opened Here to Bring Supply and Demand Closer.

Wilson Compton, manager of the National Lumber Manufacturers Association, announced last night that a business federation of forest industries has been formed to bring the demand for timber in balance with the supply. Headquarters will be established in this city.

The new organization will take over the trade of the extension department of the National Lumber Manufacturers Association today and more than fifteen large forest concerns within a short time. It will be known as the American Forest Products Industries, and envisions the amalgamation of 50 groups into the association.

Timber men in all sections of the country, Mr. Compton stated, have been complaining that the chief menace to the timber lands of this country was insufficient utilization. Reforestation has to be profitable, and it can be made so if industry will awaken to the extensive possibilities of lumber.

John W. Blodgett, famous lumberman, of Grand Rapids, Mich., with timber interests in the South and West, is the chairman of the board of trustees, of the new organization. Mr. Compton is president of the group and W. M. Ritter, hard-wood lumber man, with mills and offices along the East Coast and long a resident of Washington, is a member of the board of trustees.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

KING MORHO NABA, of the Mossi, in Africa, announces his intention of making war on a neighboring tribe every morning, but each morning his advisers talk him out of the idea. He has not carried out his intention yet.

According to the National Geographic Society, the same rite is performed every morning. At 7 a. m. a cannon is fired outside the royal palace, which is a signal for King Naba to rise, don his fighting togs and jump on his horse, shouting "I want to go to La." This means that he wants to go fight his traditional enemies.

When the morning ritual reaches this point a court attache advances and suggests that the king should wait until the next day before beginning the war. The king then dismounts, curses his subjects for their cowardice—and goes in for breakfast.

The Muskogee Club of the Western Association, last August, was faced with a peculiar situation—it had plenty of pitchers, but did not have anything for them to throw. The problem was solved temporarily, at least, when the club traded George Hubbell, a left-hander, to the Hutchinson team for four baseballs. Muskogee then beat Hutchinson 12 to 2.

A sequel to the strange deal was written a week later when Hubbell, in a Hutchinson uniform, pitched a shut-out victory over his old team. He allowed but six hits, and won the game, 10 to 0.

TECHNOCRACY.

THE price of stocks was falling fast
As through the great depression passed
A youth who bore, 'mid howl and whine,
A banner with the magic line,
TECHNOCRACY!

His brow was high (an all-time height);
His eye was burning tiger-bright.
Of energy per cap. he sang
And ended with a grand old bang—
TECHNOCRACY!

"Try not the peak!" the old man said;
"It isn't here—we're in the red!"
The youth held up a staggered chart
And uttered from his lion heart,
TECHNOCRACY!

"Oh, stay," the maiden said, "and rest
Thy weary head upon this breast!"
The young man read the market's range
And sought another Social Change,
TECHNOCRACY!

A traveler by the faithful hound
(Who fed on ticker tape) was found
Buried beneath a giant graph.
But managed at the last to laugh:
TECHNOCRACY!

Firemen Called Out For Burning Dinner

After putting her dinner on to cook, Mrs. Elmer Peterson, 2114 N street northwest, yesterday afternoon left her apartment on an errand.

She closed the door as a matter of precaution. When she returned she found the door had locked, and she smelled her dinner burning.

CENTRAL HIGH GIVES MERIT CERTIFICATES TO FAMOUS ALUMNI

Dr. Sze and Three Others Are Honored at School's Annual Reunion.

More than 500 alumni and students of Central High School participated in the twenty-fourth annual reunion of the alumni association of the school yesterday and heard four former students, who have distinguished themselves, ascribe at least part of their success to the scholastic and social background obtained there.

Prominent in their respective fields of endeavor, the quartet were awarded certificates of distinction. They are Dr. Sao-Ke Alfred Sze, prominent Chinese diplomat; Marcy L. Sperry, president of the Washington Gas Light Co.; E. Claude Babcock, secretary of the United States Civil Service Commission, and Dr. Carl Caskey Speidel, professor of anatomy at the University of Virginia Medical School.

Father Attache Here.

Dr. Sze, who was awarded the certificate for his service in international affairs, was a student at the school during the time his father was attache at the Chinese Legation. He since has served his government as Ambassador to the United States and Great Britain and figured prominently in negotiations with Japan on recent Manchurian difficulties.

The certificate awarded Mr. Sperry was for his distinguished service in the field of public utilities. He is the son of Rear Admiral Charles S. Sperry, U. S. N., and has been active in the utilities field for many years, having entered the business as a student engineer and worked in many Eastern cities. He was appointed president of the local gas company last June.

Dr. Speidel Nerve Expert.

Described as one of the outstanding figures in research of nerve growth and medicine, Dr. Speidel received the award for his service in the field of medical research. The secrets of nerve growth were discovered by Dr. Speidel about a year ago and his findings from study of animal organisms setled a scientific dispute of over 70 years. He was awarded the annual research prize of the American Association for the Advancement of Science when that group met at New Orleans last January.

He was a student at Central from 1906 to 1910 and received a scholarship to Lafayette College on graduation. He also attended Princeton and Akron Universities before going to the medical school of the University of Virginia.

Dr. Babcock, honored for his services to the Government, served in five major engagements of the World War. He began his work in Federal service as a clerk in 1923 and was appointed secretary to the Civil Service Commission last July by President Hoover.

Officers Elected.

Lawrence V. Lampson, president of the alumni group, made the presentations and Maj. William E. R. Covell, a former president of the association, addressed the gathering. Officers elected were: Charles H. Bates, president of the class of '86, which has held their own yearly reunion since graduation, president; Mrs. Andrew Stewart, vice president in charge of membership; Albert E. Conradis, class of '19, vice president in charge of the alumni publications; Raymond E. Gable, class of '26, vice president in charge of social activities; Miss Mary E. Cannon, class of '30, vice president in charge of school interests; Mrs. Ruth B. Parker, class of '02, secretary, and Prof. H. H. Burrows, for many years an instructor of science of the school, treasurer.

Entertainment was provided during the day by the George Washington University Troubadours and a dance and bridge party was held.

$450 Violin Is Stolen By Parked-Car Thieves

A valuable German violin, a pair of binoculars and clothing, all valued at $733, were stolen yesterday from the car of Ludwig Balzer, 1654 Newton street northwest, while parked on LeRoy Place northwest. The violin was valued at $450 and the binoculars at $55.

Police Precinct Car In Auto Collision

A Seventh Precinct patrol car collided yesterday afternoon with the car of Mrs. Helen Jones, 33, 4419 Greenwich Parkway northwest, at Twenty-ninth and Q streets northwest. Mrs. Jones' glasses were broken when she was thrown against the windshield, but she was uninjured and no other damage was done. The patrol car was driven by Private N. J. Geary.

Theater Chiefs Today Will Appear in Court

Theater managers day will be celebrated in Police Court this morning.

The managers of all theaters that remained open after midnight on New Year's Eve have been invited to be present or forfeit $25 collateral. Morton Weil, manager of the dance marathon at the Washington Auditorium, has also been asked to attend.

SCHOOLS IN CAPITAL WILL REOPEN TODAY

Officials Facing Congestion at Eastern, Western and Eliot Junior High.

School bells will ring in the new year for more than 80,000 children today when they return to their classes in local public schools after a ten-day Christmas holiday.

School officials will be faced with the problem of avoiding congestion and double schedules in many of the schools, while those pupils due to graduate at the end of this month will be debating whether to return to school for postgraduate courses or launch out into a world where employment is harder to find than ever before. Many who wish to go to college will be unable to do so because of lack of funds.

Dr. Stephen E. Kramer, assistant superintendent of schools, said last night that no difficulty is expected in January in accommodating pupils, but that the situation will become more serious in February after the midyear graduations.

Eastern High School and the Eliot Junior High School, nearby, are expected to be the most seriously taxed, an indication of an apparent migration to the Southeast section of the city. Enrollment at Eastern, now 2,500, is expected to be increased by 300 at this time.

The new Roosevelt High School's present enrollment of 1,500 is expected to be swelled by 300 additional pupils. Western is expected to have an enrollment of 1,800. Western and Eastern are the schools in danger of severe congestion, Dr. Kramer said. The Roosevelt, Central and McKinley will be able to hold their own, he said. Every effort will be made, the assistant superintendent promised, to avoid a stagger system at any of the schools.

Congestion at Alice Deal Junior High School will necessitate use of nearby buildings for classes, Dr. Kramer announced.

Reception Missed By Two 'Regulars'

Pioneer Visitors Appear at White House to Look Around.

Lest old acquaintance be forgot, two old faithfuls appeared at the White House yesterday morning to mourn cancellation of the annual presidential reception.

They were J. W. Hunefeld, a painter, of 225 C street northeast, who wanted to maintain his record of being first in line for the reception, and J. W. Blaisdell, of Cheverley, Md., G. A. R. veteran, who attended his first New Year's Day reception when President Lincoln was in the White House.

Mr. Blaisdell told Policeman Earl Reynolds, of the White House police, that he just wanted to take one more look at the house in which Lincoln once lived. An exclusive story, in which Mr. Blaisdell told of his experiences at his first reception, appeared in last Sunday's Post. The reception was not held yesterday because of the absence from the city of President and Mrs. Hoover.

Inquest Set Today In Roomer Slaying

An inquest will be held at 11 a. m. today into the death of Luigi Fagnani, 45, who was shot to death early Sunday by Eddie Fagiola, 47, of 115 D street northwest, during a quarrel. After shooting Fagnani, a roomer in his home, Fagiola shot himself in a suicidal attempt.

Murder charges have been placed against Fagiola, who is still in serious condition at Gallinger Hospital.

An inquest also will be held in the death of Thurber Battle, 29, of 1709 Wynds court northwest, who was found fatally injured in his home Sunday afternoon. He apparently had been struck with an ax.

Policeman Fells His One-Time Marine Superior in Cafe Dispute.

Washington police can chalk up one clean-cut victory over the Marine Corps. It was scored in this manner:

Sergt. Talmage Madison, 38, of the Marine Barracks, found a dish of chop suey served him at the Hong Kong Low Restaurant, Ninth and D streets northwest, failed to suit his taste. He declared it was not properly prepared. He refused to pay for it. He also refused to leave the restaurant and started an altercation with the manager.

Responding to a call for police, Private J. A. Burgess found the Marine menacing the manager with a .45-caliber Army revolver. The policeman waded in with his fists and landed a haymaker, breaking the Marine's jaw and knocking him cold.

But the Marine Corps probably can get some consolation for the fact that Burgess is a former Marine and was welterweight champion of his company. He served from 1922 to 1927 and while a member of a gas company was under Sergt. Madison at the Quantico Marine Barracks.

Burgess says he did not recognize his old sergeant when he struck him. That's his story.

Y. M. C. A. OBSERVES ANNUAL OPEN HOUSE

Hundreds Throng Building for Music and Sports Entertainment.

A varied program of sports and entertainment featured the annual open house of the Y. M. C. A. yesterday, held in celebration of the new year.

The hundreds of men, women and children who visited the Central "Y" during the day were regaled with music, movies, dancing, athletic contests and exhibitions and a swimming pageant.

The celebration was opened with championship game tournaments by the boys' department. The newly organized Y. M. C. A. symphony orchestra gave its first public concert in the afternoon, followed by concerts by the Y. M. C. A. Glee Club, the Foundry M. E. Church choir and Justin Lawrie, tenor soloist of the church.

The Y. M. C. A. dramatic club presented a short play under the direction of Miss Lillian Krause. The religious work department sponsored a movie, "Pathways in Palestine," and the educational department staged a children's movie show of animated cartoon comedies.

Horse Hurt

Skins Leg When Flooring in Foot-Bridge Breaks; Girl Rider Unhurt.

Suspension foot bridges—at least the one back of the yaks' cage in the Zoo—are not safe for horses, Miss Greta Williams learned yesterday when her mount plunged a hind foot through the flooring of the span.

Attempting to take a short cut from the bridle path on one side of Rock Creek to the other, Miss Williams had ridden her horse nearly across the narrow foot bridge when the floor boards broke. The Fire Rescue Squad was called by Park Policeman C. P. Loyd and worked almost an hour to extricate the horse.

Miss Williams, who lives at 614 C street northeast, was uninjured in the accident, although the horse's leg was skinned. The animal is owned by the Barr Riding Stable at Twenty-ninth and K streets northwest.

Youth Crashes Window In Jumping From Roof

Crashing through a basement window when he jumped from a roof at 508 Eighth street southeast, Sidney Scribner, 13, of 926 Seventh street southeast, late yesterday suffered severe lacerations to his legs and body. The basement window projected at the bottom and slanted.

The boy had been playing on the roof, evidently did not note that when he jumped.

He was taken to Providence hospital by Policeman W. B. Edwards.

100 POLICE CHOSEN FOR LAW STUDY IN COLUMBUS U. CLASS

Those With Longest Record in Service Are Given Preference.

Out of more than 200 seeking to matriculate in the police law class at Columbus University, 100 policemen have been selected, including officers and detectives.

A total of 57 officers, sergeants, detective sergeants and 43 privates were designated to enter the class.

In the selection of the privates, Inspector Frank S. W. Burke, chief of detectives, who was instrumental in organization of the law class, said the first idea was to accommodate an equal number of men from each precinct and bureau and, second, those with the longest service record were given the preference.

The school will be under direction of John Fitzpatrick, dean of the Columbus University School of Law and United States attorney for the District of Columbia. Fitzpatrick is donating his services and Columbus University is placing its facilities at the disposal of the Police Department without charge.
